Printers-City Planner Fight With Hot Words

By JOHN KUGLIN
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

City Planning Commissioner O. F. Shepard has blasted the Union Printers Home for making "irresponsible charges" about his vote against a regional shopping center on the union's land.

The charges were made by the Printers Home and Becker and Davis Construction Co., in a letter to the City Council dated April 22.

The letter accused the Planning Commission of being "arbitrary" and "capricious" and said Shepard "should have disqualified himself from sitting in judgment on the matter because of a conflict of interest."

The shopping center in question was denied at the April 15 meeting of the Planning Commission. It was proposed for 43.5 acres southwest of Pikes Peak and Garo Avenues. Becker and Davis said they would build the more than 500,000 square-foot structure.

Last Wednesday the Free Press, which is owned and subsidized by the union printers, charged:

"Planner O. F. Shepard has development interests of his own

$12 Million Damage by Earthquake

SEATTLE (AP) — Damage was estimated at $12.5 million Friday from a 45-second earthquake Thursday morning in which two men were killed by falling debris and four women suffered fatal heart attacks.

One of the women, Mrs. Audrey C. Bowman, 78, of Port Townsend on the Olympic peninsula northwest of here, died in a Port Townsend hospital Friday. The other three died during the temblor, which rocked four states and British Columbia.

Two men injured by falling rubble remained in critical condition. Others were hospitalized with less serious injuries.

The Small Business Administration in Washington, D.C., declared all sections of Washington State which suffered earthquake damage disaster areas. This permits businesses, homeowners, churches and charitable institutions to apply

House Group Reminds DOD Of Authority

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Armed Services Committee waved the flag of congressional authority Friday in its dispute with the Pentagon over who's boss. Then it approved Defense Department requests for funds.

The committee took the unusual step of starting out its report to authorize funds for military procurement and research by citing chapter and verse of its constitutional authority "to raise and support armies . . . to provide and maintain a Navy."

The report and a statement on the procurement bill were made public Friday after the committee voted to authorize $15,303,400,000 to buy aircraft, missiles and ships and to develop weapons of the future.

The committee approved the measure after agreeing to retrace its steps and to restore most of the $654 million it cut March 23 from Pentagon requests. Most of those cuts — $504.6 million — were for pro-

Wilson Enters Innocent Plea

Nicholas Billy Wilson, 32, 1502 Cheyenne Blvd., who has already pleaded innocent to voluntary manslaughter will be tried June 29.

Wilson is accused of shooting Richard Lee Rossie, 36, Cascade, at the dead man's former wife's home, Carol M. Rossie, 32, Creek Road, Chipita Park, Monday.

According to a sheriff's report Rossie had broken into the house and was attacking Mrs. Rossie. The bullet, said the report, was fired from a .270 caliber Winchester and severed the heart.

At the time of the killing Rossie still had a restraining order against him issued by district court which forbade him to visit his ex-wife.

Sales Tax Rebate Plan Reported Set for State

By GORDON G. GAUSS

DENVER (AP) — A House-Senate legislative conference committee working on a bill to increase Colorado's state sales tax from 2 per cent to 3 per cent has decided to give rebates to offset the tax paid on food.

Democrats have insisted on the point. Gov. John A Love has asked that all the increased sales tax money be used for replacing local property taxes for public schools.

The committee has not yet made its report to the legislature. However, Sen. Edwin S. Lamm, R-Grand Junction, a committee member, told reporters that the agreement had been reached. Lamm said he refused to go along with the plan and has told the committee he will not sign the conference report. His signature, however, is not needed to send it back to the House and Senate for action.

Lamm said that late Friday the committee still was debating whether to make the rebate $6 per person or $7 per person, as asked by Sen. Roy Romer, D-Denver.

The committee is expected to finalize its report Saturday. Its findings may open the way for agreement on the long appropriations bill — which a conference committee has been studying for two weeks.

One source said the decision on the spending bill is likely to be close to the program favored by the Democratic majority in the House of Representatives, and that Sen. Harry Locke, R-Hartsel, probably will refuse to agree to the findings. Locke is chairman of the legislature's Joint Budget Committee and is one of the authors of the Senate-approved Locke-Shoemaker bill, which called for lower spending levels.

Lamm said that under the tax plan discussed in the conference committee, the sales tax should bring in about $34 million annually, that refunds would nullify about $12 million of this amount, and that most of the remainder of the money would

Security Sets Watering Hours

Security's new summer watering hours became effective this morning.

Beginning today and continuing until further notice, Security residents will be allowed to water lawns and gardens between 5 and 8 a.m., and 5 and 8 p.m., seven days a week. The board members of the Security Water District decided to install the daily watering program on a trial basis and, at the same time, enforce more stringent laws against violators.

The new watering hours will be kept in force until board members and Thomas K. Remple, manager of the Security Water District, feel the drain on the community's water supply has become too great. Then the previous alternate-day watering policy would probably be installed for the remainder of the summer.

Board members, in announcing the new daily watering regulation, warned residents that a mandatory installation of a water meter would be the penalty for breaking the new regulation.

Two Sentenced To State Pen

Five defendants were sentenced, two of them to the state penitentiary Friday, by District Judge David W. Enoch.

Harvey J. Spencer received a four to six years term in the penitentiary for burglary and a further four to six for larceny, both to run concurrently.

Spencer, 34, formerly of 106 W. Brookside St., was charged with the Oct. 8 breakin at the Fountain High School when $632 in cash and a $300 movie camera were stolen. He was found guilty March 11.

Truman Tommy Mathews, 27, 1019 Manitou Ave., was given a sentence of two to four years in the penitentiary for burglary.

At first the defendant was charged with burglary and larceny and was alleged to have broken into Courtesy Motors, 306 S. Nevada Ave. The dismissed count accused him of conspiring with Curtis Lee Dean, 29, 6 Hopi Dr. who has pleaded innocent and will be tried May 11.

Testimony was given by Det. Richard Anderson of the police department who said that clothing and keys were taken from the office of Courtesy Motors and a car from the lot.

Defense attorney Sandy Kramer told the court that Mathews was drunk at the time of the incident and had been drunk from August 1963 right up until offense.

Before passing sentence Judge Enoch said that the defendant had two previous felony convictions and that drinking seemed to be more the problem rather than any criminal intent. The judge urged Mathews to join AA when he was in the penitentiary.

Leonard Duane Hamilton, 30, 421 Valley Way, who pleaded guilty to the Dec. 21 burglary of the Beefeaters Feb. 19 was sentenced to three to five years in the penitentiary and then put on probation.

The judge said Hamilton had no previous record and that the Car Struck By Bullets

A car eastbound on Costilla Avenue Wednesday night was hit twice by bullets fired from the side of the road, the driver reported to police Friday.

Joseph I. Duran, 831 E. Colorado Ave., told police he was driving east on Costilla Avenue at approximately 8:30 p.m. Wednesday and had just passed under the underpass in the 500 block. He said he heard three shots and could see the fire from the muzzle of the gun, but didn't realize his car had been hit until he washed it Thursday.

One of the bullets hit the left fender of the car and the other passed through the sun visor on the outside of the car but did not penetrate the roof. Police said the bullet holes were of approximately .32 caliber.

No estimate was made as to the amount of damage done to the car. Duran said he was traveling at approximately 25 miles per hour at the time, and didn't stop. He added that he couldn't identify anyone who might have shot at him.

Abel Is Steelworkers Chief

I. W. ABEL

PITTSBURGH (AP) — I.W. Abel has been declared winner of the United Steelworkers' bitter presidential election today, but defeated incumbent David J. McDonald vowed to contest the result "to the fullest extent."

"I cannot abandon my responsibilities to the United Steelworkers of America," McDonald told a news conference Friday shortly after the union's three international tellers declared Abel winner by 10,142 votes. The election was Feb. 9.

Abel, 56, veteran of early union organizing who has been the union's No. 2 man since McDonald took office in 1952, brushed aside McDonald's prospects of overturning the election.

"We have demonstrated admirably up to this point that the

By LOUIS UCHITELLE

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Sniper fire killed two U.S. Marines and wounded other American troops Friday as combined U.S. and Dominican forces advanced block by block through heavy irregular opposition to set up an "international safety zone."

By nightfall, leftist rebels seeking the return of exiled ex-President Juan D. Bosch still held more than half of this old Spanish colonial capital.

The U.S. forces suffered their first casualties since they began landing here Wednesday. These came after they joined with regular Dominican troops in launching a two-prong movement into the downtown area from east and west.

The action brought U.S. servicemen in combat together for the first time with troops of Brig. Gen. Elias Wessin y Wessin, commander of the newly installed military junta.

A Marine column of tanks and amphibious vehicles came under heavy fire as it pushed off from the seaside El Embajador Hotel at the western end of the city to carve out a zone designated earlier in the day by the Organization of American States as a haven for refugees from the fighting.

Another clash occurred as newly arrived paratroopers of the U.S. 82nd Airborne Division joined Wessin's men at the strategic Duarte Bridge over the Ozama River at the eastern end of the city. The span is the only direct link with Wessin's headquarters at San Isidro Air Base, 20 miles away, and the river's eastern bank in Santo Domingo.

Because the ragtag army of armed civilians and rebel soldiers dominated much of Santo Domingo's historic downtown sector, helicopters provided the only supply line between the U.S. Embassy and the San Isidro base. The U.S. military

No Peace For India, Pakistan

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India and Pakistan, the quarreling giants of southern Asia, deadlocked Friday on cease-fire proposals to end fighting in the Rann of Kutch.

Combat was limited for the third consecutive day and it was reported the United States and Britain exerted heavy pressure on both nations to call off the hostilities.

But blood ran hot on both sides of the frontier and few responsible officials in New Delhi — foreign or Indian — would predict what the future holds for India's 480 million people and Pakistan's 110 million.

Pakistan's government charged that Indian troops have stepped up military activity in Kashmir, reinforcing frontier

Permits for Buildings at High for Year

Building permits issued by the El Paso County Planning Commission swelled to a valuation totaling $3,252,448 in April — highest for the year.

Of the 167 permits issued, one was for construction of a $386,000 Safeway Store at 3165 W. Colorado Ave. Two other permits, totaling $930,000, were for construction of school building facilities in District 20, the Air Academy district.

A $780,000 permit was issued for East Junior High School and a $150,000 permit for Chapel Hills Elementary School.

Valuation for permits issued during January was $1,426,650; February, $1,140,648, and March, $1,383,965.25. The Planning Commission issued 478 permits during the first four months of 1965.

April's totals include 11 commercial permits valued at $541,975 represented by three office buildings, Pizza Hut at 1605 S. Nevada Ave.; addition to a shopping center at 2300 E. Platte and concrete mixing plant.

Permits issued for apartments-hotels included a $1,200,976 126-unit structure, a 26-unit $160,000 apartment and a $700,000 73-unit building. A total of five such permits and planned construction totaled $2,115,976.

The total for dwellings was 66 permits and valuation of $963,500. Ten permits issued for trailers totaled $627,650; 16 additions totaled $35,840 and accessories, 46 permits and $27,612.

Wife Claims Husband Home on Day of Crime

Mrs. Frank Rinsley Moore testified on behalf of her husband in district court Friday and said he was with her on April 15, 1963, the day of the armed robbery with which the defendant has been charged.

Mrs. Moore told the court that she, her husband and the two children were all together at their home in Ft. Worth, Tex., that day and that she spent almost the entire time with him. In the evening they all had dinner together she said with two friends one of whom was ill in hospital and unable to testify and another who was ill at home in Texas.

She remembered the occasion so well, she explained, as they were making preparations for a birthday party for her son who was then three years old.

The daughter of the witness, 15-year-old Jackie, also gave similar testimony.

Defendant Moore, 31, testified and repeated his wife's testimony. He also accused an FBI agent, a police officer and five men who had identified him as one of the men who robbed the REA Express office in Colorado Springs as liars.

Earlier Friday in the presence of the jury the FBI agent said he saw Moore in Dallas jail on May 21, 1963 when Moore made an oral confession admitting his part in the stick-up.

The witness said Moore told him he had received a telephone call from two brothers in Denver who had said they "had a helluva good story to make." and later Moore joined them in Denver.

The FBI agent continued say-

Col. Cloud Considered For City Job

Col. Howard Cloud Jr., commander of Ent Air Force Base, is being considered by City Manager John M. Biery for the job of assistant to the city manager.

The post is not yet established. An ordinance to approve a pay grade for an assistant on special operations was passed April 27 by the City Council.

It would have to be approved on second reading by the council before the $800 to $1,250 a month position could be filled. The next regular council session is May 11.

Col. Cloud told the Gazette Telegraph Friday night that he had been considered for the job by Biery and was giving it serious consideration.

"I might not accept the position," Cloud said, "I have received another offer."

This offer is business manager of Jefferson County Schools.

Councilwoman Betty Krouse said that any assistant to the city manager would be hired by

Peak Highway Open Today

The Pikes Peak Highway has been cleared of deep snow and will be open to public travel starting at 9 a.m. today.

Highway Superintendent Jack Sullivan said thousands of tons of wet, heavy snow had been removed from the highway and motorists should experience no trouble from snow or ice.

A trip up to the 14,110-foot summit at this time of year is an unforgetable experience because of the snow and mountanous drifts along some of the inside shoulders of the highway, he said.

For the time being, the toll gate above Cascade will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The hours will be extended later in the season.

The highway was officially opened for the season last Saturday but had to be closed at 3 p.m. Sunday because of the storm, which left more than three feet of snow on the ground and deeper in some places because of drifting.

The summit house is open for business.

Congress Backs LBJ in Dominica

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional leaders Friday generally endorsed President Johnson's action in sending U. S. troops into the strife - torn Dominican Republic, but there was little agreement on how long the troops should stay.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower also announced his support of the action. Eisenhower, returning to his Gettysburg, Pa., farm after four months in California, said he considered the action "sensible" and he had no criticism.

Southern congressmen were particularly emphatic in their support of the President's action. Most said the U. S. troops should stay in the island nation

Abel Named President of Steelworkers

Steelworkers are united," Abel said.

He indicated that his immediate goal would be to get back to bargaining over a new contract with basic steel May 18.

"The task of negotiating and completing agreements with the steel industry is among the immediate challenges we face, he said.

McDonald said he would protest the election to the union executive board, which is expected to give him a hearing within three weeks. He said the board is empowered to order a new vote in locals where irregularities are found.

The 33-member board is controlled by Abel supporters. McDonald declined to say if he would carry his protest to the U.S. Labor Department and seek a new election under the Landrum-Griffin Act if the board goes against him .

No matter what McDonald does, it is not expected to delay Abel from taking office June 1.

McDonald, 62, appeared relaxed and jovial after the announcement that marked the first official word that his 12-year rule was ending.

He attacked only the report of the tellers and made no comment about Abel.

This was in contrast to the bitter give and take of the campaign which forced a two-month recess in basic steel negotiations and was blamed by the industry for bringing the nation to the brink of a steel strike just this week.

The tellers report gave no breakdown of the total vote by the 29 union districts. But it appeared that most of Abel's majority came from Canadian locals.

McDonald appeared to have won the important basic steel industry, which employs more than 450,000 of the union's one million members. The rest of the membership works for independent steel firms, fabricators, can and aluminum companies and other operations.

More than 600,000 Steelworkers voted. The tellers reported that Abel polled 308,910 to 298,768 for McDonald.

The delay in the formal announcement of a winner was caused by protests of voting irregularities. The tellers traveled around the country hearing some 150 such protests. Out of these hearings the vote in only four locals was invalidated.

At his news conference, McDonald confirmed that he spent several hours Thursday talking with Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz in Washington.

Sources close to McDonald said the purpose of the meeting was to sound out Wirtz on his enthusiasm for investigating the election.

The results of the meeting reportedly were inconclusive.

"We made no appeal and no plans of any sort," McDonald said.

for 3 per cent loans for repairs or rebuilding.

In Olympia, Gov. Dan Evans said he would make a detailed investigation early next week before deciding whether to declare a disaster, making the state eligible for additional federal aid.

The damage estimate by the state Civil Defense department put the financial loss at half the amount suffered during the state's last major earthquake, on April 13, 1949. That one killed eight persons in addition to doing $25 million in damage.

The Civil Defense department estimated damage at $8.2 million to private property and $4.2 million to public facilities. The latter figure included cracks in the rotunda of the state capitol.

ing Moore told him he had accompanied the two men to Colorado Springs in a stolen car and held up the express company. According to Moore he received $15 in cash, $1,600 in travelers checks and a revolver as proceeds from the robbery. The vehicle was then abandoned and the trio went back to Denver.

The defendant is also alleged to have told the witness the two brothers said they had "cased" a Denver bank and that Moore had answered he was not interested in bank robberies.

When Moore took the stand late Friday he flatly denied ever making any of these statements and admitted to counsel for the defense C.C. Divine that within the last 10 years he had been convicted of a fedral felony, interstate transportation of false securities.

He flatly denied having been in Colorado Springs April, 1963 and ever having made any confession to the FBI agent. The witness said he was arrested May 21 by an Arkansas state policeman. The officer, Glenn Owens testified Thursday.

According to Moore he was driving with a friend called Herschel Crocker who was wanted in Texas for parole violation. The officer had stopped the pair for a routine license check and on Thursday he testified Moore pulled a gun on him and was then arrested. The gun was identified as the one taken from the REA Express office.

Moore denied ever pulling a gun on Owens and said Owens was waving a gun at him and Crocker. He also said he had never seen the gun before and that it belonged to Crocker.

He then went on to repeat much of his testimony given Thursday in the jury's absence telling how he was transferred to Dallas, was handcuffed and shackled, beaten up several times by police officers and his requests, about 100, for an attorney, denied. He testified he lost count of the number of days he was in jail without being allowed to see his wife or an attorney.

During cross - examination conducted by District Attorney Bob Russel he said that State Policeman's Owen's remark concerning Moore pointing a gun at him was "a lie," adding "He knows it's a lie."

Moore went on to say that the FBI agent was lying and he felt the man "had a feeling of enmity against him."

Referring to his alleged beating by the Dallas police the witness said to Russel "If you ever get handled by the Dallas police you're in a world of trouble." In response to a question concerning five men, the victims of the hold-up who identified Moore in court Wednesday, the witness said they had been "encouraged" by Russel and the police, adding that the district attorney and the police "had an axe to grind."

Law enforcement officers, he said earnestly were "a different breed from any othr kind of human being. I used to be naive about law enforcement. I'm not any more. I was paralyzed when I got to Dallas County Jail. Do you think that's a human being who would do that to another fellow being," he asked indignantly?

Sweeping on excitedly he said to Russel rather than the court, "There's no way on earth that I'm guilty of this case. You know it., I know it, and the whole shooting match knows it. Do a little soul searching Mr. Russel. I know it's true and you know it's true."

The court recessed at approximately five thirty and will reconvene this morning at nine. It is hoped the case will go to the jury late today.

Russel is being assisted by Deputy District Attorney Tom Gresham and Divine by Hayden Kane. Judge David W. Enoch is on the bench.

command has been set up in the embassy.

The two dead Marines fell to snipers' bullets. At least four other Leathernecks were wounded.

An unknown number of paratroopers were injured in heavy firing at the Duarte Bridge.

During the day, the rebels captured Ozama fortress, an old Spanish battlement about a mile from the bridge. The fortress had been held by some 1,800 national policemen loyal to Wessin but they collapsed under a heavy barrage. It was not known how many were killed there.

Since the start of the civil strife last weekend as many as 1,000 persons may have died.

Most of the American wounded were taken aboard the carrier Boxer in Santo Domingo Harbor. In Washington, a Pentagon spokesman said: "They obviously were seriously enough wounded to require them to be evacuated."

In other developments:

—President Johnson told a U.S. radio and television audience Friday evening the Organization of American States had worked out a cease-fire formula with the help of the papal nuncio in Santo Domingo. But Johnson said some elements were ignoring the peace effort and added "There are signs that people trained outside the Dominican Republic are seeking to gain control."

—Secretary of State Dean Rusk told newsmen earlier, after conferring with the President at the White House, that the Dominican rebellion may have some "aspects of a Communist movement." State Department officials said three Dominican Communist parties had joined with other extreme leftists in the shooting and propaganda aimed at defeating the new military junta.

—After an emergency session the OAS Council ordered Secretary-General Jose A. Mora to Santo Domingo to help put the cease-fire in effect. Former U.S. Ambassador John Bartlow Martin arrived at the San Isidro base to take up what he called a private peacemaking role.

"As a former ambassador who deeply admires the Dominican people and who feels deeply sorry for their plight," he said, "I decided to come as a private citizen to see what help I could contribute." After his arrival in a presidential Jetstar plane, Martin headed for the U.S. Embassy.

—Cuba asked for action by Secretary-General U Thant at U.N. headquarters in New York to prevent what it called moves toward total U.S. military occupation of the Dominican Republic. The Castro regime said it feels that "the military occupation which is being prepared cannot be ignored by the Security Council of the United Nations, or by its General Assembly."

Papal Nuncio Emmanuel Clarico — the Vatican's diplomatic representative in Santo Domingo — flew by helicopter with U.S. Ambassador W. Tapley Bennet to San Isidro to meet with the new junta on a cease-fire.

It was presumed the papal envoy may have had some contact with the rebels. In Washington, the OAS said Clarico had telephoned encouraging prospects for a truce.

One of the rebel strongholds is at the Santo Domingo Cathedral, in the old part of the city.

This old quarter has bred many insurgent movements during the 32-year dictatorship of Rafael L. Trujillo, who was assassinated in 1961.

Along with units of the 82nd and 101st Airborne divisions, U.S. transport planes landed tons of food and medicine for the beleaguered city.

posed research and development projects.

Reportedly one reason for the reduction then was an attempt to find money in the budget to provide a $1-billion pay raise for servicemen which is sought by Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C.

Rivers, a source said, told the committee the money is being restored because Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and other defense officials have returned to the committee and given a full and detailed explanation of what the money will be used for.

Methodists To Hear Dr. Lehmberg

Returning to his pulpit after a very brief vacation, Dr. Lehmberg, at 8:25 and 10:55 Sunday morning at the First Methodist Church, will preach on the subject, "Leaping Over a Wall!" An unusual opportunity will be presented to the members of First Methodist Church in having the Salvation Army Tabernacle (All Brass) Band of Hollywood, Calif., play sacred music for the first half of the worship service, both at 8:25 and 10:55.

At the 7 a.m. service the Rev. Richard Long will preach on the subject of The Bible in the Home." This is the beginning of National Family Week and this is a timely subject for that occasion.

On Sunday night Dr. Lehmberg begins a series of sermons based on the quadrennial program of the Methodist Church. This program has the title, One Witness in One World." The book by Bishop Short, also entitled One Witness in One World" based on the letter to the Ephesians will be the source of the study. Following the evening service on each of the Sunday evenings as long as this series is presented there will be a discussion period in the church parlor for those who wish to remain and discuss some of the questions raised by this study.

On Sunday night for the first of four messages based on the quadrennial program, Dr. Lehmberg will speak on the subject, One Lord of All People."

Other messages in the series are on May 16 when the subject is, One World under One Lord;" on May 23, One People — the Methodists;" and May 30, Oneness in the Local Congregation."

The book by Dr. Short is available in the church office for people to read in preparation for this series of messages.

Congress Backs LBJ in Dominica

to prevent a Communist takeover.

Sen. J. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., hailed it as a "refreshing difference" from past U.S. action in Latin American crisis and said "it has been many years since Americans have had occasion for such pride and confidence in the handling of such a crisis."

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., said the United States should put aside its "moralist attitude in foreign policy."

"If we continue to look for a George Washington in every uprising, we shall continue to be rewarded with Castros," Ellender said.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk told newsmen after two hours of briefing the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on Viet Nam that he would not call the Dominican uprising a "second Communist front." But he said there were "a few individuals down there who would give an appearance of international communism" in the revolt.

Some congressmen, however, said they considered the rebellion to be Communist inspired.

Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, said U.S. forces prevented a takeover by Communists directed by Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

Others were not so sure.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., said he assumed U.S. forces could be withdrawn once U.S. civilians are evacuated and there is a "stable government in that country." Mansfield said the Organization of American States (OAS) should be primarily responsible for obtaining a cease-fire.

Two Sentenced To State Pen

worst part of his offense was trying to escape. The defendant was shot in the leg by Deputy Sheriff Dave Sturgeon at the time. Judge Enoch remarked that his attempted escape could have endangered the lives of any possible bystanders.

Anthony Augusto Sanchez, 22, 95 Security Circle received a suspended sentence of not more than 15 years in the state reformatory was then put on probation.

Sanchez pleaded guilty March 26 to being in possession of a narcotic drug.

According to Det. Sgt. Thomas Kosley who testified, Sanchez was first picked up for being drunk and when he was searched at the police station some marajuana cigarettes were found on him. Sanchez told the officer he was not a habitual user and that he had only smoked one of the cigarettes.

Judge Enoch remarked that his past record was far from good even if he did have no felony convictions. The judge cited various past offenses which include joyriding, drunkenness, approximately three convictions for driving while under suspension and disturbance.

Charles Lund, 18, Ft. Carson was sentenced to six months in county jail and then was given probation.

Lund pleaded guilty April 9 to petty larceny. The original charge was larceny from a motor vehicle but this was dismissed by the district attorney's office when the defendant pleaded guilty.

According to the charge he stole a $25 electric razor from a car belonging to Verle C. Hatton, Dec. 18.

Lund has already spent more than four months in jail. In 1958 he was involved in what the judge described as "an infraction of the law," but later the charge was dropped.

within about 800 yards of the Union Printers Home land being considered for rezoning."

This charge was made by the Free Press. It has not been made at any public meeting of the City Council or Planning Commission.

Shepard denied Thursday that he has development interests near the Union Printers Home, in a letter to Mayor Harry Hoth and the council.

"The closest area that I am personally interested in is 1¼ miles distance," Shepard said. distance," Shepard said.

"The record will show that I questioned whether I should vote on the matter in advance of the vote — and was not asked to be excused." Shepard said.

"My vote reflected my honest feelings on the matter insofar as over-all good planning principles," Shepard said, "and the best interests of the surrounding neighborhood and the entire community.

"The record will show that I voted for their (Printers Home) requests at the time they requested consideration for their K-Mar (40 acres) and their Systems Development building.

"Perhaps they (Printers Home) would have asked me to excuse myself prior to the vote — except they assumed I would be voting yes for them again. In my opinion this proves that had I been interested in voting from a conflict of interest, I could have done so long ago."

Shepard said his vote against the proposed shopping center was largely because 29 acres of the shopping center zone at the K-Mart location is still undeveloped.

Shepard is vice president of the Shepard Land Co. which has, on occasions, acted as agent for the Sproul Development Co. He is also president of Shepard Styled Homes.

Cash, Items Taken From Local Hotel

A baby's playpen, a woman's suit, and $35 in cash were taken from the Savoy Motel April 24, police reported.

Mrs. Leon Mickey, manager of the hotel located at 24 S. Nevada Ave. told police she was on vacation from April 13 until Thursday, and when she returned she discovered that a tenant at the hotel had left, and had apparently taken a play pen and a woman's suit valued at a total of $45 with her.

Mrs. Mickey said three withdrawal slips in the cash drawer for $35.10 were also listed to the tenant who left. She said the withdrawal slips were unauthorized.

An employe in charge of the hotel while Mrs. Mickey was away told police the woman who allegedly took the missing goods left April 24.

Police are looking for a woman identified as June Stoneking, 26, five feet two inches tall, with dark hair, and wearing glasses.

No Peace For India, Pakistan

units and building new bunkers along the cease-fire line in that border state. It said eight Indians were killed in two skirmishes Monday and Tuesday 150 miles northwest of Rawalpindi.

President Johnson's special envoy, Henry Cabot Lodge, arriving in New Delhi on a trip scheduled earlier to explain the U.S. Viet Nam policy, also discussed the kutch fighting with Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri on Friday night.

Lodge told Shastri that Washington views with regret India's conflict with its neighbor, informed sources said, and emphasized the United States supports Britain's mediation.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Britain has been in contact with both Shastri and President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan, calling for a withdrawal from the combat zone by both sides, a cease-fire and talks.

A Pakistani spokesman in Rawalpindi said Ayub rejected truce terms suggested by Shastri and feels India is an aggressor nation.

One of Shastri's reported proposals is that India withdraw its troops from the disputed wasteland fronting on the Arabian Sea and replace them with police units — which in India are heavily armed. He wants restoration of the situation that prevailed before the shooting started April 9.

Numerous Items Taken From Cars

Fishing tackle, clothing and auto accessories valued at a total of $90 were taken from two cars parked in front of the owner's home between 10:30 p.m. Thursday and 7 a.m. Friday, police reported.

Maxwell A. Meyer, 321 E. Willamette Ave., told police the articles were in a 1964 model car and a 1941 model car, both belonging to him, which were parked in front of his house. He said neither car was locked at the time of the burglary.

Among the missing articles here three fiberglass fishing poles, five spinning reels, a tackle box, a jacket, three pairs of pants, two side mirrors, and a set of tire chains.

Mississippi Crest Moves on Burlington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Mississippi River crest swelled toward Burlington, Iowa, and the already submerged town of Gulfport, Ill., Friday on its record flood rampage which has caused an estimated $10 million in damage between Dubuque, Iowa and Hannibal, Mo.

The preliminary damage estimate was made by U.S. Army Engineers.

The flood, still maintaining high-water pressure on walls and earthworks of Dubuque, Clinton and Davenport, Iowa, and Moline, East Moline and Rock Island, Ill., upstream, passed Muscatine on Thursday night.

The river, running seven to eight feet above its overflow stages, put levees at Keithsburg and Oquawka, Ill., to their maximum tests. Each town has about 1,000 residents.

At Keithsburg, Jodo Hainaut, secretary of the town's main industrial firm, Cannon Bronze Corp., said the plant employing 100 persons was safe as a 20.38-foot record stage, nearly 8.5 feet above flood, was recorded.

The apparent critical point downstream was at Niota, Ill., across the river from Fort Madison, Iowa, where Town Supervisor F.W. Smith said about 500 dike workers "don't know for sure whether we're winning or losing."

Here, there was a continual battle to reinforce soft spots that developed in the earthen dike protecting the Illinois Highway 96 approach to the Fort Madison Bridge across the Mississippi. Also at stake were the homes of 200 residents.

A crest of 21 feet, two feet higher than the previous record was expected Saturday. Fort Madison, on high ground, was secure.

The crest, expected Sunday at Quincy, subject to continuing revision, was projected Friday at 22.5 feet. Quincy's 45,000 residents were snug on a bluff well above the stream.

Just to the north and south of Quincy, however, backwaters spread over 15,000 acres of farmland and surrounded industrial plants, still protected by their individual dikes. The cropland was expected to be a total loss this year to owners because of the mud cake drying bottomlands leave after such a flood.

Col. Cloud Considered For City Job

Biery. "That's not our department," she said.

"Col. Cloud is certainly in a good position to help with the airport," she said.

A Tuesday city news release said that the assistant to the city manager's duties would include the move of civilian terminal facilities to the west side of Peterson Field. Biery said that the assistant's work on the airport, alone, would take about 18 months.

Up to now, Public Works Director Maurice Pierce has been helping Biery and other officials with airport problems and planning.

Mrs. Krouse said that it was not the feeling of the council that the assistant's post would automatically be a stepping stone to city manager.

"We're going to start interviewing people as soon as possible for city manager," she said.

Biery is due for retirement in November 1966, officials say.

Col. Cloud was assistant chief of staff of the Air Defense Command since July 1959. He was named commander of the 4600th Air Base Wing, Ent Air Base, effective March 1963.

He has been active in civic affairs, including the presidency of the Pikes Peak Region Boy Scout Council.

Tools Reported Missing From Garage

Tools valued at approximately $50 were stolen from a garage sometime prior to Friday, police reported.

Willis M. Patterson, 2821 Country Club Dr. told police he used the tools approximately one week prior to Friday and left them in a metal box on a work table in his attached garage. He said he looked for them Friday and discovered they were missing. According to the report, the garage doors were often left open, and Patterson said nothing else was missing.

Among the missing tools were a set of socket wrenches and a set of end wrenches.

Woman Says She Took Wrong Pills

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A housewife who says she took sleeping pills on a prescription for an oral contraceptive is suing a drug chain for $100,000.

The suit was filed against Sav-On Drugs, Inc., Thursday for Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Pearson of Whittier. Their Superior Court complaint said that as a result of a pharmacist's mistake, Mrs. Pearson, 40, is expecting a child.

The Pearsons said they were "economically and psychologically unable and unready to rear this child."

The couple lives in nearby Whittier. They said Mrs. Pearson presented the prescription for the contraceptive to a pharmacist in a store last Oct. 28.

Johnson Closes First 100 Days

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson closed out Friday the first 100 days of the White House term he won in a tidal wave of votes last November—and a typical day it was.

There was an ominous note, as there has been on many of these 100 days. For an hour Johnson conferred with Cabinet level officials on the revolt in the Dominican Republic that led to another landing of U.S. Marines and paratroopers.

As there have been through these 100 days, there were reports reaching Johnson of a booming economy and things going well at home.

It was a day on which he staged one of his walkie-talkie tours around the back yard, chatting most of the time off-the-record with reporters.

And it was a day for shaking some tourists' hands and for a surprise for the folks who work across the way in the Treasury Department. Johnson strolled over for a chat with Secretary Henry Fowler and other Treasury officials, but spent more time talking and shaking hands with run-of-the-mine employes who crowded into the halls.

CSU to Get Trianon Books

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (UPI) — The library collection at the Trianon mansion in Colorado Springs will go to Colorado State University, it was announced Friday.

Dr. A. R. Chamberlain, vice president for administration at CSU, announced the acquisition. He called the 10,000 volume collection "the finest and largest personal library ever assembled in Colorado."

The decision to give the collection to CSU apparently was the result of a failure to save the building. Funds collected to move the mansion to Denver were insufficient.

Auto Parts Worth $227 Taken at Lot

Automobile attachments valued at a total of $227.20 were stolen from cars parked on the lot of Daniels Motors, Inc., between Wednesday and Friday, police reported.

An employe of Daniels Motors, 311 S. Chestnut St., told police the equipment was taken from four cars parked in the lot for approximately a week, while the other two had been parked in the lot Wednesday. Three four-barrel carburetors valued at $60 each and two air-cleaners valued at $23.60 each were taken by the thieves.

Russ Study U.S. Move in Dominica

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet chief U.N. delegate said Friday the Russians were studying whether to do anything at the United Nations about the U.S. troop landings in the Dominican Republic. He described them as "aggression."

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko told a reporter: "This question is under our close attention."

Sales Tax Rebate Plan Reported Set go to meet higher appropriations.

About $13 million would be used the first year, Lamm said, for property tax replacement. In the next fiscal year, he said, only about $2.2 million would be available for replacement and the amount is likely to drop to around $2 million the following year.

Lamm told reporters he wants all of the added money to go to schools. He said the state can get more mileage out of payment to schools than from rebates.

During the afternoon, the Senate gave final legislative approval to the bill allowing the state to regulate irrigation wells. The vote was 29-3, following a sharp debate over conference committee recommendations which eventually were approved 21-12. The House acted on the measure Friday morning. Also approved was a companion bill on water.

Before quitting the Senate gave its approval, without dissent, to a revised version of the bill authorizing airport authorities to be set up.

Wall Street Report

NEW YORK (AP)—A slightly higher trend prevailed in the stock market late Friday afternoon. Trading was moderately active.

Volume for the day was estimated at 5.4 million shares compared with 5.58 million Thursday.

Gains of fractions to a point or so outnumbered losers but not by much.

A wide assortment of selected issues made gains of a point or better.

Steels were unchanged to slightly lower, autos narrowly mixed and oils a little higher on balance despite a fractional decline by Jersey Standard.

Prices were mostly higher in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were mixed and U.S. government bonds were mostly unchanged, both in light trading.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP)—Demand improved for grain futures today and prices held generally firm most of the time in mixed dealings on the Boards of Trade.

Analysts said the trade included considerably more transactions of the spready type, the kind in which dealers sell one contract against purchase of another. Recently it has been somewhat more one-sided in outright liquidation.

Estimated carlot receipts were wheat 1, corn 117, oats 1, rye none, barley 6 and soybeans 33.

U.N. Committee Told Not to Start Debate

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States says the special 33-nation committee on peacekeeping should not get embroiled in the debate over Article 19 that paralyzed the General Assembly.

U.S. Ambassador Charles W. Yost told the committee Article 19 — which provides that members two years in arrears on assessments should lose their assembly vote — was a matter for the assembly, not the committee.

A U.S.-Soviet impasse on whether Article 19 should be applied to the Soviet Union, France and 11 other nations objecting to the legality of past peacekeeping debts stymied the assembly's last session.

OAS Explained In Article by Associated Press

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

What is the Organization of American States which is now dealing with the crisis in the Domnican Republic?

A voluntary organization of Western Hemisphere republics, established in 1948 to deal with mutual political and economic problems.

Who are the members?

The 19 Latin-American republics and the United States. The only exceptions in the hemisphere are Cuba, which was suspended from active membership when it joined the Communist bloc; Canada, which has never sought to join; and the states of Jamaica ad Trinidad-Tobago, which have not formally applied for membership.

Where is its headquarters?

In Washington, about three blocks from the White House. Its permanent secretariat is headed by Secretary General Jose A. Mora of Uruguay.

What is the OAS Council?

It is the organization's executive body and is composed of one representative from each country, who holds the rank of ambassador. Each ambassador casts one vote. The current U.S. ambassador is veteran diplomat Ellsworth Bunker. The presidency, which rotates, is currently held by Ambassador Bunker.

What power does the OAS have?

By invoking the Inter-American Treaty of Mutual Assistance, the OAS is legally empowered to take any diplomatic initiative and even resort to force to restore peace anywhere in the Western Hemisphere.

What specific steps has the OAS Council taken recently?

Last year, it slapped strong diplomatic and economic sanctions against Fidel Castro's Cuba and warned it would be forced to use armed force if Cuba continued acts of aggression and subversion against OAS members. Earlier in the year, it mediated the dispute between the United States and Panama over the treaty governing operation of the Panama Canal.

Bullet Discovered In Back of Neck

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Billy Joe Houston, 17, Louisville, was taken to a hospital for treatment of repeated nosebleeds.

X-Rays revealed a .22 caliber bullet near the base of his skull at the back of the neck — although the only surface wound visible was a slight nick on his nose.

Police said the bullet had entered his nostril March 15 at the home of Howard Lee Gill, 18, Louisville, during a shooting incident.

Gill was arrested on a charge of malicious shooting and wounding. Thursday his case was sent on to the Jefferson County grand jury.

Buddhist Monks Arrested in Burma

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — Burma's revolutionary government has arrested another 34 Buddhist monks accused of anti-government activities, the official paper Working People's Daily said today.

The paper said the monks and five civilians were arrested Thursday at Pakokku, 300 miles north of Rangoon.

The government, in the face of increasing unrest among young Buddhists, earlier this week arrested more than 90 monks in raids across the country.

Unrest mounted following an attempt by senior Buddhist prelates — with strong government backing — to institute reforms in the clergy.

RENEWING PLYWOOD DOORS

Plywood checks when it is exposed to moisture. To fill the cracks, the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association suggests plastic wood or a good grade of filler colored to match. After cracks have been filled, they should be sanded smooth and at least two coats of varnish applied. Be sure the top of the doors are well sealed, too.

Smooth Traffic In Traditional Ranch Home

By ANDY LANG

There are times when the word "circulation," in connection with the interior layout of a house, may appear to be overworked. And occasionally it actually is. But good circulation has become so integral a part of modern design that it cannot be overlooked, repetitious though the term may be.

Many of us live in homes where the circulation, or traffic pattern, obviously received only minor or no attention in the drawing up of the original design. This is especially true in older homes, where the living room so often is a kind of thoroughfare for the movement of people in and out of the house.

Architects these days are conscious of the necessity of easing the homemaker's maintenance tasks by the creation of a good traffic pattern. The latest House of the Week is a good example. It is a large, traditionally-styled ranch, attractive and comfortable but, above all, highly convenient in layout.

The entrance vestibule in Design H-78 precedes the very sizable and gracious reception foyer, which architect Samuel Paul has made the true circulation hub of the house. Immediately adjoining in the foyer is a spacious, formal living room. At its rear, the foyer merges into a transverse hall which leads on one side to three bedrooms, a library and two baths, and on the other side to the kitchen, service and informal areas.

Rather than enclose this circulation area within walls, it has been designed so that it opens to some of the rooms that it adjoins. Take the dining room, for instance, which lies at the foot of the foyer. Two posts, with low walls and planters, serve to separate this room from the foyer yet keep the space open so that there is a long vista from the front door. The dining room is further enhanced by a projecting bay window and a built-in area for a china cabinet.

This trick of opening the circulation center to the rooms it serves, and thus avoiding dark hallways, also has been observed in the kitchen and family rooms. Although the hallway formally ends at the sliding door to the kitchen, it continues in effect through the kitchen and along one wall of the family room, out to the side entrance door. Along this service corridor are a walk-in pantry, a recessed laundry with built-in ironing board, a lavatory, the basement entrance and inside garage entrance, and a world of storage space.

The kitchen itself is a model of convenience. Note the extra rear door for ease in serving the family or guests on the patio. The adjoining informal dinette is large enough to accommodate a full-sized dining table if need be, yet is close to the coffee pot on the stove. Down two steps and separated from the dinette via a rail is a large family room featuring a cathedral ceiling and a window wall with a sliding glass door to the covered rear porch. Highlight of the family room is the brick fireplace with adjoining cabinets and shelving.

Back in the bedroom wing there are many features of note. The main bathroom is preceded by an alcove which contains the linen closet on one side and an extra hall closet on the other. The master bedroom is preceded by a dressing suite with a mirrored wardrobe wall, a closet, a dressing table and a built-in dressing cabinet. The bedroom itself has a large bay window.

Between the master bedroom at the front and the two bedrooms at the rear is a fourth room, which would make an ideal library but could be used as an extra bedroom if desired. An optional connecting door to the master bedroom permits wide flexibility in the use of this room.

To a family with a plot which can handle a house whose over-all dimensions are 78' by 40' 10", design H-78 gives it everything needed for pleasant living.

H-78 STATISTICS

Design H-78 has a living room, dining room, kitchen, dinette, family room, three bedrooms, a library (or fourth bedroom), a dressing alcove, two bathrooms, a lavatory, patio, porch and a two-car garage. The habitable area totals 2241 square feet. The over-all dimensions are 78' by 40' 10". The plans include a basement.

Moving Can Be Happier Time For Children

Don't forget the children when moving to a new home!

No, there's little chance you'll leave them behind, but in the hectic period of preparation prior to the move, too often the misgivings of the younger fry about the move and their unhappiness about being uprooted are overlooked.

Otis, B. Burnham, a moving specialist, passes along some tipes on making the transition from one home to another easier for children. He reminds parents that children are much more conservative in their reactions to new situations than adults.

First, Burnham says, notify your children early about the move. It should be treated not as a rude awakening, but as anticipated fun and a trip to new world of happy delights.

Next, count the children in when planning the move and explain the reasons for the move patiently.

Make sure you notify your children's teachers about the move and get transcripts of their school records, their medical records and, if the move takes place during a school year, a summary of work done during the year so far. This will make the first days in the new school go more smoothly.

On moving days, have the younger chilren taken care of by a relative or close friend. Have the older children help you with the packing beforehand, especially their own belongings.

In your new home, encourage children to bring their newly-made friends home with them even if things are not yet in good order.

Finally, Burnham, says, parents should make sure that their own attitude towards the move, spoken and unspoken is a positive one.

A study by the National Institute of Mental Health of families who moved frequently found that where unhappiness existed among children, it tended to reflect the misgivings of at least one of the parents to the move.

Where parents expressed enjoyment at the prospect of moving to new places, traveling or changing jobs, children tended to make a good adjustment.

NEAT DEFINITION

Builders use the word "neat" to describe a material undiluted or unmixed with other materials. For example, in the installation of ceramic tile, the Portland cement is said to be "neat" when used without sand or other additives.

Mattresses Need Spring Cleaning too

High on your spring cleaning list should be a thorough once-over for every mattress and box spring in the house.

That's the word from Spring Air Mattress Co. Denver, manufacturer of the Back Supporter innerspring and foam rubber mattresses.

Even though they're protected by linens and blankets, beds may become soiled and dusty through the winter months.

So it's important to give each bed special attention at least once a year, in the spring.

Here's the recommended procedure:

1. Strip off all coverings, including the mattress pad, and open a window to let in plenty of fresh air.

2. With the uprolstery tool of your vacuum cleaner, go over all surfaces of both spring and mattress to pull out loose soil and fluff the "innards." If you don't have the necessary tool, use a whisk broom.

3. If ticking is soiled, clean it with dry suds from a rich solution of mild soap or detergent and lukewarm water. suds, to avoid getting the mattress wet. Rinse suds away with a sponge wrung out in clear water. Let one side dry thoroughly before cleaning the other.

(You may be able to hasten drying by using a fan, the blower attachment of your vacuum cleaner, or even a hair dryer.)

4. Be sure the mattress pad is clean before putting it back on the bed. It's a good idea to launder mattress pads every other month during the winter, and once a month during summer because of the perspiration the pad absorbs.

Faithful use of a mattress pad can save you many mattress cleaning worries. The pad's major purpose is to absorb the half - pint of moisture the average person's body produces during a night's sleep. If there's no pad, this moisture goes directly into the mattress and ruins it.

Spring cleaning also offers a good opportunity to check on the general condition of each mattress and spring. If there are gaps in the stitching, missing tufts or noticable low spots in the surface, it may be time to think of replacements for greater sleeping comfort.

"Sags are most likely to develop through the center one-third of an older mattress," the Spring Air executive explained, "since this is where the heaviest part of the body rests."

That's why the company emphasizes the special "Health Center" construction in both foam and innerspring Back Supporter mattresses. It provides additional support in the shoulder - to - knee area where 70 per cent of the sleeper's weight rests.

SAND BEFORE Re-PAINTING

Shaded areas, such as under the eaves, do not get sun and fail to lose their gloss. These areas should be sanded before repainting to avoid peeling.

New Varnish Protects Flat Painted Areas

If you have coated a dresser, table, bookcase, or wooden chair with flat paint to match or contrast with a room's wall paint, the horizontal surface must be protected from dustfall and from the soiling that comes with handling.

The customer services division of Armstrong Paints recommends covering such surfaces with a thin coat of a new, extremely hard polyeurathane flat varnish (Armstrong formula 960-V).

The flat variety will not shine like a gloss varnish, but both types will resist fruit acids, alkalis, household vinegar, alcohol, grease, oil, heat, cold, ammonia, soap, and detergents. They will wipe clean with a damp cloth. Because they are clear, the change or loss of color is imperceptible.

Repeated washing of either latex or oil based flat paint would tend to erode the surface, an Armstrong spokesman pointed out.

The polyeurathane gloss varnish can be used on floors, marine hulls, decks, bar tops, and other wood surfaces on which an extremely durable shiny finish is desired.

Both the gloss and flat types act as their own sealer and no primer is required. They set dust - free in about 30 minutes.

FOR HARDIER HEARTS

Some people literally owe their lives to asbestos.

This material, a principal component of mineral fiber house siding and automobile brake linings, is now being used in heart surgery.

In an operation on persons afflicted with artery diseases, powdered asbestos is sprinkled on the heart to create inflammation which will help the heart grow new blood vessels.

House Plans You Can Buy

By Hiawatha Estes, AIBD

Every room in this ranch-style home is large, but for all its size, it's designed to get the most for the money.

Behind the beautiful exterior are the multiple values inherent in the up - to - date layout of the plan. These include many extra little touches and refinements that make for gacious living and hospitality.

If there is an exciting view toward the rear of your lot, you, of course, will want a home that will make the most of it and this could be the right design. Sliding glass doors open to the long patio from the master bedroom, living room and family room — all the main rooms of the house. There's complete privacy here for all kinds of informal living. The easy access to the patio guarantees that this "outdoor living room" will be used much more than most patios.

An exceptionally wide guest closet opens to the spacious entry. From this entry and the short hall, all rooms are easy accessible. Even from the rear entry and service area, there is access to either the kitchen or the family room.

The roomy kitchen was planned for family living. Only cabinets separate a portion of this generous size room from the family room. Doors leading from the room have been located so as a maximum of wall space is still available and to eliminate any corner cabinets. A large amount of cabinet space plus a long pantry will guarantee there will never be a lack of storage space in this kitchen. Note the eating nook in the kitchen and the dining ell off the family room.

For more privacy, none of the bedrooms have a common wall. All of the bedrooms are of unusual size, the master bedroom being as large as the living room in some plans. The private master bath backs up to the family bath. Another bath is at the opposite side of the house where it is convenient to the family room, kitchen and rear yard. Such a location is not only convenient but saves much foot traffic through the house.

Although the furnace is located in a closet off the family bath, it could be placed in the garage if one preferred to utilize the closet in some other manner. Doors open from the garage to the rear yard, kitchen and to the roofed front porch which leads to the entry. The attractive home - life atmosphere created by the appealing exterior design offers a warm welcome to both family and guests.

Complete working drawings for this plan can be purchased at a cost of $8.50 for the first set and $5.00 for each additional set when ordered at the same time. This plan will be available at these prices until May 17, 1965. Please allow two to three weeks for delivery. The following home plan books are also available: Homes by Hiawatha - $1; Hallmark Homes-$1; Town & Country Homes-$1; Homes For Living - $1; Distinctive Homes - $1; Ranch & Modern Homes - $2. All books-a $7 value - only $5. Send all to: Hiawatha Estes, PO. Box 404-K. Northridge, Calif.

OLD AND NEW

One of the paradoxes of construction is the frequent combination of relics of ancient history with the latest findings from the chemist's laboratory. An example is ceramic tile and liquid epoxy resins. Ceramic tile made its appearance at least 7,000 years ago. Epoxy resins first were used to replace rivets in some aircraft manufacturing only a few years ago and now have turned up in building in such applications as stain-resistant materials for installing ceramic tiles.

CLEAN BRUSHES IMMEDIATELY

The quick - drying feature of modern latex paints makes it necessary to clean brushes and tools immediately after use. If you have splattered some of the paint, wipe it off immediately with a damp cloth.

People of India were first to use the so-called Arabic, or Hindu-Arabic numerals in which we write numbers today.

Good News In Store for Snow Haters

It's been a pretty wild winter in most parts of the country. Lots of snow. How about that snow - shoveling routine — was it as much fun as ever?

This may be rubbing it in a bit, but nonetheless a timely reminder that, for folks that don't fancy hacking away at walks and drives in arctic weather, now's the time to do something about it. And that something done now will spare you aggravation and a sore back next winter — and all the winters that follow!

A hydronic snow - melting system, reports the Plumbing-Heating - Cooling Information Bureau, completely clears the average driveway and sidewalks at an operating cost of around $20 for an entire winter.

Here's how it works. Piping is installed in the concrete or asphalt. Its ends terminate inside the home at the same boiler used for indoor heating. A small pump circulates a heated water and anti - freeze solution through the network of pipes to quickly melt any accumulation of ice, snow or slush.

The painless result is a safe walkway and driveway for your family and friends with no more exertion for you than the pressing of a button. Rugs and floors in the house stay cleaner, too, and get less wear. Slushy shoes alone cause a big headache for the housekeeper — harsh cinders and snow - melting chemicals are deadly to floors and floor coverings.

So, now that your back is finally recovering from the strain of the winter just past, why not make plans with a reputable plumbing contractor to avoid the problem next year — with hydronic snow-melting.

COLORADO SPRINGS
GAZETTE TELEGRAPH
Your Freedom Newspaper
Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

There Ought to Be A Repeal of Laws

Human laws and human liberties are incompatible. As surely as there is liberty, just as surely will it be eroded away by man made laws. James Wilson was a lawyer. Naturally, he believed in law, it was his bread and meat.

There are laws that have been in existence from the beginning and will be until the end, whether there is liberty among humans or no. But there can be liberty among humans ONLY if they obey these laws. They are the natural, or moral laws. Man made laws that are in conformity with these natural laws are neither harmful nor necessary. Man made laws that are at odds with natural laws, as 99.44 per cent of them are, are certainly harmful and should never be passed or, once passed, should be repealed with all possible dispatch.

The old axiom Mr. Evans quotes in the third paragraph of his Open Parliament letter is the very essence of wisdom. Carried to its ultimate conclusion, it would bring about the most efficient government of all — none.

Man made laws are as waves beating against a cliff. Each receding wave carries a little of the cliff away with it and deposits it in the bottom of the sea. Each law passed cuts another thin slice from the liberties of the people and deposits it in the power hungry hands of the politicians.

Mr. Evans is correct in assuming the "first erosion of our freedoms began with the ratification of the Constitution." The erosion continued at an ever accelerating pace until the fateful year of 1913. Fateful? The most fateful year we have experienced to date. In this year was enacted in one fell swoop, the income tax amendment, the Federal Reserve Act, the popular election of United States Senators and Parcel Post. In this year the spirit of Karl Marx must have been pleased indeed.

We are prone to lay the beginning of legislative extravagances on FDR, but they began long, long ago. FDR merely stepped up the pace. But even he and his "rubber stamp Congress" were pikers compared with those who have followed him.

The 55 million laws Mr. Evans refers to include federal, state and local laws, and only God knows how many of them have been passed since 1932. Rules of the game are essential, true. But we have them in the form of the Golden Rule and the Ten Commandments which are nothing more nor less than natural laws. All we need to do is practice them — and 55 billion laws cannot make us do that.

If men obey and practice the natural and moral laws, they need no others. If they choose not to obey or practice them, neither will they obey man made laws, so why go to the expense of passing and trying to enforce them?

No law that is not in conformity with the natural laws has ever yet been passed but that it proved beneficial to some citizens at the expense of others. Lately, many laws, and Supreme Court edicts have been foisted on us that have been harmful to the entire citizenry.

The chains are forged. Time is running out. Bondage is already partially effective. Total bondage? Who can say at what moment it will arrive? It is imminent, but, thank Heaven, not inevitable. We do not have to repeat man's past history if we but choose to learn its lessons. It is true that men have shown a poor record in learning from their histories, but is it necessarily true that we must continue to do so? We think not, but we fear we will.

Bondage is just around the bend, and the bend is drawing nigh. The drift can be stopped, but will it?

By Slavery, Maybe?

The concept of socialism is predicated on the assumption that a capitalistic society has already produced a "pile" that can be divided. They never explain how production will be resumed once the pile has been consumed. (No extra charge for the rhyme.)

Retirement After 30 Years

Presidents of eight locals of the Steelworkers Union have demanded that steelworkers be retired after 30 years of working.

"Thirty years service regardless of age is more than enough time spent producing wealth to support the services that reap the bountiful harvest. There is enough for all." That is a portion of the statement by the union brass.

It certainly sounds good, doesn't it? Since the average man starts working at 21, if this program were to be adopted universally, it would mean that when a man reached 51, he would be put on the scrap heap — nothing to do but sit down and vegetate for the rest of his life.

The union officials do not seem to understand there is a satisfaction in being useful. Most persons who are retired soon find that retirement is not the answer, and they soon try to find something to do, just to satisfy that natural inclination to find satisfaction in being useful.

These union officials do not seem to realize that wealth that is created has to be distributed in order for it to benefit its owner. When they say there is enough for all, they are implying that the investor who saves some of his earnings and provides the funds to give tools and make jobs possible is not entitled to have any benefit for his investment. They seem to imply that there is a limited amount available for all and that the investor must be deprived of some of his benefits in order to give more to the worker. They do not seem to understand that their demands, many of which they gain through compulsion, will result eventually in destroying the incentive for people to save and invest for their future use, thus reducing the amount of job-producing tools.

It is not surprising, however, for the union bosses have great political power because they have persuaded people through schools and other political agencies that it is possible to take from the "haves" to give to the "have nots," eventually reducing everyone to the same "have not" status.

To The Point

Distorted American Democracy

By RUSSELL KIRK

As the Johnson administration relentlessly pursues a policy of centralization — federal subsidies to schools, "Medicare," "civil rights" proposals which would require a federal police force, and all the rest — the usual excuse of the centralizers is that somehow we are thus "implementing democracy." But in truth, we are destroying the old pattern of genuine democracy — the democracy of sound sense and limited powers which Tocqueville praised.

This point is made with some force by the most important of our novelists, Mr. John Dos Passos. In his recent volume called Occasions and Protests, the author of Manhattan Transfer and U.S.A. remarks:

"Somewhere along the way we lost our conviction that the best government was self-government. In our enthusiasm for turning over every social problem to the administrative bureaucracy for solution, we forgot that democracy was based on the maxim that the solution of the problems of social life was the business of the people themselves. Neither Macaulay nor Jefferson, when they scanned the horizon for danger threatening American democracy, foresaw this prodigious growth of a bureaucracy armed with police powers, a bureaucracy which has become a vested interest in its own right.

"The whole subject has been confused, of course, by the doubletalk of the zealots for total bureaucratic rule, a doubletalk where the old vocabulary of democratic liberties is made to mean something quite different from what was originally intended; but the fact remains that Americans are finding it harder and harder to apply the words, and phrases that fitted so well the society that Jefferson and Madison lived in, to the pyramid-shaped structures of today."

Just so. Our political structure formerly was what Orestes Brownson called "territorial democracy" — with a high degree of popular participation at local levels, but representative government at state and federal levels, so forming the American Republic. Most of our enduring freedom and order is guarded by this structure.

The present national administration, however, squints toward "plebiscitary democracy" — that is, preserving a pretence of democratic forms through the election, every four years, of a father-figure with virtually unlimited powers. Genuine self-government, and true representative government, atrophy as an omnipotent figure in Washington decides a multitude of concerns which once were local or private. (Actually, the central bureaucracy makes most of the President's decisions for him, so constituting an administrative power-elite on which the people exert small checks.)

And a popular cult of The Divine President, comparable to the Roman cult of The Deified Emperior, may be discerned. When this columnist objects, however mildly, to any excess of administrative authority in Washington, some readers write to him passionately, "You're criticizing our Beloved President!" The king can do no wrong — so long as he is a plebiscitary king.

"THE CHAINS ARE FORGED"

To the Editor:

My letter of April 7th about "attractive nuisances" produced some unexpected reactions, the most amusing one of which was Mr. Porter's humorous article. Mr. Porter effectively used humor to point to the serious nature of the comon-place things around the home that may be held as an "attractive nuisance" by the courts in cases of accident. The editorial comment on this letter effectively pointed to the deleterious effects of the dictatorial powers of the legislative, executive, and judicial branches of government upon our personal and property rights.

I am somewhat perturbed by the most common reaction to this letter, which happens to be an old cliche: "There ought to be a law. . ." Heaven forbid! Since we are already hamstrung, hobbled, regimented, controlled, regulated, taxed, etc. by 55 million laws, why do we need more? A reference was also made to a statement by a civil rights leader to the effect that "He cannot have liberty without law."

In pondering this vexing problem I encountered a number of propositions that add only to the complexity of the problem. I am not sure that I have the right answers, because contradictions are so numerous. Justice James Wilson stated in his lectures in law in Philadelphia in 1790-'91 that "law cannot exist without liberty, nor liberty without law, and therefore the science of law is the science of both." An old axiom of political science states that "the efficiency of government is inversely proportional to the number of its statutes." Obviously, these two statements are diametrically opposed, which poses another pertinent question: If laws are essential to liberty, why, with 55 million laws, are our liberty, freedom, and property rights being rapidly eroded away?

Mrs. Justice Wilson made his statement at a time when the young United States was experiencing its greatest degree of freedom, from 1776 to 1789, or very shortly thereafter. There is considerable irony associated with Mr. Justice Wilson's statement, because, just 15 years before, the American colonies revolted against and won freedom from the tyrannies of Great Britain, which were mild, very mild, as compared with the present tyrannies of our own government. The first erosion of our freedoms began with the ratification of the constitution in 1789. More freedoms were eroded away in 1913 with the ratification of the income tax amendment. But it remained for F.D.R. to grease the skids of erosion-of-rights when he adopted Keynesian economics, more commonly called the New Deal, but in reality, the first big step to socialism. Socialistic L.B.J. and his "great Society" have an easy downhill pull into complete socialism. Who has been making the laws since 1932? How many of the 55 million laws have been enacted since 1932? How many are socialistic? Find the answers to these questions, and you will have the answers to the rapid erosion of our rights.

Obviously, rules of the game are essential to the game of life. These rules are codes of ethics, civil laws, and military laws, which are essential to the welfare of the society. But a multiplicity of laws, to be most effective, must reach a point of diminishing returns and utility, and that is where the multiplicity should end. Beyond this point regression occurs, and we progressively lose more and more of our rights. Changes are inevitable, so it is necessary from time to time to repeal some laws, to amend others, and to enact new ones, but this should not be a license for our lawmakers to run wild as they have been doing for the past 33 years.

Throughout history the rise and fall of nations and civilizations have more or less followed one general pattern. The progression follows this sequence: From bondage to faith, to courage, to liberty, to abundance. . . If the progression were to stop at this stage, we would have the greatest efficiency of government, a minimum number of laws, a minimum of socialism, the greatest degree of liberty, freedom, and property rights, etc. But alas! The progression continues. . .from abundance to selfishness, to complacency, to apathy, to dependence, to bondage. The cycle from bondage to bondage is complete. In what stage of this progression do YOU think the United States and its citizens now stand? I submit that we are in a transition from apathy to dependence. How much time do YOU think will be needed to complete the return to bondage?

MOMENT OF TRUTH

To the Editor:

Hold everything, Folks! All brainwashed addicts of the "idiot box" can now take heart.

It appears some driblets of truth howsoever infinitesimal, are bypassing the filter and are now being doled out for your listening pleasure and edification.

Each week day morning at 11:55, the following announcement can be heard locally on a TV network broadcast — "Please stand by for 5 minutes of news, followed by 'A Moment of Truth.'"

Now who among us would deny, that somehow, in our hearts we know he is absolutely right.

California States Attorney Thomas C. Lynch proposes a bill that would make it a misdemeanor, subject to a $1,000 fine or a year in jail to belong to a group that gives instruction in guerrilla warfare. Fine — let's do it on a national basis and START WITH THE COMMUNIST PARTY.

TAX MONEY WASTED

To the Editor:

April 1st, perhaps as an April Fool's joke, Senator Maurine Neuberger inserted seven and a half pages in the Congressional Record which would have cost as a paid ad in some large national magazine $387,000.00.

She devotes this space primarily to memorializing Group Research, Inc. and giving her evaluation of LIFE LINE. LIFE LINE has broadcast an estimated 635,000 words per year for 6½ years. By way of adhering to context, Senator Neuberger makes several different quotes of as few as a dozen words each to prove that LIFE LINE "implies" the opposite from its stated principles. She seems to desire to inform the millions of listeners who can hear LIFE LINE broadcasts seven days-a-week, and several times each day on different stations, of its evils. She does not quote any of Edith Kermit Roosevelt's and other fine columnists' evaluation of GR, Inc. Like Congressman Wright Patman, she evidently wishes to assist the Internal Revenue Service in deciding its rulings and is willing to bitterly assail the IRS at leisure.

THE AMERICAN DILEMMA!

To the Editor:

Is it prejudice or selectivity? Negroes from the north, ministers of all faiths, do-gooders, bleeding hearts and the communist-socialist dupes continue their cry of prejudice?

Are we predjudiced against our children when we deny them candy before meals? Are we prejudiced when we deny them access to the yard across the heavy traveled artery of traffic? Is it prejudice to select your intimate friends and acquaintances? Is it prejudice to take one newspaper instead of another? Is it prejudice to fight our administrators who are destroying America? Is it prejudice against communism, or selectivity based on knowledge that we denounce communism and its materialistic philosophy? Is it prejudice in denying the Negro or white the privilege of a vote, if he or she does not have the knowledge of our Christian history? Is it prejudice against our "free" educational institutions when they espouse nothing but socialistic teachings? Is it prejudice against many churches when we do not support them for their many pre-judgments? Is man prejudiced against womanhood when he chooses one instead of many? Is it prejudice to denounce law and order as brutality against the poor unfortunate? Is the Christian prejudiced against the atheist?

The word prejudice is nothing but a word used to build emotional reactions in the uninformed. This is mobocracy or the emotional reactions in a democracy. Prejudice is pre-judgment. Making a decision before the facts are known.

Actions based on wisdom changes the word prejudice to selectivity. Selectivity is now a level of intelligence. We select a Democrat over a Republican! Or it is prejudice, because our father was a Democrat or a Republican, without facts to support our own convictions? We select socialistic legislators for their ability as "yes men." Or is it prejudice against a man that says "no?" We accept communism and its inherent failures, in our lives through prejudice, which is nothing more than lack of knowledge. The word prejudice will disappear from the minds of men, when wisdom reaches our "mass" news media in the realization that "controlled news" builds prejudices, not wisdom.

If all the knowledge consumed and repeated is acquired by individual energies instead of what is heard or read, wisdom again would reign over the majority.

Selectivity is maintained by the wisdom of silence.

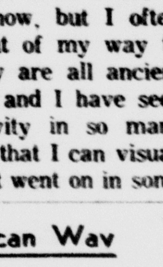
Rhyme and Reason

By RUFUS L. PORTER

GHOST TOWN

The wrecks of near a hundred buildings stand
Or lie upon the mountain's brooding face;
The proof of man's brief glory is at hand
And eerie is a word that fits the place.
Men make their little marks beneath the sun
Believing future generations may
Not see the end of what they have begun—
Quite unconvinced of Nature's final say.

Man can't believe his efforts go for naught,
A stubborn pride induces him to feel,
For all the lessons history has taught,
An air of permanence that is not real.
Despite historic truths to judge her by,
Few Romans ever dreamed that Rome could die.



I wrote the above sonnet on the clean plastered wall of a doorless and windowless house in the ghost town of Coal Basin, 12 miles up a steep and winding gulch from Redstone, Colorado. It will soon be time to get out and start hunting ghost towns if you are new to the area. There are a lot of them in the Colorado mountains. It is an enjoyable pastime and richly rewarding, especially if you can get hold of some history of the place. Take along some color film because, aside from the ghost town itself, you are going to be traveling through some of the world's grandest scenery.

Maybe I'm a fanatic on Colorado scenery. I have never had my fill of it in 50 years of roaming these hills. I have never been a ghost town collector as a few I know, but I often drive miles out of my way to visit one. They are all ancient mining camps and I have seen so much activity in so many mining camps that I can visualize the life that went on in some old ghost camp, and it was a good life, for the most part.

Sure, the towns were "wide open," and, sure there were shootings on the streets. But there wasn't nearly so much rowdyism and drunkeness as the movies would have you believe, and not anywhere near as much as we encounter on the big city streets of today in "civilization." At least a "decent" woman could walk down the street of any old west mining camp, day or night, without fear of molestation, and children were safe, also.

And people never locked their doors. And no prospector away back off in the mountains ever locked his door. Even if he was going to be gone for a week, he left the door unlocked so any traveler could go in and prepare himself some "victuals" (vittles was the way they spelled it, if they could write), and take a night's rest. All that was required of the wayfarer was that he leave the cabin and the dishes clean. And they nearly always did.

Yes, there were outlaws in all mining camps, and pimps and gamblers and other types of low-down crooks. But they all abided by certain rules. They would cheerfully kill a man for his poke of gold dust, but if they took advantage of his mountain hospitality, they always left his cabin as clean as they found it. And they were not, ordinarily, petty thieves.

In fact, life in the Old West, up even until World War One, was about the cleanest, freest, most wholesome living ever indulged in by the human animal. He will never see its like again. That's one reason I love ghost towns — the doors are still unlocked. I have written other poems about them. But the Hunt and Draper team of Colorado Springs has done a whole book on them with many pictures and poems, as well as directions on how to reach them. I recommend it to any ghost town hunter. The book is available in the Springs book stores. Happy hunting.

Adam Lyre says: One way the administration could cut down on the "population explosion" they are all worrying so much about would be to quit paying premiums on illegitimacy.

The American Way

A Monumental Decision

By D. R. SEGAL

It occurs to us we may not always have been entirely fair with that fine body of Civil Service martyrs who operate all the bureaus, agencies, commissions and miscellaneous baggage and clutter of the federal government.

Call it the 1776 Syndrome, if you will. Those of us who have been purposefully exposed to the Declaration of Independence since childhood, either by an extremist parent or a batty teacher, are inclined to equate government employes with that dismal complaint of the earliest Americans: "He has erected a multitude of new offices and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people and eat out their substance."

Well, let's forget that crack about "swarms" as being prejudicial and leading the witness. How about the jefes, hallboys, runners and gaggle of satraps who have the responsibility of pretending to put into effect all of the melancholy, irrational, contradictory and even incomprehensible dictates of the Congress? What sort of folks are they?

For one thing, they are smarter than anybody else you'll come across because they have to make decisions of taste and intent that Heaven itself would leave to the conscience or whim of the individual. We have in mind, as a handy example, case No. 23-Ca-1765, as decided by an examiner for the National Relations Board and subsequently sanctified by action of the board itself.

Complainant was an employe of the Rio Grande Valley Gas Company of Texas. It was the burden of his complaint that the company discriminated against him unfairly because of its anti-union cussedness. For example, he alleged because of his known union activity the company rescinded his "pan dulce" time. Now, pan dulce is Spanish for "sweet bread," or sweet rolls, as we would say. Most of the good paisanos of the valley take a pan dulce break a few times a day. Indeed, some of them make a profession of this amiable custom.

Well, said the company, never mind about rescinding the pan dulce break. Subject employe was in the habit of whistling at girls as he tooled along in the company truck, a practice which gave the company, and perhaps the entire natural gas industry, a bad name. How about that?

The wheels of government began to turn. Depositions, testimony, cross-examination. Legal counsel for the government conferred with legal counsel for the company and the union. Organizers, straw bosses, superintendents, company executives, NLRB employes met and mulled.

In due time the vast machine emitted a decision:

The company may not rescind pan dulce time because of a man's union activities. However, it is not a privilege of employment that a man should be permitted to whistle at girls on company time and in the company vehicles. The company was commanded to restore the pan dulce privileges and the employe was ordered by the government of The United States to whistle at girls only when it was apparent to the average girl that he was not acting in behalf of the company or performing on company time and-or in a company vehicle.

Perhaps, as the old extremist literature said, swarms of government employes are "eating out our substance," but the service they perform must be worth a little substance, considering the sort of work they have to do. After all, a lot of Americans wouldn't accept this kind of job for anything.

Jails or Fortresses?

Nation's Press

From The Dallas Morning News

A University of Chicago professor predicts that prisons as we now know them will disappear during this century. By prisons, he means "a walled institution, where adult criminals in large numbers are held for protracted periods. . .the purpose being to lead the prisoners to eschew crime in the future" and to deter others from a life of crime.

He is probably right. Thanks to our present progressive treatment of felons, our crime rate is mushrooming and in a few years the criminals may very well outnumber the law-abiding. When that happens, instead of a law-abiding majority walling the hoodlums in, we will probably see the law-abiding minority banding together to wall them out. Some of the cities of the east, whose streets are no longer safe by night, may reach this point any day now.

Plenty of Jobs

By GEORGE BOARDMAN

On a regular basis, I have been accused of being unrealistic because I insist that I've never seen the time when a man who wanted to work couldn't find a job. You may insist that Eagle and Vail, Colorado and Kingman, Arizona are not typical localities but this doesn't convince me because I've heard young and able men insist that no jobs were available in Kingman.

Only a week or so ago, the owner of an eating place in Eagle was trying to employ a cook and was having no luck. Three months ago our young friend John Pruit drove from Eagle to Vail and came back with a weekend job, which lasted until we moved back to Chloride.

On Friday John Pruit made a trip into Kingman looking for work. Before noon, in a completely strange community he was employed to do some odd jobs, clean up and gardening for 2½ days. Before finishing that job, he had another. Dawn and I just returned from Grasshopper Junction where Mrs. Young informed us she could use John for several jobs she is unable to handle.

This follows the same pattern our son-in-law encountered when he moved into this area, a depressed, no jobs locality and when Don Norton and his family moved up here from Torrance, California, he had no difficulty finding work. But all this time, almost three years, a tremendous number of people have been unable to find jobs standing around waiting for government handouts! They continue to stand around waiting for handouts! That's what your government has done to ambition and self respect and the end is not yet in sight and the present sight is sickening enough.

Maybe gardening and doing odd jobs present nothing which appears to be an alluring future. Tomorrow is the future and the man who wants to earn a living can find a job tomorrow and the man who is working to earn a living is in the best possible position to find a better job and don't ever forget it. A smart employer knows a worker finds work.

A correspondent in the mountain west operated his own employment agency for several years but was gradually forced out of business by the state and federal unemployment agency. At the time he closed his doors, finally, he had many opportunities for jobs listed but no takers while the government agency had hundreds of unemployed on its lists. Our friend has a small ranch which is not quite self supporting and at the age of 58 decided to try to find additional employment. He put it this way, "Everything was against me. I hoped to find work which would leave me with enough time to operate the ranch. My age was against me. My independent attitude seemed to be another black mark. My best friends discouraged me by telling me about the number of unemployed in our area and wondered why I thought I could find a job when so many able bodied, younger men were out of work. Maybe I was just lucky but I don't think so. Within 48 hours I had a job as a night watchman and the job will last all summer and possibly longer. The manager of the company which employed me said they had been trying to find a watchman for more than three months."

Another friend of ours has had no trouble finding employment as he and his children have moved around the country during the past couple of years. His last employer said, "I am not interested in your previous experience. I am interested in the fact that you want to work and earn your living. That's enough for me."

Your government has forced hundreds of employment agencies to go out of business. It steals from you to provide doles for those who prefer not to earn a living as long as income tax free doles are available. It has discouraged initiative, ambition and independence. It continues to viciously tax those it recognizes as poverty stricken. It promises continued war against those who earn and invest, create and produce. It wages continuous war against independence of spirit, against decent self respect and self responsibility. Too late those who rule will discover they have driven respectable people underground. It is already too late. Don't ever forget it.

by Billy Graham

© 1964 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

QUESTION: The Bible teaches us to think of God as our Father, but when I try to do this all that comes to mind is an image of my father—always scolding and beating us. How can I think of God? —W. T.

ANSWER: The Bible says: "As one whom his mother comforteth, so will I comfort you." (Isaiah 66:13) The word "Father" is usually used to express God's providence and love, but in the Bible we read that God feeds us like a mother. And the Bible says that God protects and cares for us as a mother bride spreads her wings to provide shelter for the young. I hope you had a loving mother. If so, these words will help you to picture the love of God.

In the centuries before Christ, men struggled to express what God is like. Then God sent Jesus to reveal His nature to all men. If you become confused over your Father, then you think of Jesus. The Master said, "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father." (John 14:9)

Even men and women who have kind fathers find it easier to understand God when they look at Jesus. All Jesus said and did makes it possible for us to comprehend the One who sent Him. When you have a longing for the presence of God, open your Bible to the Gospels and read about Jesus. When you pray, talk of Christ. Bring all your problems to Him. Ask for His help, and you will receive it.

QUESTION: Please tell me how I can win others to Christ. I don't know how to begin, but I can't ignore this desire to do so. —R. A. K.

ANSWER: Your question indicates that you have already surrendered your life to Jesus. Are you patient with all whom you meet? Do others feel the warmth of Christ's love in the touch of your hand? Do they see the light of Christ shining from your face? If so, you have made a start in witnessing for Him.

You have given your heart to Jesus. It should not be too difficult to speak a few words for Him. Begin in your family, or in your Sunday School class. So often we speak only of the trivial, when others are longing to hear of those things which are eternal. You don't need to be eloquent. But you must be honest and sincere. Just tell someone, quite simply, what the love of Jesus has done for you. This is the best way to begin to win others for Christ.

Do you think anyone can have a great deal of money and still be a Christian? —W. K.

I certainly do. I know it is possible, for I have met wealthy people who are sincere followers of Jesus, and I have met poor people whose every waking throught centered about money. It is not how much money we have, but what use we make of that which is entrusted to us, that is the test. Whether we have little, or much, if we are Christians we will use all for the building of the Kingdom of Heaven here on earth. The Bible says: "If therefore ye have not been faithful in the unrighteous mammon (this means "money"), who will commit to your trust the true riches?" (Luke 16:11). The true riches are those things which are eternal.

Some think that fine furniture, soft rugs, and a TV are all that is needed to make a beatiful home. The Christian knows that soft voices, patience, understanding, and love are more to be prized than any material possessions.

Some think they have a right to use all they receive for their own comfort and pleasure. The Christian is not blind to the needs of others, and gives generously, as he is able. One who is worthy to bear the name of Christ will be a good steward of all he possesses.

A sincere Christian who has great wealth will spend much of his time seeking ways to use it to build a better world. Look, and you will find someone who is doing this.

God's Soil

...and it's time to conserve it...time to save it! It is evident, when we witness the increased destruction of timber lands, national cover crops and wide-spread erosion, America needs a national Save-The-Soil-Week. It is urgent that we treat Mother Earth with greater respect and appreciation. We must give back to her as much as we take away. There's no better time than during National Save-The-Soil-Week, to come to a full realization that "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof." We are stewards, appointed by God, to look after the earth He gave us. It is time to renew your faith in God and the Good Earth.

Cornerstone for the new $250,000 sanctuary will be laid Sunday in a ceremony to take place at 12:30 p.m. at First Lutheran Church. The sanctuary is under construction at North Cascade Ave. at Buena Ventura Sts. It is expedited to be completed by Sept. 12, when a dedication ceremony is planned.

Taking part in the cornerstone laying will be the pastor, the Rev. Christian J. Thearle who will offer a short meditation during the rites. The intern for the past year was Theodore A. Stoneberg; Jack E. Lay, chairman of the building committee; and Lt. Col. (Ret.) Edward D. Curry Jr., financial secretary.

Chester L. Girard, vice president of the congregation, will read the list of articles chosen to be placed into the cornerstone. The list contains items which has been in the church's previous cornerstone when it was located at Weber and Platte Avenues.

The stone was designed by James Hunger of Boulder, architect for the sanctuary, and constructed by Donald Sauve, representing the contractors, the B. H. Construction Company.

Marine General Would Use More Power in Viet Nam

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's top Marine implied Friday he feels the United States should use more of its armed power in South Viet Nam.

"If we want to devote the necessary power through the beachhead at Da Nang we will be able to accomplish whatever has to be done in the security of the base or any other mission that might be assigned," Gen. Wallace M. Greene Jr. said.

The four-star commandant of the 190,000-man Marine Corps spoke to a news conference at which he discussed his just-completed, six-day inspection of Marine outfits in South Viet Nam and others poised in Okinawa and Japan.

He said, "The situation looks pretty serious to me," but that he came back from South Viet Nam in an optimistic frame of mind.

"I can tell you, if we want to, we can handle this problem," Greene said.

Newsmen sensed criticism in Greene's remarks. One of them asked "if by 'problem' you mean winning the war there and if you mean to imply that we don't want to?"

"No, I don't say we don't want to," Greene replied.

"I simply want to point out to you that I am absolutely convinced that if we work with the Vietnamese military and the Vietnamese civilians we can carry out our mission and our pledge to the Vietnamese people."

The general said the assignment of more Marines to reinforce the 8,000 to 9,000 already in Viet Nam "depends on how the situation develops."

Pressed for comment on reports that the entire 3rd Marine Division will go in, Greene said: "I don't say it won't happen. I just say that certainly it is a highly speculative guess right at this point."

No orders or instructions have been given to move more Marines, Greene said, adding: "We are prepared to move if we have to move."

House Praises 2 School Girls

DENVER (AP) — The House of Representatives passed a resolution Friday praising two high school girls for calling attention to improper lowering of the United States flag at the Denver City and County Building.

Rep. John R. Mackie, R-Longmont, said the letter from Karen Brott and Sandra Butler of Abraham Lincoln High School complained that the flag was allowed to touch the ground and was not properly folded.

He said the situation had been corrected. The resolution calls on Gov. John A. Love to see that flags in front of the Capitol building are also treated with proper respect.

Doctors Rule Out Trip by Windsor

PARIS (AP) — Doctors Friday ruled out a planned trip by the Duke of Windsor to London Monday for the premiere of "A King's Story," a film based on his memoirs.

A spokesman for the duke said the doctors were wary about having their patient move around too much following recent delicate eye surgery to correct a detached retina.

Senate Sets Quitting Day

DENVER (AP) — The Colorado Senate has decided it wants to quit for the year next Friday, May 7.

It passed by voice vote late Friday a resolution by Sen. William O. Lennox, R-Colorado Springs, fixing the time of adjournment at 5 p.m.

At the moment, the time is little more than a recommendation, because the House of Representatives must agree to make it effective.

If the deadline holds, the session would be 122 days in length.

The Senate also passed a resolution by Lennox that it will not consider any bills or conference committee reports after 11 p.m. next Tuesday.

The days between this cutoff time and adjournment would be used by the clerical staff to make final drafts of bills.

Revival Service At Pleasant Valley

There will be no Sunday school for this one Sunday. The service will feature evangelistic singing and a message. The sermon will be "Three Crosses," and special music will be presented by Joe Cherry, the revival singer, and church choir.

The public is invited to attend this special service Sunday morning.

CARBON MONOXIDE POISONING

The risk of carbon monoxide poisoning is greater in the winter months because of faulty heaters and closed windows in homes and automobiles. The number of persons dying in the United States from this gas is less than 800 but the majority might be alive today if they had followed a few simple precautions.

The dangerous aspects of carbon monoxide poisoning are that early symptoms are subtle and progress rapidly from mild to severe. Initial manifestations are nausea, dizziness, and headache. These can be mistaken for motion sickness if the individual is riding in a car. It may be too late when the victim realizes what is happening because the time is short between possible escape and unconsciousness. This is understandable because respiration increases during fear, excitement, and exertion.

Be wary of the smell of smoke or fumes coming from stoves and heaters in the home. Modern buildings are more airtight because of storm windows and improved construction. Furnace and hot water heaters should be checked periodically for defective operation. A simple adjustment may correct the situation. All fuel-fired hot water heaters should be connected to a flue leading to the outside. Space heaters should be vented unless approved by Underwriters' Laboratories for unvented use.

A kitchen exhaust fan helps eliminate gases, but it should be checked occasionally, especially when the house is sealed tightly. It may cause a back draft thru the furnace and pull smoke and fumes into the house.

Never drive the car with the windows closed in winter. The exhaust system should be checked for leaks when headache or nausea develop after driving a short distance. Some automobile heating systems draw in air from vents near the radiator. The exhaust from the vehicles ahead is easily sucked into the car, especially when waiting for traffic lights to change. Never keep the motor running in a closed garage. This may be old hat, but it is surprising how many die of carbon monoxide poisoning in this way.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - addressed envelope accompanies request.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

A. L. writes: Is it true there is no cure for high blood pressure and that one who has it must take pills forever to keep it down?

REPLY

There are several types of hypertension. Most victims have essential or vascular hypertension, which is controlled — but not cured — with drugs. A small percentage have renal hypertension, which is remedied via surgery.

SELF-CURE

C. M. writes: Could a 76-year-old person cure himself of a nervous breakdown without taking medicine?

Horsemen Tab Bold Lad, Hail to All in Kentucky Derby

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky., (AP) — Three horsemen, each wise in the ways of the Kentucky Derby, came up with two differnt opinions Friday on the probable winner of the 91st running of the $125,000-added turf classic for 3-year-olds at Churchill Downs Saturday.

The three were Jimmy Jones, who saddled Derby winners Iron Liege in 1957 and Tim Tam in 1958; Jack Price, trainer of his wife's Carry Back, the 1961 champion, and Frank Childs, veteran conditioner who won with Tomy Lee in 1959. Saturday, Childs will tighten the saddle girth on the lightly-regarded Carpenter's Rule.

Jones, who also had a hand in getting ready six Derby winners trained by his father, the late Ben Jones, and Childs picked Bold Lad, the 8-5 favorite without hesitation. And just as emphatic was Price in selecting Hail to All, a come-from-behind stretch runner listed at 10-1.

"The big question with Bold Lad as I see it," said Jones, now director of racing at Monmouth Park, "is whether he can go 1¼ miles and is he seasoned enough? He has class. But three weeks ago I didn't even think he would run in the Derby. Bill Winfrey has done a great job.

"If Lucky Debonair (third choice at 5-1) is as good as when I saw him in California, then he would be my choice for second place. I know he can go the Derby distance. For third I would go along with Tom Rolfe (4-1) although I never have seen him race."

Jones tossed off Hail to All with," Te always manages to just get beaten. He seems to be that type of horse." As for Native Charger, (Flamingo and Florida Derby winner who is held at 8-1), the former Calumet Farm trainer commented: "Bold Lad beat him regularly last year. But I would have to give him a chance because he is well seasoned."

Bold Lad, Tom Rolfe and Hail to All was the way Childs saw the finish.

"Bold Lad is as good as any favorite ever to run in the Derby," said the quiet spoken trainer. "He is so much better than the others that he should be 1-2 by post time."

Price swung to Hail to All because "he is most likely to succeed at 1¼ miles. I saw him just miss in the 1⅛ miles of the Florida Derby and the added one-eighth mile will help."

The likeable Carry Back trainer selected Native Charger for second and Bold Lad for third with the comment: "I doubt if Bold Lad can go 1¼ miles."

The trio made their selections Friday as hundreds of writers, television personnel, racing officials from all corners of the country and just plain gus fan gathered on the Downs backstretch for a final glimpse of the 11 finely-tuned colts before they parade to the post.

Post time is 4:45 p.m. with Columbia Broadcasting System's nation-wide television scheduled for 4-5 p.m.

It was hot Friday and the forecast for Saturday was fair and a temperature close to 80.

Three jockeys, who have ridden Derby winners, figure to be in the thick of the race. Bill Hartack, a four-time winner in six tries, pilots Bold Lad. Willie Shoemaker, who scored with Swaps in 1955 and Tomy Lee in 1959, will be up on Lucky Debonair while Milo Valenzuela, who got the mount of 1958 winner Tim Tam when Hartack broke his leg, will be astride Dapper Dan.

Hartack, whose relationship with the writers has been on the highest plane this week, scored with Iron Liege in1957,Venetian way in 1960, decidedly 1962 and Northern Dancer in 1964. He didn't have a mount in 1963.

With a fast track and such a speedster as Flag Raiser, Isidor Bieber's three-time stakes winner in his last three starts, to get a burning early pace, the record of two minutes could be in danger. Northern Dancer hung up the standard last year.

If all 11 line up for the start before the festive crowd of 100,000 the Derby will be worth $154,500 with $112,000 going to the winner, $25,000 to second, $12,500 to third and $5,000 to fourth.

There was a report that Tom Rolfe, the mighty mite from the Powhatan Stable of Raymond Guest, suffered a slight leg injury a few days ago. Trainer Frank Whiteley quickly knocked it down.

"He is just as sound as the day he came in," said Whiteley as the son of the unbeaten Italian stallion, Ribot, grazed in front of his barn. "I don't know where the rumor started but there's not a word of truth in it."

Bold Lad was the chief attraction and Winfrey let the crowd get a good view of the 1964 2-year-old champion by grazing him in front of barn 42 after taking a gallop around the Downs.

"There may be doubt in some minds whether Bold Lad can go 1¼ miles," said Winfrey. "But there is none in mine. I don't think post positions are important in a long race like the Derby. But I am perfectly satisfied with No. 3.

Winfrey's other entry, Dapper Dan, will break from the pole with the almost forgotten Narushua in the No. 2 spot. Outside of Bold Lad in the starting gate will be Native Charger, Flag Raiser, Carpenter's Rule, Hail to All, Lucky Debonair, Tom Rolfe, Mr. Pak and Swift Ruler.

Somebody asked Winfrey if he intended to let Flag Raiser try to steal the race with his blazing early speed.

"If he is going to steal it, I am not going to arrest him for it," replied Winfrey with a grin. "I am more concerned about some of the others." But, he declined to name the ones he fears.

Clayberg, Tigers Belt Mountaineers, 10-1

WHERE'S THE BALL — It's difficult to see, but Western State shortstop Bob Hicks has the ball after taking a throw from catcher Ernie Pelaia in this action from the Colorado College-Western State game Friday at Memorial Park. CC catcher Wayne Nelson had grounded back to the mound and was forced on this throw by the pitcher. The Tigers, however, won the contest 10-1. Same Teams Go Again Today

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Lefthander Craig Clayberg fed Western State College a dose of the same medicine that other area teams have receiving Friday afternoon as Colorado College romped to an easy 10-1 victory over the Western Slope school at Memorial Park.

The freshman sensation grabbed his fourth straight win with a four-hitter that had to be relaxing after his past three efforts. Clayberg had defeated Colorado State College, Southern Colorado State and Air Force Academy in previous outings.

The two Colorado clubs, former mates in the Rocky Mountain Conference, conclude the series with a repeat match at Memorial Park this afternoon. Game time is 2 p.m. and CC coach Bob Johnson has designated sophomore Warner Reeser as his probable starter.

The Tigers, still jubilant after Sunday's tight 2-1 triumph over the Air Force, had few worries Friday. CC swept across the plate seven times in the first two innings, leaving Clayberg in a position of luxury compared to past starts.

CC also jumped out of a hitting lapse that had pestered the team the past two weeks. Center-fielder Carl Clay, the club's top go-and-getum-star, rapped three for four, including a double. Freshman Chuck Reinking, who moved his second-baseman talents from Palmer to CC this fall, had two safeties, as did Roger Williams and third-sacker Steve Ebert. Ebert, the team's finest clutch-swinger, knocked in five of the 10 tallies.

Clayberg was never in serious difficulty. After his mates rapped four hits and scored three runs in the first, the Mountaineers bunched two of their three safe swats in the second, but they failed to produce a run. With men at first and third, Rick Kaysen grounded to the first-baseman and Jerry Carpenter fanned.

Western pushed its run across the plate in the sixth when with one down Ken Phelps walked and Bob Hicks singled him to third. He came in on Mac Singleton's two-out single to left-center. The Mountaineers had runners on first and third with one out in the seventh before Clayberg retired the last eight batters to face him.

CC got singles from Reinking, Clay, and Williams to lead off its half of the first and a base-on-balls to Dave Peterson plus Ebert's single contributed to the three run frame. An error, a passed ball, three walks, and Ebert's double plated four runners in the second. Two hits, a walk, and a sacrifice fly drove in another pair in the fourth and the final one came home on Clay's two-bagger and two sacrifice flies in the sixth. The Tigers did nothing thereafter, but then, for once, they didn't need to.

Palmer Maintains Las Vegas Lead

By BOB MYERS

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Arnold Palmer, confronted with a serious challenge from Chi Chi Rodriguez and Doug Sanders, broke things open with two straight birdies and posted a 69 for a 36-hole score of 135 Friday to take the lead in golf's $75,000 Tournament of Champions.

Palmer popped in a rolling, downhill 30-footer on No. 15 for a birdie four and followed with an eight-footer on No. 16 to finish a round of 35-34—69.

Rodriguez finished with 67, the low round of a windy day, and Sanders had a 68, giving both 137 totals.

Palmer went into the round with a two-stroke lead over the field and will have the same margin beginning Saturday's third round over the 7,209, par 36-36—72 Desert Inn Country Club course.

Tied at 139 were Sam Snead, who opened up with a double bogey seven when he hit out of bounds, but finished with a 71; Bill Casper Jr., also with a 71, and Bruce Crampton, with a 70.

Defending champion Jack Nicklaus shaved three strokes off his first round and came in with a 71, but was 10 strokes off the pace at 145. He was tied with four others, including Mike Souchak.

Sanders put together rounds of 35-33—68, but it was Rodriguez who furnished the sensation with his 35-32—67.

Rodriguez led the tournament a year ago and did it in a sandstorm. The wind was not as bad this time and he was asked what he thought about it.

"I love it," he replied with a grin.

Chi Chi's putter was his big item. He holed putts from three to 25 feet and ran up three straight birdies from the 12th hole on, holing out from 15, 10 and 10 feet.

The hard-luck round was turned in by Paul Harney. He closed out his first nine with a double bogey, bogey and triple bogey for a 40, had even worse luck on the backside and finished with an 82 for 152. Harney

Pete Brown withdrew because of a bad back injury. Both Brown and Harney will receive the guaranteed $1,000 for the low finishers even though they don't finish.

Kadets Bomb Indians; Clinch WRL Title Tie

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

No longer bridesmaid!

At least the Academy High Kadets managed to shake the "bridesmaid" label which the Big Blue baseballers picked up after finishing in the runner-up slot in league competition the last six years under the direction of head coach Russ Lyon.

Behind the strong arm of the booming bats of Rudy Hal- fireballer John Gannon and the booming bats of Rudy Hallenbeck and sophomore Mark Baker, Lyon's Kadet bombers struck out at the very reason they have failed to win a conference baseball title — eight-time Pikes Peak League perennial kingpins from Cheyenne Mountain.

But Friday Gannon's firepower from the mound stifled Cheyenne's efforts at the plate as the Big Blue lefty checked the Tribesmen, including their ace hitter Bill Massarand who was hitting at a .585 clip (24 hits for 41 times at bat), as Gannon limited Cheyenne to only two hits.

Thus, the Academy High team clinched a tie for the first Will Rogers League baseball championship when the Kadets jumped on Cheyenne's ace-in-the-hole pitcher Ted Garcia to record the 6-2 win Friday afternoon at the Big Blue diamond.

The victory assures Lyon's charges a tie for the WRL pennant. The undefeated Kadets posted their sixth straight conference win and upped their overall mark to near-even season. In overplay, Acadmy High has compiled a 6-7 won-loss record.

With two games left on their 1965 WRL slate, the Kadets could still clinch a tie for the loop crown even should they drop both encounters. But Academy High need only win one of the two WRL games to capture that school's first conference championship in eight years.

The Kadets were scheduled to tangle with Canon City, a team they bombarded 11-2 earlier this month, last Tuesday but inclem- outing until May 7th. Their next ent weather postponed that outing in league play is scheduled for Tuesday when they lock horns with Harrison's Panthers at the latter's home field.

Both Cheyenne and Academy High are set for a split doubleheader with Pueblo Catholic today at the Pueblo Central baseball field. Cheyenne takes on Pueblo Catholic this morning beginning at 10 a.m., while the Big Blue sluggers tangle with Pueblo Catholic in the same game which is scheduled to begin at 1 p.m.

Friday's Cheyenne - Academy High final showdown was hardly up to par with the WRL first round contest. In that game, the pre-game forecast of a pitcher's duel between Gannon and Garcia followed the script. Gannon and Garcia each turned in a brilliant performance on the mound as both portside chuckers registered one-hitters but Cheyenne's sloppy fielding gave Academy High the edge, 2-0.

In Friday's rematch, Gannon managed to come up with another outstanding pitching performance as the Big Blue senior held Cheyenne two runs on two hits while he struck out 11 and only walked one.

Garcia wasn't as fortunate! The Academy High bombers unleashed for six runs on a five-hit attack including two home runs which forced Cheyenne head coach Tom McCord to replace Garcia in the fourth. Jorn Gardner, who will undoubtedly head Cheyenne's pitching staff for the next two years, relieved Garcia in the fourth and the lanky right-hander held the Kadets scoreless and he only gave in three innings.

St. Mary's Pirates Add to Prestige With First Place in Widefield Relays

By DICK FOSTER

A versatile and powerful St. Mary's track team which has fast earned a reputation for itself in the region this year, ran up another first in the Widefield Invitational Relays Friday night.

The Pirates tallied nine firsts and five seconds, and racked up 79 points. Widefield's hosting squad was second with 54½ points, Cheyenne placed third with 47½ points, and Fountain Valley, Westminister, and Harrison had 18, 16 and seven respective points. All times were records as this is the first annual event. St. Mary's Jerry Knauf was the only person to grab two of them.

Knauf had two firsts, including a 19-11½ broad jump and a 10.2 100-yard dash. Other Pirate performances were similar. Cliff Clark copped the shot put, Tom Socha took half of first place in the high jump, Ray Floyd won the high hurdle event, Larry Green won the mile run and Jim Rhue captured the 440. In the relay races, St. Mary's won the two-mile and the medley relay.

Widefield captured three firsts. Tom Nigbur won the discus with a 136-2½ toss, and Walley Petrovich tied Socha in the high jump. Both cleared 5-9¼. The Glad squad also won the 480-yard shuttle hurdle relay.

Cheyenne Mountain's relay teams made a strong show in the half-mile and mile relay events. The only other first shown by the Tribe was Ron Graham's triple jump of 42-6.

Harrison's Jerry Williams squeezed over the 11-6 pole vault bar for Harrison's only shining moment.

The Panthers of Norm Sullivan, however, could not have been more frustrated that a relay team entered by Westminster. The Warrior two-mile relay team did everything but pick posies during the race. When that event was over, the visitors were behind by a lap and one-half. When they did finish, the grandstands cheered them more than the winners.

Draper, Allen Will Clash in North-South

By KEN ALYTA

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Tom Draper, a 50-year-old chemical salesman from Birmingham, Mich., and 26-year-old Don Allen, a Rochester, N.Y., insurance man, scored impressive semifinals victories Friday in the North and South Amateur Golf Tournament.

Draper cut down 34-year-old Maurice (Moss) Beecroft of Newport News, Va., 5 and 3 while shooting two over par golf. Allen, two down after seven holes, pulled his game together to trim David Boyd of Atlanta 3 and 2.

The championship over 36 holes starts at 9 a.m. EST Saturday over the 7,000-yard No. 2 course of the Pinehurst Country Club.

Draper, first round loser here five times in 12 previous appearances, adhered to his week-long habit of avoiding mistakes as much as possible. He hit accurate fairway wood shots to the green match after match and putted steadily. He missed only two fairways and seven greens, several by a few inches.

Draper took the lead for good with a par 3 on the sixth as Beecroft hit into a trap and overshot the green to take a double bogey five.

Beecroft sealed his doom by hitting into a trap on the short 10th, losing the hole to a par and with it the match.

Allen started shakily against Boyd, a 23-year-old insurance man. They halved the first three holes, Allen three-putting the third green. Boyd knocked in a 20-foot birdie on the fourth and went 2-up with a par 4 on the fifth. But he never won another hole.

Mathews' Home Run Rips Phils

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Eddie Mathews cracked a three-run tape-measure homer with two mates aboard and Lee Maye hit a two-run blast, powering the Milwaukee Braves to a 7-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Friday night.

Mathews' fifth homer of the season and No. 450 of his career boosted him and Hank Aaron into a National League tie for the most homers by two teammates. They have hit 745 since Aaron joined the Braves in 1954, tying the mark set by Duke Snider and Gil Hodges with the Brooklyn and Los Angeles Dodgers.

The major league record is 870, hit by Babe Ruth and Lu Gehrig for the New York Yankees from 1923-34.

Grant Fires Shutout at White Sox

CHICAGO (AP) — Minnesota's Jim (Mudcat) Grant, Bombed in his first two starts, hurled a three-hitter as the Twins' stopped Chicago's five-game winning streak with a 7-0 victory Friday night.

Grant, shelled for 11 hits in 3 1-3 innings in his two previous starts, held the White Sox hitless until Pete Ward popped a double just inside the left field line opening the fifth.

Ward was stranded on third base when Ron Hansen grounded into an inning-ending double play.

Gary Peters, rocked for three runs in the first, lasted only four innings and suffered the defeat after winning his first two starts.

Grant retired the first 12 batters he faced and didn't yield a solid blow until Don UFORDS SHARP SINGLE with two out in the sixth. Buford's hit came after Grant threw wildly on pinch-hitter Tommy McCraw's roller, but McCraw died on second.

Bob Allison and Tony Oliva each drove in two runs, one apiece in the three-run first inning that Zoilo Versalles triggered with a double Versalles also doubled across Grant, who had tripled, in the ninth.

CU, Sooners Split Big 8 Doubleheader

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)— Oklahoma walloped Colorado 10-1 Friday in the first game of a Big Eight Conference baseball doubleheader, but the Buffs came back to earn a split with a 6-5 victory in the second contest.

The Sooners took the opener behind the three-hit hurling of Joe Cox and the poaer hitting of Carl Schriener and George Ridgley. Schriener hit two home runs and Ridgley one.

Colorado took the second game by pushing across the tie-breaking run in the top of the seventh inning. The Buffaloes' Steve Best singled and came home on a double by Jack Coppon when OU's catcher missed the relay from the outfield.

Oklahoma has a 4-7 record in Big Eight play, Colorado 3-7.

Cards Come Back to Top Bucs, 3-2

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals, shut out on one hit for 6 2-3 innings by Vern Law, came from behind in the seventh inning with three unearned runs and beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2 Friday night.

With two out in the seventh, Pirate shortstop Dick Schofield dropped Tito Francona's high pop behind third base for a two base error. Second baseman Gene Alley then boosted KEN Boyer's grounder, with Francona scoring on the error.

Boyer, scoring all the way from first base, tied the score at 2-2 on Bill White's double to right-center—only the second hit in 20 at-bats for the Cardinal first baseman. White then scored on Phil Gagliano's single to right-center.

That was only the third hit allowed by Law, who left for reliever Wilbur Wood when the Cardinals' Curt Flood extended his hitting streak through 12 games with a one-out double in the eighth.

Ray Washburn, making his second appearance of the season, was the winning pitcher in relief.

Candiens Seek 11th Stanley Cup Crown

By JOE MOOSHIL

MONTREAL (AP) — The Montreal Canadiens, having the definite advantage of home ice, will be seeking an unprecedented 11th Stanley Cup hockey championship when they meet the Chicago Black Hawks Saturday night.

Everything will be riding on the final game in the best-of-7 series which the Hawks tied at three games each when they turned in a 2-1 triumph in Chicago Thursday night.

As yet, neither team has been able to win away from home in the championship series. The Canadiens, however, have played better hockey in Chicago than the Hawks have in Montreal.

The Hawks have been shut out in their last two games in Montreal. If they hope to win their first cup since 1961, the Hawks will have to display some of the aggressive tactics they have shown at home.

The Canadiens, who have won 10 cup championships to tie Toronto in that department, have run into third period difficulties in Chicago.

In all three losses on Hawk ice, the Canadiens were either tied or ahead going into the final period. Montreal led 1-0 on Ralph Backstrom's goal going into the third period Thursday night.

The Hawks got some unexpected help when Elmer (Moose) Vasko, who scored only one goal over the 70-game National Hockey League season, tied the score with his first playoff goal in four years. Doug Mohns broke the tie with a power play goal to keep the Hawks' hopes alive.

Although Hawks have failed to win in Montreal, Manager Tommy Ivan brought out the similarity in this series with the semifinal series against Detroit.

The same pattern of winning at home ran in the semifinals until the last game, when the Hawks came from behind in Detroit to win 4-2.

"We did it against Detroit and we have a chance to do it against Montreal," said Ivan. "When you get down to the seventh game in the Stanley Cup, anybody can win anywhere."

The Hawks, hampered by injuries to Kenny Wharram and Pierre Pilote at the start of the series, expect to be in top physical shape for the title game.

Montreal goalie Gump Worsley has missed the last three games with a thigh injury but might be back for the finale. Charlie Hodge has done a fine job of filling in for Worsley and turned in one of the shutouts against Chicago.

Birds Bomb Yanks With Home Runs

NEW YORK (AP) — Boog Powell and rookie Curt Blefary cracked a three-run third inning homer Friday, triggering Baltimore to a 10-4 victory over the New York Yankees while the Orioles' Jerry Adair continued to add to his string of fielding records.

Adair, who has not made an error since July 21, 1964, handled nine chances, pushing his string to 417 without error and breaking Bobby Doerr's American League record of 414. The late Ken Hubbs of the Chicago Cubs holds the major league record of 418.

Adair also extended his own major league record of consecutive errorless games to 83.

The Powell-Blefary explosion put it out of reach early. Each blast followed two Oriole singles and all six consecutive singles came off Jim Bouton, who had lined into an inning-ending doubbleplay with the bases loaded just the inning before.

Powell's second homer of the year followed singles by Jackie Brandt and Luis Aparicio while Brooks Robinson and Norm Siebern singled aread of Blefary's fourth homer.

The Orioles pushed the margin to 7-0 Powell's run-scoring single in the fourth and continued to peck away, finishing with 13 hits off four Yankee pitchers. They added another run in the sixth and two in the eighth.

Tommy Tresh and rookie Bob Schmidt hit solo homers for the Yanks.

Oriole starter Steve Barber got credit for the victory, but gave way to Dick Hall with two out in the sixth.

Matson Hurls Shot 69-3/4 To Exceed Own Mark

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas A&M's Randy Matson threw the shot 69 feet, ¾ inches Friday, more than one foot farther than his pending world record of 56 11-¼.

The official world's record in the shot put is 67-10 set by Dallas Long at Los Angeles in July 25, 1964.

Matson's throw Friday was in a triangular meet between Texas, Texas A&M and Rice.

On his first throw, Matson threw the shot 67-9, and came through on his second try with the 69-¾.

His apparent record will have to be approved by world track groups before it becomes official.

His fantastic heave marked the second time this month the young giant has surpassed the listed world record. His 67-11¼ throw came April 9 in a meet with Baylor, Texas and SMU at College Station.

Matson, a 20-year old sophomore from Pampa, Tex., has 260 pounds distributed over his 6-foot-6½ inch frame and hopes to put on another 20 or 25 pounds.

For the last two years he has been pointed to by track and field experts as potentially the greatest shot putter the world has ever known, and the first potential 70-footer.

He solidified this position as a 19-year-old when he finished second to Long's Olympic record 66-8½ toss in the Tokyo Games. Matson had 66-34.

He passed up the indoor season to concentrate on preparations for an assault on the outdoor records, now thoroughly shattered.

Matson signaled his readiness two months ago with a practice toss of 66-10, then got serious in regular competition. He is unbeaten this year and has added a couple of impressive discus throws.

Matson said re was surprised by his record throw.

It's getting late in the year," ht said. I think this is my 19th meet and I'm pretty tired. I didn't think I would get any better this year."

He said he rad been throwing good in practice however, around 65 feet.

Terry Holds Washington To Four Hits

CLEVELAND (AP) — Ralph Terry limited Washington to four hits Friday night as Cleveland defeated the Senators 5-2.

The 29-year-old right-hander, acquired from the New York Yankees after a 7-11 season last year, had a two-hitter until the ninth when former Indian Woody Held led off the ninth with a double and Bob Chance followed with a home run.

Terry, who struck out 11, was in trouble only once before that inning. He loaded the bases in the sixth, with one out, on two walks and Don Blasingame's single but got out of it by striking out Chance and getting Frank Howard to hit into a force play.

Chuck Hinto led the Indians' attack, hitting a home run and driving in another run with a single. Dick Howser also drove in a pair with a single and a sacrifice fly.

Buster Narum, 1-3, started for Washington, but was removed in the fifth after the Indians scored two runs on Hintn's homer, Max Alvis' single and Vic Davalillo's double.

The speedy, 5-foot-7 Davalillo bowled an umpire over as he rounded first. He collided with Bill McKinley, a 6-footer, and both went down. Davalillo got up and made it to second.

Tigers Tip Red Sox on Three-Hitter

DETROIT (AP) — Hank Aguirre pitched a three-hitter gaining his third straight victory as the Detroit Tigers defeated the Boston Red Sox 4-1 Friday night.

The only hits off Aguirre, the first left-hander to start against the hard-hitting Red Sox this season, were a third-inning single by Rico Petrocelli, a pinch-hit homer by Chuck Schilling in the fifth and Frank Malzone's double in the eighth.

Gates Brown knocked in Detroit's first two runs with a bases-loaded double in the third.

The Tigers scored another run in the third when Al Kaline, who had singled, scored on Bill Freehan's ground out.

Dick McAuliffe walked in the fourth, went to third on a single by Jerry Lumpe and scored Detroit's fourth run as Norm Cash grounded into a double play.

Aguirre walked the bases loaded in the fourth but got BOB Tillman on a fly to left.

Diversity of Activity On Tap at Air Force

While most interest naturally centers on this afternoon's Blue-Silver intra-squad football game in Falcon Stadium, marking the finish of spring practice for Coach Ben Martin's grid squad, there is a variety of other activity this weekend for Air Force Academy teams.

Martin has divided his football roster, with the varsity taking the Blue shirts and the junior varsity dressed in Silver for the 2 p.m. kickoff in Falcon Stadium. The public is welcome to attend the annual climax to spring grid workouts.

Meanwhile, the AFA track team will be holding its second and last home meet of the season this morning, against visiting Iowa State University of the Big Eight Conference. The meet, originally slated for the afternoon, was moved up to 10 a.m. so that fans may attend both this event and the football game.

In baseball, the Falcons will be on the road with a double header slated at Provo, Utah, against the heavy-hitting Brigham Young nine which is fresh from blasting Utah State in a pair of Thursday contests, 22-3 and 19-0.

The Cadet baseballers return to the Academy next week for a Wednesday 3 p.m. game against Colorado State College of Greeley and then a re-scheduled contest against Denver University the following day at the same time. Both CSC and Denver are leading contenders for area berths in the NCAA playoffs this season so next week's slate could be the best of the spring for the Falcons.

In golf, the Falcons are to take on Mines and Regis in a triangular this afternoon and meet Colorado University in Denver this Sunday. Next week is also important to the AFA swingers in that the annual Pikes Peak Collegiate Invitational with more than a dozen teams entered will be staged Friday and Saturday at both the Academy's Eisenhower course and the Broadmoor course. The AFA and Colorado College are co-hosts for this meet.

The tennis team at the Air Force Academy is slated against Iowa State this afternoon and will meet Colorado College in Colorado Springs on Sunday.

Coach Arne Arnesen's track squad will be looking for a sweep of their home meets this spring when they tackle the tough Cyclones of Iowa State this morning on the AFA's oval, north of the Cadet gymnasium. Earlier, the Falcons clipped Occidental of California in an upset in the only other home meet.

Arnesen feels his Falcons have a good chance of beating Iowa State in this dual affair, but they are expecting fine performances from some of the visitors. Heading the Cyclone squad will be Darryl Green in the high hurdles, who turned in a swift 13.9 clocking last week in besting Dave Dick of the Air Force in the prelims of the Drake Relays. Dick came back to nip Green in the finals with a 14.1 timing, however.

Other stars from Iowa are Steve Carson in the quarter-mile, Larry Hill in the triple jump and broad jump, and Brian Kuhlmann in the two-mile. Kuhlmann should have quite a battle with the AFA's great Jim Murphy, who just last week qualified for the NCAA finals with his best clocking in the distance event.

The Falcons are strong in the field events this year, however, and Arnesen is counting on points there to pull out the team victory.

Coach Connie Sparks will again go with his one-two punch on the mound in left ace Al McClure and right hander Dick Guido to lead the Air Force past Brigham Young at Provo. The AFA's season record currently stands at 6-8 and a sweep over the Cougars would bring them back to .500 ball again.

Last year it was BYU that snapped a 10-game winning streak for the NCAA tournament-bound Cadets with the visitors pounding out a 12-7 decision in the first game of a two-tilt series. In the second contest the Falcons bounced back for a 9-5 win. That was the first time in four the Air Force had beaten Brigham Young in baseball.

Outfielder John McBroom, a sophomore from Prince George, Va., leads the AFA regulars into the BYU series on a .389 batting average. He is followed by first baseman Bruce Huneke (.315), outfielder Tipp Simpson (.289), and Dick Lee at second base (.271) from Colorado Springs.

Rose Aids Cincinnati's 6-1 Victory

CINCINNATI (AP) — Pete Rose collected five hits, including a two-run home run that capped a three-homer barrage off Warren Spahn in the sixth inning, as Cincinnati whipped the New York Mets 6-1 Friday night.

The 44-year-old Spahn, seeking his third straight victory, wound up instead with his first defeat after being battered in the sixth for five runs.

After Jim Hickman fumbled Deron Johnson's grounder, leading off the inning, Tony Perez socked a homer, breaking a 1-1 tie. John Edwards followed with another homer, and Leo Cardenas singled.

Pitcher John Tsitouris, who pitched a five-hitter, bunted the third strike foul before Rose connected for his fourth hit.

Rose completed his perfect 5-for-5 night with a double in the eighth inning. He singled in the first, third and fifth.

The Mets had taken a 1-0 lead in the first inning on a isputed play.

Rookie Ron Swoboda knocked the ball to the top of the center field wall with the bases loaded, but second base umpire Frank Secory ruled it a single. Mets coach Yogi Berra was thrown out of the game for arguing it was a grand slam home run.

Angel Rally Puts Down Athletics

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Los Angeles Angels erupted for three runs in the fourth inning Friday night and defeated the Kansas City Athletics 4-0 behind the seven hit pitching of Marcelino Lopez and Bob Lee.

John O'Donoghue, who had a 3-1 record against the Angels last season, gave up a single to Willie Smith opening the fourth. Jim Fregosi scored Smith with a triple to center. Joe Adcock doubled Fregosi home and later scored on a single by Paul Schall.

Smith homered leading off the ninth against reliever John Wyatt.

Lopez, who evened his record at 2-2, pitched into the eighth when he had to have help from Lee. Wyane Causey walked to open the inning and Ken Harrelson lined a pinch single to left.

Lee took over and threw out Jim Gentile on a bouncer to the mound, the runners advancing. Ed Charles flied to shallow right and Hershberger fouled to Piersall.

Astros Take Eighth Victory With 4-3 Dome Verdict

HOUSTON (AP) — Joe Gaines' two-run pinch hit homer and Al Spangler's sacrifice fly following Joe Morgan's second triple of the game in the eighth inning boosted the Houston Astros to a 4-3 victory over Chicago and their eighth straight triumph Friday night.

Bob Buhl held the Astros to four hits until Bob Lillis opened the eighth with a single. Gaines batted for starting pitcher Dick Farrell and smashed a homer into the left field seats.

Morgan, up next, belted a triple off the right field wall, sending Buhl out in favor of Ted Abernathy. Spangler lofted a fly to George Altman in left field and Morgan reached home with the deciding run.

Hal Woodeshick pitched the ninth inning for the Astros, retiring the Cubs in order.

The Cubs pounced on Farrell for four hits in the first three innings and helped by two Houston errors, grabbed a 3-0 lead.

But Farrell settled down after that, pitrhing shutball until he was removed for Gaines in the eighth.

Looking at Hollywood

By HEDDA HOPPER

© 1964: By the Chicago Tribune

NEW YORK — Producer Ross Hunter blew into town and went right to work with Mike Nichols and Peter Schafer on the script of "The Public Eye" to star Julie Andrews when she finishes "Hawaii." Shaffer wrote the play; Nichols will direct the picture. Ross caught a preview of his latest film, "The Art of Love," then stood in the lobby and asked the patrons what they thought of it. He got an earful. They were mad about Dick Van Dyke, Elke Sommer, Ethel Merman, and Carl Reiner, who wrote the script and also a part for himself — he's such a ham! Ross was only amused at the blast Lana Turner gave him in another column. . . Ethel Merman phoned to say, "Welcome, but I can't see you." In the midst of redecorating her new place, she was knee deep in painters and carpenters; was about to rehearse with Johnny Carson and fly to Chicago for a benefit. She'll go west to rehearse "Call Me Madam" at the Valley Music theater in July.

Perle Mesta and I took in "Funny Girl." She'd seen it before; it was my first time. Barbra Streisand is sensational all right. How a girl of 22 could learn all that is beyond me. No she's studying piano; says with her long finernails she can only play the black keys. Barbra amazed Perle when she visited her home in Washington, D.C., by placing every piece of French furniture in its proper period. As soon as Streisand has a free Sunday evening, Perle will throw a big Washington party for her. . . . After the play, we dined with Carol Channing and her husband, Charles Lowe, who tell me their son Channing will attend Harvard Military school in the Valley when Carol plays "Dolly" on the coast for four months — two in Los Angeles, two in San Francisco. She's looking forward to the sunshine. Tours are conducted thru celebrity apartments at the Waldorf (for charity), and the other day they caught Lowe shaving. But there was one consolation. Their apartment outdrew the Duke of Windsor's two to one.

Now I know how those politicians feel. I shook hands with 2,000 at the Chicago Tribune-New York News cocktail party for the publishers. My Altoona pals were all there and we had a strategy meeting. We're still fighting to get that railroad museum in our home town. Saw Kevin McCarthy, who says he bowed out of that TV series — didn't like his part. Met Alex Cord, who'll tackle the Duke Wayne part in the remake of "Stagecoach," and told him he had his work cut out for him. George Hamilton came in from a TV rehearsal, and Alice Leone Moats flew in from Rome to sell her book, "Roman Folly." She gave me you know what for not finding time to read it.

Jan and Mike Cowles gave a wonderful cocktail party. Mike, recently returned from Saigon, told some amazing stories about what he'd found there. The Charles Thieriots told me they were taking off for Paris for the week-end. How chic can you get! Glad to see the young Harry Byrds of Virginia. Harry says his father was delighted with the motion pictures Lucille Ball took of his place last spring. Heard some news about Margaret Mitchell's brother, Stephens Mitchell, the only surviving member of the family. He has a collection of letters his sister wrote him over the years. When asked what he planned to do with them he said he thought he'd burn them before he dies. Wouldn't that be a great loss! . . . Saw my old pal, Chester Gould at the cartoonists' luncheon and got a preview of what's going to happen to Moon Maid. Wow! Clarence Batchelor and Arthur Laro welcomed a lot of new cartoonists into the fold.

Air Force Base Plays Host To Baby Tiger

By JACK BARKER

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP) — What Pease Air Force Base didn't know probably won't hurt it.

The Strategic Air Command installation has played host — for the past month — to a baby tiger.

The only people that knew about it were the tiger's benefactors — and probably a few people who suspected things when they heard a growl or two in the night.

The 14-pound baby tiger belongs to S.Sgt. and Mrs. Donald Klickovich.

Klickovich is shipping out soon for a year's duty in South Viet Nam. His wife will take the pet to a new home off base.

The Siberian tigeris called "Boo" — because its owners say it jumps at the slightest noise.

It came to Pease from Albany, N.Y., where it was born about 45 days ago.

Boo came from Mrs. Klickovich's sister and brother-in-law who have a tiger act in the Shrine Circus.

When one of the tigers gave birth to Boo during the circus' run in Albany, they had to find a home for the baby tiger immediately.

Boo's upbringing is, at best, a complicated process.

The animal has to have a specially prepared formula that closely simulates her own mother's milk.

Boo has its own playpen, stuffed animals and a poddle puppy to play with. Roughhousing with the poodle is a one-way game. The dog hasn't really taken to the tiger yet.

Boo follows Klickovich around the house, climbs the stairs and watches Mrs. Klickovich prepare dinner.

H. L. Hunt Writes

In the wake of World War II, communism threatened to swallow up China and spill out all over Southeast Asia. Our wartime ambassador, General Patrick Hurley, and our wartime and postwar commander in China, General Albert Wedemeyer, both advised against State Department policies that were aiding the Reds and hampering the recovery of the Chinese Nationalist Government.

The State Department refused to turn its back on its own "experts," and it classified General Wedemeyer's "White Paper" on China and Korea so that information, which contradicted the views of the State Department, would not be made public.

By disregarding Wedemeyer's advice, Washington officialdom not only caused China to fall to the Reds, but made the Korean War inevitable — as Wedemeyer had predicted.

After Castro's landing in the Sierra Maestra region in 1957, other informed and concerned citizens and military men urged the State Department to heed Fidel's communist record, stop aiding him, and cease diplomatic pressures for removal of the Batista government. But the State Department's leaders, who had clung to the image of the Chinese Reds as "agrarian reformers" to the bitter end, persisted just as resolutely in believing the fable of Castro as a Cuban Robin Hood.

Cuba is now solidly behind the Cane Curtain of communism, and still the State Department is aloof to the advice of concerned and well-informed people. The American position throughout South America is deteriorating rapidly with help from Castro's agents, but the State Department continues to ignore reality. HLH

The U.S. now has 4,248 nine-hole and 3,229 18-hole golf courses, according to Harry C. Eckhoff, eastern regional director of the National Golf Foundation.

City Crews Will Start Street Painting

"Please don't track the paint," asks City Traffic Engineer Don Smith.

Starting Monday, city crews will start striping streets in the downtown business area.

"That wet paint really tracks. Please be careful when you see signs and plastic cones," Smith said.

Crews will start painting shortly before dawn and will finish about 7:30 a.m. for the next three weeks, Monday through Friday.

Because of daylight savings time, crews will have less hours of light to work in the mornings.

Smith asked motorists to please not park at "hooded" meters and reminded that disregard for street painting activities carried a maximum $300 fine.

Good Ad Should Stir, Stop And Startle, Speaker Says

"A good ad should stir, stop and startle people," the reputed woman "brain" of the ad vertising business said Friday.

Mrs. Bernice Fitz - Gibbon, president of her own New York firm and originator of Macy's "It's Smart to be Thrifty" slogan, was featured speaker concluding the Independent Retailers Syndicate, Inc. meeting in the Broadmoor Hotel's El Pomar Room.

Seventy executives representing 45 stores participated in the three-day conference.

Mrs. Fitz-Gibson said testimonials are the best kind of advertisements that can be used.

'Testimonials are the best kind of ads you can make, if you make them believable. If you can make it believable it's sound," she said.

The executive, once named woman of the year in advertising, said a store might benefit by using ads which are "above" the general public.

"If you get the trickle of rich coming in, you'll get the thundering herd of the poor and that's the way to build your volume," Mrs. Fitz-Gibbon said.

She told the retailers that the West and every other part of the country needs advice from the East on advertising. Mrs. Fitz-Gibbon said newspaper ads she has seen regionally "are pretty bad."

A retailer should look for two things when he hires a new ad employee — keen observation and technical skill to put words on paper with which to see that observation, she said.

Other speakers during the meeting here included James J. Barry, Jr., sales promotion direction of TRS; Bernard G. Cohn, president of the syndicate; Ron G. Poland, director of Consulting Psychological Services, Denver, and Norman Jaspan, president of Norman Jaspan Associats, Inc.

Lawn Mower Hospital to Hold Grand Opening

Lawn Mower Hospital, at 2303 N. Weber St., is holding a grand opening today at its recently enlarged and redecorated building. A number of door prizes are scheduled to be given away to a number of those who register today.

The addition to Lawn Mower Hospital's original 1,200 square-foot building was completed in late December, but the grand opening was delayed to coincide with the advent of warm weather in the region.

Construction, which took a major portion of last year, was handled by Damian P. Depatie and J. O. Betts construction companies, both local firms. Depatie designed the 2,400 square-foot additiion.

The new building is comprised of pre-cast concrete and pumice block, with a partial brick exterior. Besides tripling its size with the building addition, the lawn mower outlet also increased its parking area, located at the front of the store.

Jacobsen is the primary lawn mower line in stock, running the gamut from 16 - inch blades on reel and rotary mowers to 30 - inch blades on large garden tractors. The firm also stocks mower engines, parts, accessories and garden supplies. The enlargement to the building also meant an enlargement of the service area, which now can handle a greater work-load than ever before.

Besides the list of door prizes to be given away during today's grand opening, there are also a number of power mowers listed at special, low intro ductory prices.

Youth Found Guilty in Traffic Charge

A 16-year-old youth was found guilty Friday in Municipal Court on a careless driving charge filed against him by William Simpson, 1204 N. Walnut St.

Simpson testified that he was at his parents' home, 1903 El Parque, on April 10. He said he observed a car being driven at a speed he estimated at 35 miles an hour on the gravel road in front of the Simpson residence. The driver, he said, came to a sliding halt at Fontanero Street, skidded to a stop, turned west, spinning tires, pulled into the driveway of 205 W. Fontanero St., home of Dr. Maurice Snyder, immediately pulled out, returned to El Parque "tearing" in the gravel road again, and continued on towards Wood Avenue.

Simpson said he had earlier observed the car doing this, but did not get the license number until about noon when the driver repeated the conduct. He said that night, the driver, Mark McKinna, 16, 117 E. Jefferson St., came to his parents' home and requested he dismiss the charges of reckless and careless driving he had lodged.

Simpson said he declined to do so.

Mark testified he never drove over 30, that his wheels did spin in the gravel because the back snow tires had very little tread.

Judge Allan Asher disclosed that he lived across the street from the Simpson house, that he drives the road twice and sometimes more each day, and is capable of doing so without throwing gravel.

He dismissed the reckless charge against Mark, found him guilty of careless driving, and levied a $30 fine. Half was suspended on condition Mark attends the May 12 and June 16 traffic lectures and has no moving violations for the next year. Mark agreed.

Richard Baker, 17, 1077 LaSalle St., and Everette Eis, 56, Peyton, were found guilty of failing to yield the right of way. Both received $10 fines. Richard's was suspended on condition he has no further violations this year and attends the May 12 lecture. Both were represented by Lawrence Hecox.

A drag racing charge against Clinton Farmer, 25, Ft. Carson, was dismissed on the failure of Patrolman Henry Fryer to identify the soldier. Farmer was represented by Clifton Kruse.

Patricia Vaughn, 17, 1519 E. Monument St., was found guilty of careless driving and was fined $10.

Gerry Howard, 21, 114 S. 16th St., was fined $100 on guilty plea to reckless driving. Judge Asher also imposed a 15-day jail sentence.

A $5 bond was ordered forfeited by Margaret Crow, 23, Denver, when she failed to appear in court on a charge of disobeying a flashing signal.

Eugene Wasinger, 44, 321 E. Bijou St., pleaded guilty to drunkenness and was given a 15-day suspended jail sentence.

Innocent Pleas Heard In District Court

Two defendants pleaded innocent in district court Friday before Judge Hunter D. Hardeman and had their trial dates set.

Jose Alvarado Gomez, 19 Ft. Carson will be tried June 15 for assault to murder.

Gomez is accused of shooting Jerry W. Melton, 21, formerly of Ft. Carson, in the left hip with a .25 calibre revolver March 27. The incident is said to have happened at the Continental Bus Depot.

Melton told officers at the time that he did not know Gomez but that he had seen him earlier in a local bar. Gomez said the shooting was accidental.

Edward Meek Jr. pleaded innocent to burglary and larceny and trial was set for June 22.

According to the charge Meek, 20, 323 E. Vermijo St. broke into the Beatty Radiator Shop, 719 E. Pikes Peak Ave. April 2, and stole items valued at $300.

Police Chief Wayne King announced the appointment of a new patrolman, effective midnight, Friday.

Albert J. Licastro, one of the three patrolmen who recently resigned from the Manitou Springs Police Dept., was sworn in late Friday afternoon.

The Gazette Telegraph was told Friday that Licastro resigned from the Manitou force with the express purpose of joining Fountain's three - man police department. Licastro worked for the Manitou Police for 25 months.

King said that Teich had given him the usual 30 days notice of his pending resignation and that he resigned "for personal reasons." Fountain presently has two full-time and one part-time patrolman, along with King. James England works there on a full-time basis, while Dennis Rokeh fills in part time there.

Teich lives with his wife, Janice, and their three children at Chancellor's Trailer Court, Fountain.

Licastro recently moved to Fountain and is now living in Riley's Trailer Court, with his wife and two daughters. His law enforcement experience was all gained during his two-year stint in Manitou.

Defendant Changes Plea in Court

Willie Edward Holland changed his plea to guilty in district court Friday and Judge Hunter D. Hardeman set May 14 for sentencing.

Holland, 20, Ft. Carson has been charged with larceny from the person and is accused of robbing Dewey C. Phillips, April 1 on the 100 block of South Wahsatch Ave.

The defendant first pleaded innocent April 16 and trial date had been set for May 4.

Weather in April Left Vicious Records

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

April 1965, was one of nature's most vicious periods in the United States, killing 227 persons by tornado, earthquake and flood.

More than 2,500 were injured, 40,000 made homeless, and damage was apparently near $325 million.

The earthquake Thursday in the Pacific Northwest, which killed at least six, injured many and caused extensive damage, was the only calamity of its category. Destruction cost is yet uncalculated.

Tornadoes lashed repeatedly during the month, but were rampant Palm Sunday, April 11, when 37 twisters raked the Midwest. The one-day toll included 204 dead, at least 2,000 hurt, and damage of $150 million or more in Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and Illinois.

Five persons were killed in a tornado April 10 at Conway, Ark.

Floods worked constantly, a creeping, spreading, smothering force in the upper Mississipi Valley.

In Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Illinois, they took 12 lives, drove 38,000 persons from their homes and did upwards of $150 million damage.

Youth Injured When Hit by Car

A pedestrian was injured Friday when he was hit by a car at Fillmore Street and El Paso Street, the State Patrol reported.

Sam Bishop, 15, 1710 W. St. Vrain St., suffered concusions and abrasions to the head and face, an injury to his right shoulder, and a lacerated upper lip. He was taken to Penrose Hospital by E & E Ambulance.

According to Patrolman Fred Henderson, Bishop was hit by a car driven by Donald D. Wilkinson, 26, 2814 Concord St. Wilkinson told Patrolman Henderson he was westbound on Fillmore Street at 7:20 p.m. Friday and said he was blinded by the sun, failing to see seven boys walking west in the street. The car hit Bishop with the right front fender and carried him on the hood for approximately 74 feet, according to the report.

Damage to the car, a 1958 Plymouth station wagon, was estimated at $10.

Pohl Placed On Probation

Ronald Arthur Pohl, 22, Loves Park, Ill., was given a deferred sentence and placed on probation Friday by District Judge Hunter D. Hardeman.

Pohl was originally charged with burglary and larceny but when he pleaded guilty April 13 to burglary, the second count was then dismissed by the district attorney's office.

The defendant was accused of breaking into TV Specialists and Appliances Inc. 332 N. Tejon St., Feb. 27. The dismissed charge alleged he stole a $130 tape recorder.

Civil Rights Battle Perplexing Lawyers

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) —The civil rights battle has become so complex that bar association rather than individuals, must maintain a professional conduct standard for lawyers in the South, a former Mississippi law dean told University of Colorado law school students Friday.

Robert J. Farley, University of Mississippi law dean from 1946-1963, made the statement in delivering the annual John R. Coen Memorial lecture.

The Tail of a One-Eyed Pigeon

THREE'S A CROWD — The Cooper Theatre's next attraction, Universal's hilarious comedy in color, "Fluffy," has Tony Randall romantically inclined towards Shirley Jones, with the very happy lion, Fluffy, pleased about the whole thing.

'Fluffy' Is Latest for Randall

Tony Randall, who won accolades as a screen comedian, says that trying to explain exactly what comedy is, is like trying to eat raw oysters with boxing gloves — it escapes you when you try to get hold of it.

"There are certain staple items," Tony remarked on the set of his latest Universal comedy in color, "Fluffy," which comes next to the Cooper Theatre, "like the falling-down bit, or the surprise build-up with the thing that happens twice and then is different the third time. You can predict laughter only to a certain extent, but the only sure way that I know of to make people laugh — is to tickle their feet."

Nevertheless, plain - spoken Tony has deeply ingrained feelings about the acting business, including comedy. In his view an actor is an actor — with no dividing lines as to the type or material he is equipped to handle. Demonstrating his versatility, he recently completed a tour de force by playing seven characters in the title role for "The Seven Faces of Dr. Lao." And his last previous appearance for Universal was a starring role in "Send Me No Flowers," with Rock Hudson and Doris Day.

In "Fluffy," which has been called the most uproarious comedy role of his career, he stars with Shirley Jones and a 500-pound African lion who plays the title role.

Few actors have put in more spade work than Tony in absorbing what he considers the basics of his craft. He was a drama and speech major at Northwestern University, and after one year, enrolled in the Neighborhood Playhouse in New York. He also studied "movement" with Martha Graham, and voice with Henry Jacobi.

It was a short step to Broadway where he cut his acting teeth in 1941 in "A Circle of Chalk." He appeared with Ethel Barrymore in "The Corn is Green" and with Jane Cowl in "Candida" before going into the Army Signal Corps during World War II.

After the war, he brilliantly demonstrated how thoroughly he had prepared himself in the role of the stuttering brother with Katherine Cornell in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street." This was followed by another performance with Miss Cornell in "Anthony and Cleopatra."

'Emily' at Vista Vue Tomorrow

Running for only five minutes on the screen, the sequence in which James Garner leads a wave of assault troops on Omaha Beach during World War II in "The Americanization of Emily;" starting tomorrow night at the Vista View Drive In Theater, required four month In Theater, required 4 months of preparation and a week of photography.

Filmed on a remote strip of California beach, the vital sequence of the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture also required:

500 extras, 5,000 pounds of explosive, 400 aerial charges, 100 smoke machines, 600 pounds of flash powder, 80 coils of barbed wire and 200 pounds of underwater dynamite charges.

In charge of the special effects was Paul Byrd, who created the memorable action effects for the train robbery in "How the West Was Won" and the burning of H. M. S. Bounty in "Mutiny on the Bounty."

In "Never Put It In Writing," the co-feature starting tomorrow at the Vista View, Pat Boone has a new kind of role, a wild comedy.

It's a comedy about an ambitious young insurance executive who is seeking the top spot in his company. Although the character he plays is sharp, he's also likeable. What Pat especially enjoyed about the film was its fast pace and the many hilarious situations.

"Never Put It In Writing" also stars Fidelma Murphy and Milo O'Shea and was written, produced and directed at Andrew Stone.

Shot in Dark Tomorrow at 8th Street

In Blake Edwards' new comedy, "A Shot in the Dark," Mirisch Films presentation tomorrow at the 8th Street Drive In Theatre, through United Artists Release, Elke Sommer plays a sizzling blonde who can cause a crowd of ogling males to gather by simply standing still. It's obviously a case of type-casting. Shapely Miss Sommer (36-22-36) has enjoyed a meteoric rise to film stardom. She made her acting debut in an Italian production less than five years ago, went on to starring roles and has now made thirteen movies in Italy, France, Germany, Hollywood & London. American audiences know her for her performances in "The Victors" and "The Prize," in which she was cast opposite Paul Newman. Now, as a gorgeous femme-fatalle involved in a series of murders, she is co-starred with Peter Sellers in "A Shot in the Dark." which was photographed in Panavision and Color by DeLuxe.

Born in Berlin, Elke at first studied for the diplomatic service and in order to learn English she took a job in London as a maid in a private home. Within seven months she had mastered English and returned home. Later, journeying through Italy with her mother, she entered a dance contest and won it. An Italian film producer saw her, offered her a part in his next film, and that's how it all began — just like in the movies!

Open House

Before the turn of the century almost anyone could get into the White House who wanted to chat with the President or look around. The executive mansion was open to the public one to four hours a day.

TODAY'S COVER

And thereby hangs the tale of today's cover story— on the tail of a fantail pigeon. The only thing is, he has two eyes, but when a fantail pigeon puffs up his chest and spreads his exotic tail feathers, he folds his head far back on his tail and if you're lucky, you might see a single eye peering out at you as STAN PAYNE discovered when he took today's cover photo. ED COOK explored the world of show pigeons and what he discovered will be found with STAN'S other pictures of pigeons people know little about with today's cover story on pages 16 and 17.

Choral Society to Close Year With May 21 Concert

The Colorado Springs Choral Society will present "The Peaceable Kingdom", by Randall Thompson and "The Liebesliedder Waltzes", by Johannas Brahms. Performances will be at the Fine Arts Center, May 21, at 8:15.

Randall Thompson, composer of "The Peaceable Kingdom" and a native of New York, is well known for his works, not only writing music, but for technical survey published in "College Music". "The Peaceable Kingdom" illustrates passages from Isaiah, as preached by Edward Hicks, a Pennsylvania preacher.

Light and airy, "The Leibesleider Waltzes," one of Brahms most beautiful works, will be sung in all its glory by the Choral Society. Brahms wrote this charming expression of contemporary Vienna in 1868. It was published in 1869.

The Colorado Springs Choral Society has been presenting outstanding Choral programs in the Pikes Peak region for the past eight years.

The acclaim the Choral Society has won is attributed to the hard work of many people, including David Porter, director.

Tickets are $2 and will be available at Chinook Book Shop, Monday May 17. For further information call 636-3888 or 633-6234.

Wanted Girl Got Writer

Talent, like gold, is where you find it. Producer - director Howard Hawks, seeking new faces for Paramount's forthcoming "Red Line 7000," took note of an actress he had spotted on a TV show.

Before shooting a test of her Hawks had the tape of the show re - run. Though pleased with the girl's beauty and talent, he decided she wouldn't be quite right for the role. In the process, however, Hawks was impressed with the bright dialogue in the show itself and later signed its author, George Kirgo, to write the final script of "Red Line 7000."

As it developed, the program was not only Kirgo's first drama for TV, but "Red Line 7000" is also his first screenplay.

World Power

Diplomatically, the U. S. became a world power in 1892 when our country first exchanged ambassadors instead of ministers with Great Britain, Germany and France. The change required an act of Congress, completed in 1893.

COME INTO MY PARLOR — A salesman-romeo and potential married man is the role in which Glenn Ford stars in "Dear Heart" opening tomorrow at the Peak Theatre. The picture also stars three-time academy award nominee Geraldine Page.

'Dear Heart' Starts at Peak Sunday

Glenn Ford, who plays the errant but earnest travelling-salesman in "Dear Heart", Warner Bros. new comedy-drama set to open tomorrow at the Peak Theatre, is endowed with a wonderful combination of heavy audience appeal and real acting talent. Boxoffice polls each year rank him one of the top screen favorites throughout the country.

Audiences will again enjoy him as he stars opposite Geraldine Page in the bittersweet comedy called "Dear Heart". Ford and Miss Page are supported by co-stars Angela Lansbury, Barbara Nichols, Patricia Barry, Charles Drake and Michael Anderson, Jr., The film was produced by Martin Manulis and directed by Delbert Mann. Tad Mosel wrote the scenario, his first for the moive screen.

Glenn Ford was born Gwyllyn Ford in Quebec. When he was eight, the family moved to Santa Monica, California. The boy soon showed promise as a track star but later interested himself in school dramatics. After graduation, while trying to establish himself as an actor, he held a variety of jobs, including roofer, glass-cutter, window-stripper, paint salesman, assistant manager of a movie theatre and stage manager of a vaudeville theatre. He obtained his first acting job — a grocery - boy in "The Children's Hour" — because he could also double as assistant stage manager of the production.

Ford joined The Players, a little theatre group in Santa Monica, and also picked up an occasional professional acting job. One of these stranded him in San Francisco, so he got a fill-in spot as manager of a burlesque house.

Eventually he won a screentest at 20th Century-Fox, and a leading role in a movie called "Heaven With a Barbed Wire Fence." Soon after he was signed by Columbia and appeared in a number of hit films. His growing career was interrupted by World War II. He spent three years in the Marines, saw active combat, and to this day retains interest in the armed services. He is a reserve Navy lieutenant commander. He is also active in many philanthropic organizations.

Ford's popularity really went into high when he signed by Warner Bros. to appear opposte Bette Davis in "A Stolen Life." "Gilda," with Rita Wayworth, followed and Ford became one of Hollywood's most indemand personalities for whom the hits came in close succession. In the intervening period, however, he has not appeared in any other Warner film except the newest one, "Dear Heart".

'Charlotte' Now at the Cooper

Two Academy Award winners each, Bette Davis and Olivia de Havilland, are teamed with Joseph Cotten in the Seven Academy Award nomination film, "Hush . . . Hush, Sweet Charlotte" now showing at the Cooper theatre.

Set and filmed on location in Louisiana, "Hush . . . Hush, Sweet Charlotte" is an eerie tale of murder, madness and revenge. Miss Davis plays the title role of Charlotte, an aging and demented ex-Southern belle, with Olivia de Havilland as her cousin Miriam, and Joseph Cotten as Miss de Havilland's former beau, now a prominent doctor.

Co-stars in the film are Agnes Moorehead, nominated as Best Supporting Actress for 1964 in her role as Miss Davis' illiterate housekeeper, drab, unkempt, and baggy, Cecil Kellaway, William Campbell, Victor B'uono and Mary Astor. The film, as advertised, starts with a gripping scene and as such sets the mood for the action to follow. It should be seen from the beginning and the Cooper has scheduled features at 1:25, 4:00, 6:40 and 9:15 daily.

Most radio listeners are acquainted with the title song, "Hush . . . Hush, Sweet Charlotte, which has attained the popularity of the top-ten spot. It too was nominated for an Academy Award.

Jean Genet's 'Balcony' Set at Flick

Jean Genet's controversial off-Broadway play has been made into a controversial "off-Hollywood" film.

"The Balcony", now at the Flick, is limited to audiences of 18 years and older. This adult motion picture version of the play that shocked even off-Broadway playgoers has been called a savage comedy.

Another critic praises it with the term hard-hitting cinematic art. Opinions are split. Another review said, "No one under 18 could be admitted, but there was no such law to protect those older".

Genet pictures man's erotic world through the story of Irma, the madame of a house of illusion where for a price men can live their wildest dreams. Academy Award actress Shelley Winters and Peter Faulk star in this adult shocker.

Appearing also is the short "The Black Cat".

'YT and T' Now Showing At Broadmoor

Now showing at the Broadmoor Theatre is the Academy award winner for best foreign film this year "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow."

The luscious Sophia Loren and the handsome Marcello Mastroianni, two of Italy's top stars who have really captured the American moviegoing public, have never given more natural and engaging portrayals than under Vittorio De Sica's guidance in this delightfully entertaining Italian three-part film.

Produced by Carlo Ponti for Champion - Concordia, the three episodes, well photographed in color, take place in a squalid section of Naples, where the healthy Sophia wears out her husband by having a continuous succession of babies to keep out of jail; in Milan, where the elegant wife of a wealthy industrialist reveals her selfish nature to her latest lover, and in Rome, where a beautiful prostitute attracts the attention of a neighboring seminary student, to the dismay of her steady customer. The last is both hilarious and touching, with Miss Loren revealing her undressed charms and young Giovannni Ridolfi and the elderly Tina Pica adding fine portrayals. Mastroianni is at his best as the unhappy husband of the child-bearing Sophia in Naples and both stars have a well-dressed change of pace in the Milan episode, the shortest of the three.

Starting Wednesday at the Broadmoor is "The Finest Hour" based on the life of Winston Churchill.

Quaking Force

The force of an earthquake is enormous, according to The Book of Knowledge. For example, the largest earthquakes release 10,000 times more energy than the atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima during World War II.

'Bone' Man

The only theatrical ambition comedy star Andy Griffith can remember as a youngster was to master the trombone—which he did.

TOGETHER AGAIN — Robert Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck are together again on the screen for the first time in many years as the co-stars of "The Night Walker," now at the Ute Theatre.

Night Walker Backed By Science

In researching his latest suspense drama, "The Night Walker," starring Rorbert Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck, now showing at the Ute Theatre, producer - director William Castle unearthed these little-known, unusual — and unsettling — facts about dreams.

Your dreams can kill you. In the U.S. alone during the past year at least five persons are known to have died from nightmares, due to heart attacks brought on by terror, choking to death, fatal accidents while sleepwalking and other direct results of dreams.

Most people dream in both color and black and white, according to the Institute of Dream Research, Miami, Fla., but while the majority of Women's dreams are in Technicolor — as high as eight out of 10 — most men dream only in black and white. As yet, the Instititue doesn't know how to account for this difference.

Many sleepers have series of related (as does Barbara Stanwyck in "The Night Walker") similar to installments of a story and connected by a common theme.

Contrary to the former belief that what seemed to encompass many minutes was dreamed in a few seconds, it is now established that events in a dream happen about as fast as corresponding events in reality.

Most people dream four or five times a night. Though they may last from a few minutes to an hour, dreams average about 20 minutes.

Since the dawn of History dreams have fascinated man, but not until the 20th century did scientific medical research begin a thorough study of the subject. One authority cites 4712 books and monographs on sleep and dreams, but admits: "Many of these are contradictory. We still know comparatively little about dreams."

TRIANGLE — "Love Has Many Faces" starts Wednesday at the Chief Theatre and features the above familiar faces, including Stefanie Powers, Hugh O'Brien, and Lana Turner.

Turner Just Right for 'Many Faces'

Lana Turner, blonde and beautiful, continues in the tradition of the Hollywood glamor queen. Currently starred in Jerry Bresler's "Love Has Many Faces," new Columbia Pictures release in color at the Chief Theatre, Miss Turner appears as an American vacationist in Acapulco, Mexico, who use her millions and her full curves to win whatever she wants. In the new Columbia Pictures release, she wants co-star Cliff Robertson.

Lana's glamor and physical assets are enhanced by a multiplicity of wardrobe changes: glamorous, sophisticated gowns, soignee cocktail dresses, colorful sport clothes and bathing suits, a million - dollar wardrobe created by Academy Award winner Edith Head.

Lana's first conscious ambition was to become a nun, but time and circumstances changed that initial urge. Her enviable figure and a form-fitting sweater made her a Hollywood celebrity overnight, but although fame came quickly, stardom did not.

The turning point in her career came when she was cast in the role of the tragic chorine in "Ziegfeld Girl." This, and subsequent parts in "The Postman Always Rings Twice" and "The Bad and the Beautiful," established her as a glamor queen who could act, a reputation she enhances with each performance.

'Yanco' Is Story of Boy And Violin

"Yanco," the highly acclaimed Mexican film for both children and adults, will be shown at the Fine Arts Center Tuesday at 2:30, 7:25, and 9 p.m.

The modern fable of Mexico is unique in many ways. It is made entirely without dialogue, only sound effects and music which forces the viewer to both watch and listen. It is poignant and sensitive without being maudling. It is that rate event which appeals to both adults and children.

The remarkable photography combined with the superb blending of music and sound tell the story of a small Mexican boy of eight who seeks refuge from the discordant noises around him in music. He first hides away making strange melodies on a crudely home-made violin and later meets an old man with a white beard playing a beautiful violin called "Yanco."

The boy's mother, a humble seamstress in the poverty and ignorance - ridden village, cannot conceive of her son's peculiar sensitivity to sounds as a sign of musical talent, and seeks to have his "illness" treated with witchcraft.

Ricardo Ancona as the boy Juanito is remarkable. His large, wide-set eyes and broad cheeks and shy, full mouth more than reflect his emotions; they are the features of the spirit of music.

Premiered in this country at New York's Lincoln Center, critics were unanimous in their praise of the film's remarkable beauty, charm and emotional power. The New York Times said it was "lovely in the purity of its theme, lovely in composition. It weaves a romantic fable with simple, charming threads, and with some individual shots of natural beauties and human faces that are photographic gems."

Can't Fight Sex

You can't fight sex, conclude officials of the Parker Pen Co. This year the computerized pen-friend program at the Parker Pavilion has been geared to produce boy-girl matches. Last year the computer fought a losing battle to limit the matches to people of the same sex.

Work Hazards

On "The Lucy Show," star Lucille Ball has been stepped on by cows, horses, an elephant (lightly) and had her fingers bitten by a chimpanzee.

FAMOUS DUO — The late Jeanette MacDonald enacts the title role in "Naughty Marietta," with Nelson Eddy as her romantic vis-a-vis. The film will be shown Wednesday at the Ute Theatre, with "Bitter Sweet" as the second feature.

Ute to Begin New Series Of Operettas

Because of the wonderful response to its "Golden Operetta Series," the Ute theatre announces today the presentation of an "Encore Series" of eight of the world's greatest operettas, starting Wednesday. These will be shown in groups of two each Wednesday beginning at 1 p.m. continuously through the last feature time of approximately 9 p.m.

The musical delights which this city has enjoyed will continue with this showing of the Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer Treasury of Fabulous Films, the tops of all time in musical entertainment.

The parade of M-G-M Operetta time world's greatest. The series begins Wednesday, with Victor Herbert's "Naughty Marietta" and Noel Coward's "Bittersweet" starring Jeanette MacDonald in both.

These memorial films to the late Miss MacDonald co - star Nelson Eddy. "Naughty Marietta" is the spectacular romance of Creole days in New Orleans. The picture tells a story of the settlement of New Orleans by the French in the days of Louis XV and of the love of a disguised French princess, seeking escape from a marriage of state, and an English officer.

Such song hits as "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," "I'm Falling in Love With Someone," "Tramp Tramp, Tramp" "The Italian Street Song" and all the original music of the operetta is retained in the screen version.

The second operetta "Bitter-Sweet," to show on Wednesday with "Naughty Marietta" is a lavish Technicolor production offering moviegoers captivating entertainment.

With George Sanders also playing a leading role, the story of "Bitter Sweet" presents Miss MacDonald as a London belle of the Gay Nineties who elopes with her singing teacher, played by Eddy, and who returns with him to Vienna, city of song.

On May 12, two of the most popular operettas will be presented, Sigmund Romberg's "The Student Prince" and Lerner and Loewe's "Brigadoon". Both of these were filmed in CinemaScope and Color and are truly a delight to the eyes and ears. Following on May 26th, (there will be no Operetta programs on Wednesday, May 19th due to other committments) the Ute theatre will show Rudolf Friml's "Rose Marie" which is in color and also Victor Herbert "Sweethearts". Then the final program on June 2nd will feature Sigmund Romberg's "Maytime" and Johann Strauss' "The Great Waltz."

M-G-M's Encore Series of Golden Operettas which starts Wednesday, will in each case be shown the one day only with two operettas on each program beginning at 1 p.m. Doors will open at the Ute theatre for these operettas at 12:30 p.m. and the prices are: Adults, $1.25, Golden Age Club members 75 cents and Children 50 cents all day. Seats may be obtained at the box office at any time as none are reserved but on a first-come-first-served basis.

Dundee' Now at the Sky Vue

Beautiful Senta Berger, who was a blonde in Richard Widmark's "The Secret Ways," and in Carl Foreman's "The Victors appears as "herself" — a brunette — in the new Jerry Bresler production, "Major Dundee", now at the Sky Vue Drive In Theatre in Panavision and color. Charlton Heston and Richard Harris top the stellar cast of the Columbia Pictures release, in which Miss Berger is seen as a European girl, widow of a Mexican doctor in the time of the Civil War.

Also starred in the brawling adventure of "Major Dundee" are Jim Hutton, James Coburn and Michael Anderson, Jr., with Mario Adorf and Brock Peters co-starred.

Widmark discovered the 21-year-old Viennese beauty while she was acting in a play at the famed Theatre in der Josefstadt, in Vienna.

Of Jugoslav-Hungarian lineage Miss Berger originally intended to become a dancer, enrolling at the age of six in a ballet school. Not until 10 years later did she shift her interest to the threatre and to almost immediate stardom.

'Stallions' At Aircadia Tonight

A little known day in the life of General George S. Patton, hard-riding commander of the American Third Army during World War II, comes vividly to life in Walt Disney's feature motion picture, "Miracle of the White Stallions," starting today at the Aircadia Drive–in.

It was Patton, general of the armored divisions spearheading the spectacular final thrusts of U. S. Forces in Europe, who made possiblle the rescue of Vienna's irreplaceable Lippizzan Stallions from extinction at the close of World War II.

ROBERT TAYLOR

The controversial military tactician received word from the senior American officer in St. Martin, Austria, shortly after occupation, that Colonel Alois Podhajsky, director of Vienna's Spanish Riding School, had flaunted Nazi authority to bring the Lipizzan Stallions to that battle-remote city. Podhajsky had requested protection by the United States Army.

Patton flew to St. Martin from Army headquarters in Frankfurt at the first opportunity. A former Olympic Games equestrian, the General watched former Olympic Games bronze medal winner Podhajsky put his riders and stallions through their paces.

He was so impressed that he not only gave the troupe army protection, but sent Third Army tanks across the Austro - Czech border to Hostau, and recovered the Lipizzan mares and foals ahead of the invading Russian Army. His daring maneuver saved the priceless breed from extinction.

Filmed in brilliant color by Technicolor "Miracle of the White Stallions" stars Robert Taylor and Lilli Palmer.

'Ali Baba' At Ute on Thursday

If you are a typical moviegoer your tastes have switched recently from violent action to action-fantasy, preferably on the light side.

That's the belief of showmanship veteran Howard Christie, who produced Universal's "The Sword of Ali Baba," in color, which starts Thursday at the Ute Theatre, starring Peter Mann, Jocelyn Lane and Peter Whitney

Aside from the basic popularity of the "Arabian Nights" theme on the screen, Christie believes strongly that: "Movie audiences are proving that colorful pictures, with the right blend of excitement and fantasy, are what they prefer," opined Christie. "They want films that the family as a unit can attend and enjoy."

He brought some of the current successes to mind.

"One only has to look at the success of the Rock Hudson-Doris Day comedies for a start. They have a contemporary setting but depend, really, on balancing that thin line between fantasy and realism."

"Ali Baba" marks the return to feature films for Christie on the Universal lot, where he has become one of the most successful producers in television with the "Wagon Train" series.

"There are many strong examples to support my theory," says Christie. "The James Bond pictures, particularly, are the greatest tongue-in-cheek fantasy-adventures ever brought to the screen. Bond makes Robin Hood, Tarzan and Aladdin and his magic lamp look like members of the Mickey Mouse Club."

Christie is certain he has a winning combination with Peter and Mann and Jocelyn Lane.

Whitman Gets Role in Film

Stuart Whitman has been signed to co-star with Stanley Baker, Susannah York and Theodore Bikel in Joseph E. Levine's adventure drama, "Sands of the Kalahari," currently being filmed on location in Africa for Paramount Pictures.

Whitman is enroute to join the "Kalahari" cast already assembled. Cy Endfield is directing

Being photographed in Eastman color and Panavision, "Sands of the Kalahari" is an adventure story based on the best-selling novel by William Mulvihill. The Stanley Baker-Cy Endfield team was responsible for "Zulu," the previous Levine - Paramount success which was also filmed on location in Africa.

Colds, She Says, Are in The Mind

Curvey "Doc" Maynor bases her findings on her own experience in Paramount's "Promise Her Anything," the new Seven Arts Comedy starring Warren Beatty and Leslie Caron now shooting near London.

"I play a burlesque stripper in the picture," reports Asa, "and for one shot I had to spend two nights on top of an 80-foot crane while Lionel Stander eagerly chased me around. It was outdoors on the back lot and freezing cold, but even though I was wearing only a bikini — plus maybe a few goose-pimples— I didn't even get a sniffle."

Several days later, however, Asa's actor husband Edd Byrnes blew in from the states to visit her and "I started telling him how cold it was up there. He sympathized with me all over the place and then, waddayaknow, I started to sneeze all over the place! I wound up with flu, a temperature of 102 and a fever rash instead of all those goosebumps.

"I think all of Edd's sympathy triggered if off. I'd have been okay if he'd only given me the back of his hand and snarled 'quit whining!' "

Last year 38,500,000 Americans accepted the invitation to participate in recreational boating; and to do it, they had to shared 4,729,000 boats. Statistically, this means there are seven boating enthusiasts for every registered boat in the United States. Put another way there are 34 million boating fans who don't own a boat.

A boat is a liquid asset. An outboard motor is a fun machine. And boating is a game never called on account of wet grounds. Who needs an outboard motor and boat? You do. Nothing else offers you so many kinds of fun.

A boat is an island with no grass to cut. It's a summer cottage you can keep in your own back yard. It's a swimming float, a diving board, a porch to watch a sunset from. It's a fine place to do business or it's the once place the office can't find you. It's no noisy neighbors. No stoplights. No phones. Lose yourself. Find yourself. Privacy, parties. It's a picnic grounds without ants. A place you can tan in peace. It's something the kids can drive before they're old enough to "drive". It's skis and rods and reels and sun and wind and laughter and sun tan lotion. It's new sights, new sounds, new friends. A boat is the bridge to a world you can't get to any other way.

For centuries man has known of the enjoyment that is to be found afloat. Whether it be aboard a 45 foot cruiser or a 12 foot cartopper or an ocean liner, mariners the world over accept daily the challenges offered by Mother Nature.

Weekend after glorious weekend millions of people throughout the world scurry back and forth between the house and the garage. In the garage you will find the family's "ocean liner of pleasure". It might be a ski boat or maybe a boat used just for fishing but in all probability it will serve a dual purpose. But let's get back to the garage. There you will find Mom, Dad, Sis, and Brother piling everything into the boat from baby's formula to Dad's portable TV set so he doesn't miss the big game.

After all cargo has been stowed below, it's time to head for the lake, river, bay or ocean. As they head down the street eyes filled with envy watch them pass. Jack, their neighbor from across the street promises himself that next year by golly, he's going to have a boat. Nearing the lake more and more of the world's largest weekend navy come into view. Boats of all sizes, shapes and colors. Motors of all horsepower and combinations. Twin engine catamarans, inboard-outboards, deep V hulls, ski boats, fishing boats and even sailboats. Though every boat on the water has a personality of its own, the captains all have one thing in common. They are attempting to cram into a few short hours enough fun and thrills to last them through the week. Fun afloat can mean a joy ride in a cruiser, a party under the canopy of a pontoon boat, a fast ride in a racy runabout or a leisurely dinner on a houseboat.

Some of boating's greatest pleasures are in cruising to secluded places, anchoring in remote coves, exploring waterways off the beaten channel, "gunkholing" in strange waters. Such boating severs the yachtsman from the dockside crowd, breeds a better man having self-reliance and self-respect born of real boating knowledge, spawned through experience.

This kind of boating requires a boat with proper equipment. The umbilical dockside power cord is gone and so are the neatly fitted bow, stern and spring-lines. The skipper is on his own: good ground tackle, long burning lights, approved safety equipment all take on a new importance. The big boat captain needs adequate batteries and good generating equipment to replace the dock's power cord. The small boat skipper learns to use kerosene, flashlights and compact cooking gear. Both men learn self-reliance. Both taste adventure.

Boats are fun, but they are nothing to play with.

A boat takes a lot of knowing. Its capabilities and limitations should be completely familiar before on ventures to take command. And the learning process should be viewed as a continuing thing. Not even the oldest salt claims to know everything about boats and boating. The way to learn is to listen, to watch, to read, and to remember. Delightful days spent on the water will make the effort to learn more than worthwhile.

European Fast-film Load System to Invade America

An interesting sidelight of the International Photographic Exposition, in New York City's Coliseum from May 1-9, is the introduction of a European fast film-load system. This brings to American amateur photographers a choice of two different systems.

For the past two years, U.S. camera fans have become familiar with the fast and fumble-free film loading of Kodak's Instamatic camera line. Its success was instantaneous for its drop-in film cartridge eliminated the only troublesome aspect of camera handling which had not changed while everything else was being modernized.

But in Europe an entirely different method of easy film loading was developed by the West German photographic industry. Led by Agfa, the world's second leading film manufacturer, the "Rapid System" was launched last July in England and on the continent. Having achieved success on its home grounds, the Rapid system of cameras and film is now coming to America.

Let's go over the features of each system.

Instamatic-type cameras require a special 126 Kodapak film cartridge which fits no other type of camera. There are presently four different types of Kodapak films but each has the same ASA 64 film speed: a 12-exposure black and white film; a 12-exposure color negative film for color prints principally; and two kinds of 20-exposure color transparency films. The same film speed makes for simpler camera automation. The films are widely available in this country and to a lesser extent abroad.

Kodapak cartridges can not be put into a camera incorrectly. Each onee can be seen through a window in the camera revealing the type of film being used, the maximum number of exposures and the number of the picture which will be taken next. When finished, the cartridge drops out and a new one drops in place with no further fuss.

A Rapid film cassette looks at first glance like the present regular 35mm casette. However, though it uses regular 35mm film, the cassette is different and can be used only in Rapid cameras. When dropped into a Rapid camera, the length of film leader emerging from the cassette falls over sprocket wheels. Without handling the film, the back of the camera is closed and the button is pressed twice to advance two frames. The film is automatically fed into the take-up spool. When all the exposures are finished, the film is not rewound but remains in the take-up spool which is removed for processing. However, the now-empty starting cassette must be removed and placed in the take-up position for it now becomes the take-up spool. Then a fresh film cassette can be inserted.

A variety of Rapid film types will be available when proper distribution in the United States is arranged. There are color negative, color transparency and black and white films in slow, medium and fast emulsion speeds. However, they are presently in the European "week-end" short length which produces 12 full-frame 35mm pictures or 24 half-frame size or 16 exposures in the square 24 x 24mm format, depending on the format of the Rapid camera being used. Each cassette cues the camera mechanism automatically with the speed of the film it contains from ASA 25 to ASA 400.

Backers of the Rapid system claim it offers more precise film plane alignment than is possible in a Kodapak cartridge and that the use of standard 35-mm film necessitates no change in present industry processing equipment or procedures.

The major camera and film makers in Europe, America and Japan have made their choices between the Kodak and the Rapid systems and the showcase in America for new cameras and films is the 1965 International Photographic Exposition. Some companies are making cameras for both systems! But the ultimate decision rests with the country's photographers.

Don't you feel important knowing that your reaction will determine the fate of many cameras in the future?

Ancient Job

The fire marshall of today, who investigates the cause of a fire on behalf of the fire department, can trace his job back to ancient Roman times, according to The Book of Knowledge. Two thousand years ago, Rome had a highly organized fire department, and one of the types of officials in it was the "questionarious," who had to investigate the cause of all fires. Today's fire marshal position is a descendant of the office of questionarius.

After Really Big Game? How About Whale Hunting

Every angler jokes about catching a "whale" and you know he's only kidding. But, if he's heading for Manitoba when he makes that statement he may be dead serious.

This Canadian province has just come up with the final answer for the sportsman who has everything — whale hunting.

The whales, now fair game for American tourists for the first time, are the white (beluga) variety averaging 14 feet in length when fully grown and weighing as much as 1,300 pounds.

If you want to "catch" a whale you head for far - northern Churchill, Manitoba, on Hudson Bay. No highway reaches this spot but it is readily accessible by rail or scheduled airline.

The limit is one beluga per day; two per season. License fee for non-residents is $40. The best time to go whaling is between June 20th and September 1st.

Would-be whale hunters must hire a native Eskimo or Indian guide who lives in the area. Guides supply all the equipment for the hunt including 22-foot freight canoe, outboard motor, harpoon and high-powered rifle.

If you have an adventurous palate you may keep up to 25 pounds of meat from each whale or, if you want a trophy to prove your whaling prowess, you can take home the jawbone of the beast. The remainder of the carcass must go to the guide.

Canadian National Railways has a "package" whale hunt plan for approximtely $350 including transportation from Winnipeg and return with lower berth and meals on the train, five nights in Churchill with meals and guide and equipment for the hunt.

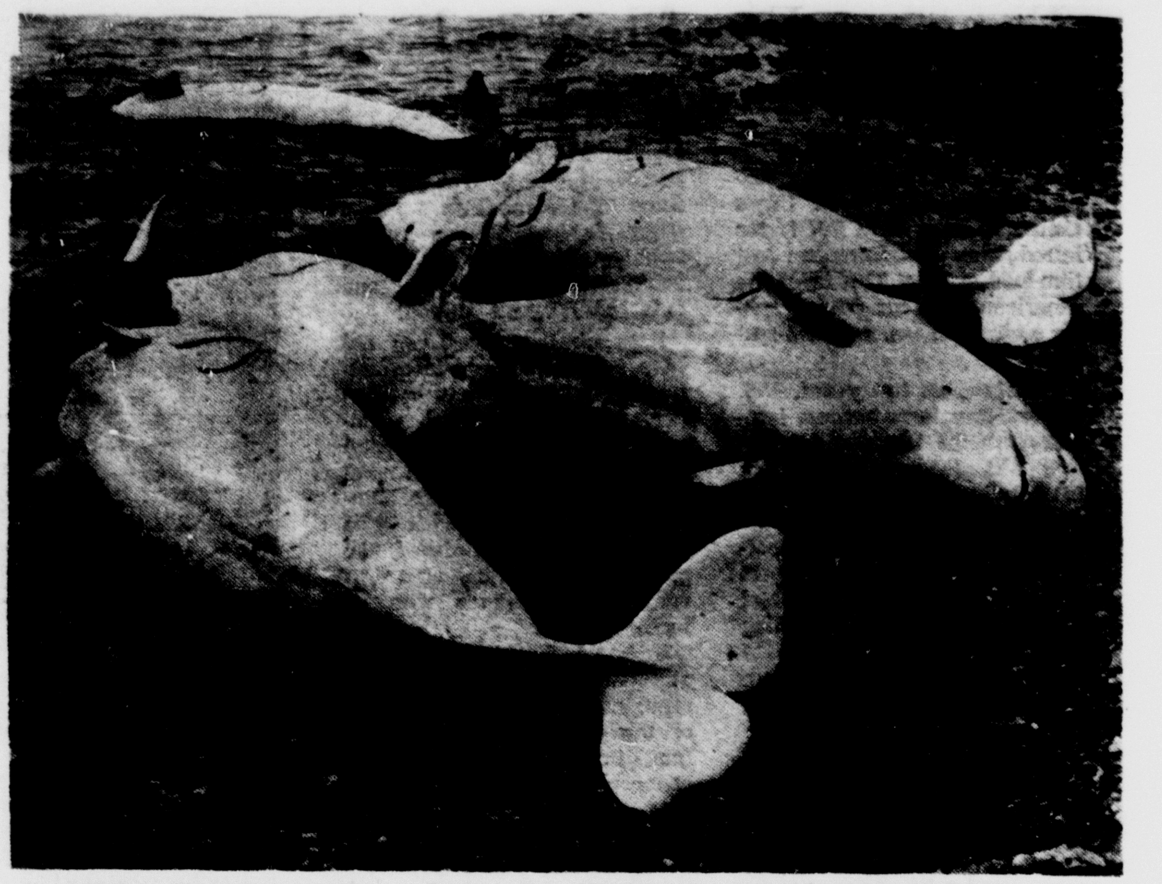
Whale hunting is no "pantywaist" sport. The sea - going estuary of the Churchill River and hunting is carried out here at low tide.

The canoe is maneuvered close to the whale and the harpoon, attached to a large gas keg float by a strong line, is thrown. At this moment the float is tossed overboard. All this action generally takes place with the motor at full throttle.

The hunters give chase to the harpooned whale but keep a safe distance until they can place a killing shot with the rifle.

A processing plant at Churchill turns most of the whale carcasses into animal feed, fertilizer and special oil for lubrication of scientific machinery. Beluga hides are white and have a plastic - like appearance. A large leather goods manufacturer plans to use the whale hides which, when processed and dried, have a tensile strength 40 per cent higher than cowhide and are extremely pliable.

Information on how to plan a whale hunt at Churchill can be obtained by writing to W. E. "Wilf" Organ, Tourist Development Branch, Department of Industry and Commerce, 511 Norquay Bldg., Winnipeg 1, Manitoba, Canada.



MANITOBA WHALE HUNTS — The latest thing for the jaded sportsman who may feel there are no worthwhile trophies left to go after these days are whales. The white whales, properly called belugas, grow to a length of 14 feet and can weigh as much as 1,300 pounds. Base of operations for whale hunting is Churchill, Manitoba, on famed Hudson Bay.

NATIVE GUIDES — Either Eskimo or Indian native guides, must be employed when going after white whales in the estuary of the Churchill River in the Province of Manitoba. This year American sportsmen are to be allowed for the first time to hunt the sea-going mammals. The limit is two whales in any one season. Hunters may take the jawbone for a trophy and can retain 25 pounds of meat from each catch.

Fire Was Just Lights

The fire department was called out when producer - director Martin Ritt set up his camera inside a Victorian "pub" in North London to shoot an evening sequence with co-stars Richard Burton and Claire Bloom for Paramount's "The Spy Who Came In From The Cold."

A nearby resident, waking from a Sunday afternoon nap, looked out of the window, saw a crowd pressing round the pub which was brilliantly lit by studio arc lamps, and promptly phoned the Fire Fighters.

Steel helmeted firemen burst in with equipment at the ready. They ventually left with Richard Burton and Claire Bloom's autographs.

Actor Says English Have Great Climate

Bob Cummings says he is considering dashing off a letter to the British Travel & Holidays Association to publicize this country's "greatest tourist bargain."

"They're really missing a bet — English weather," says Cummings. "It's real value for money, the visitor can get a whole year's weather in a single day!

"In the short space of 24 hours recently I had fog for breakfast, a hot sun and blue skies for lunch, rain with dinner and, at breakfast the next morning, snow yet! The only thing I missed was a typhoon."

The sudden heavy snow made Bob three hours late at nearby Shepperton Studios even though he is living in a country house quite close by. The star is filming there with Leslie Caron, Warren Beatty and Keenan Wynne in "Promise Her Anything," a Seven Arts comedy being produced for Paramount release.

CU's Sandoe Records Dr. Faustus

Assoc. Prof. James Sandoe of the University of Colorado, noted Elizabethan theater authority, has made a recording of Christopher Marlowe's play, "Doctor Faustus."

The record, released by the Academic Album Co. of Denver, is a 50-minute reading of the play — with Sandoe playing all 22 parts. It was done last Nov. 24 at Regis College and is the first of a "Living Literature Series" planned by the album company.

The play is generally regarded as Marlowe's greatest work. It is especially known as a fine example of the dramatic use of blank verse in the development of Elizabethan stage.

The recording has received praise from such people as Larry Tajiri, late drama critic of the Denver Post, Dr. Lambert J. Case of the Denver Public Schools and Anne Warriner, drama critic for Cervi's Journal.

Sandoe has acquired a national reputation as a Shakespearean director. He directs regularly for the University Theatre, including productions of the annual summer Colorado Shakespear Festival, and he has been guest director numerous times at the Ashland, Ore., Shakespeare Festival.

The album was produced by John Gunnison of Denver in cooperation with RCA Victor. Price is $4.50, and the record is available only through Academic Album Co., 1818 California St., Denver.

Horace Mann Plans Round Of Concert This Week

The performing musical organizations at Horace Mann Junior High School are slated to present a series of special concerts this week in conjunction with National Music Week.

Wednesday evening Rolf Zinger, chairman of vocal music and the Lancer Choir will join with the Esquirettes Girls' Glee Club under the direction of Mrs. Kathryn Noxon for a concert in the school auditorium.

The hour long program will feature, in addition to the choral literature, several staged selections. A small combo will accompany the groups. Several of are those especially arranged for the Lancer Choir by Zinger. The Lancer Choir will sing for several civic and community organizations during the week including the El Paso County Medical Auxilliary. The Choir will also spend one day touring the area performing for schools in neighboring school districts.

On Thursday, the Horace Mann Orchestra, under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Smith will perform in the school gymnasium. In addition to the full orchestra, a string orchestra, cello solo and piano solo will add highlights to the performance.

Winding up the Festival Week Friday will be the Lance Band directed by Anthony Cribelli. In addition to this select group, the newly formed Seventh Grade Band, plus the combined band members of Edison, Bates, Stratton, Audubon, Queen Palmer, Madison and Monroe Elementary Schools will also play. The Lancer Band has exchanged several concert programs with junior high schools in neighboring school districts this year.

The Lancer Band and the Lancer Choir this year will produce a record called "The Best of the Lancers '65" combining the outstanding musical selections performed during the year by both groups.

All the concerts will begin at 7:30 p.m. and are open to the public free of charge.

Wide Range

People who want to find a pen pal at the Parker Pavilion can choose from eight age groups and 281 special interest categories ranging from agriculture to yoga. These categories include 36 languages, 46 types of sports, and hobbies as diverse as origami and hot rods. The penfriend computer will select a suitable correspondent from a quarter of a million names in 30 seconds.

Schools Plan Concert Exchange for Music Week

The week of May 3-8 has been designated as National Music Week, and in addition to regular spring concerts, Horace Mann Junior High School, and Cheyenne Mountain Junior High School are exchanging concerts.

The Cheyenne Mountain Junior High School Band, under the direction of Mr. Ed Nuccio will perform for the faculty and students of Horace Mann Wednesday, while the Lance Choir of Horace Mann will travel to Cheyenne Mountain on Friday. The Lancers under the direction of Rolf Zinger, Chairman of Vocal Music will also perform for the Air Force Academy Junior High School.

Anthony Cribelli, Band Director at Horace Mann exchanged programs with Watson Junior High School, earlier this season. Both Cribelli and Zinger feel that these exchange programs strengthen the programs within their own schools as well as establishing friendly relations between young musicians in neighboring school districts.

"The continued increasing interest of students and the support of parents in Music Education has elevated performing standards making possible the demand for these excellent groups," Zinger said. "Performance in turn motivates students to a higher level and offers the listener the pleasurable experience of good music.

"The careful and conscientious scheduling of students by the administrations and counselors at Horace Mann have made possible the enriching experience of a musical organization and its benefits," he said. "The cultural broadening of young students, especially those who intend to emphasize their futures along scientific or technical lines is becoming a recognized necessity. The high academic standards at Horace Mann and its splendid Fine Arts program bears this out."

Balsam Gets New Role For 'Harlow'

Martin Balsam — who won wide critical recognition for his role of the pioneer film producer in "The Carpetbaggers," has been given a similar role of broader scope in the Joseph E. Levine production at Paramount, "Harlow," starring Carroll Baker as the platinum blonde sensation of the 30's.

Balsam will portray the key role of Everett Redman, the important head of a major studio who signs Jean Harlow to her first term contract as a star.

Balsam recently returned from London where he co-starred with Richard Widmark in "The Bedford Incident." He previously appeared in the upcoming release, "8,000 Clowns."

"Harlow" is currently in production at Paramount under the direction of Gordon Douglas. Filming in Technicolor and wide-screen Panavision, the top budget production co-stars an international cast which includes Red Buttons, Michael Connors, Angela Lansbury, Hanna Landy, Peter Lawford, Leslie Neilsen and Raf Vallone.

Anderson's 'Winterset' To Close CU Theatre Year

Maxwell Anderson's "Winterset," one of the giant theatre works of the 1930s, will be presented by the University of Colorado Theatre Wednesday through Saturday. The play will conclude the theatre's 1964-65 season.

"Winterset," written by Maxwell Anderson, was the first play to win the New York Drama Critics' Circle Award and holds a special place in American theatre.

The play is one of the few attempts to portray the modern situation as tragic rather than futile and in poetry rather than in prose.

The playwright has mingled the scandal of the Sacco-Vanzetti trial with elements of the plots of Shakespear's "Hamlet" and "Romeo and Juliet" to produce his tragic effect.

It is the story of Mio, a man in the tradition of Sacco or Vanzetti, an anarchist allegedly unjustly executed for murder. Mio, like Hamlet, feels he must set the disjointed time right.

Working against Mio are Judge Gaunt, the gangsters who committed the murder — Trock and Shadow — Garth and his father, Esdras, who also get caught in the coil of revenge.

Two who stand with Mio are his friend Carr and Esdras' daughter, Miriame. Mio meets Miriame while pursuing revenge and a tender love grows between them, contrasting with the harsh wintry setting and the tangle of guilt.

The situation ends tragically. The revenge is accomplished, although the agents of the revenge are destroyed in the process and Mio and Miriame are killed, caught between old wrongs and new love.

The play will be directed by veteran CU director Assoc. Prof. Albert H. Nadeau. Previously this year he directed the CU homecoming musical, "Damn Yankees."

In the lead role of Mio will be Peter Marshall, Los Alamos, N.M., sophomore. Miriame will be played by Joan Crosbie, senior from Dearborn, Mich.; Judge Gaunt by Todd Storm, Denver junior; Trock by Richard Long, Denver freshman; Shadow by Ulie von Wilpert, freshman from Grand Island, New York; Garth by Gerald Otte, Boulder sophomore; Esdras by Rob Shelton, Aravada sophomore, and Carr by Chuck Sitler, Denver sophomore.

Tickets are available for $1.50 at the CU Theatre box office, telephone 443-2211, extension 7306.

Best Seller Set for Filming Soon

"Funeral in Berlin," exciting thriller which involves a British secret agent being sent to Berlin to arrange the defection of a Russian scientist from the East to the West, is scheduled to go before the cameras late in 1965.

"Incress File," also from the pen of Len Deighton, is breaking records in London. The film is an official entry in the forthcoming Cannes Film Festival.

Good Crowd Turns Out For Two-Steppers Dance

The Country Two Steppers had a good crowd at their dance last Wednesday with Pat McQuaid calling. A short business meeting was held after the dance to consider the revised and rewritten By-laws.

This club will appear on TV Channel 11 for Rice Enterprises at 2 o'clock tomorrow. Don Franklin notified the club that due to a previous commitment he would be unable to call for the program as had been planned and the members voted unanimously for Harold Palmer to call in his place.

The dance next Wednesday will be surprise Birthday party for Don. He announced he is bringing a new caller with him that he would like for us to hear. Three couples from the club attended the Boots and Calico dance in Pueblo last Friday and danced to Beryl Main's fine calling.

The Maddocks and Zeb Bean attended the State meeting in Sterling over the weekend. They met with the Public Relations Committee for breakfast at the Graham Hotel when further plans were made for advertising the State Festival to be held in City Auditorium in Denver in June. Governor Love has proclaimed the week of September 12 to 18 as Learn to Square Dance Week for which the pamphlet, Promenading in the Rockies, will be revised and brought up to date for distribution. Also a new information booklet will be prepared for distribution to all graduates in the state. The State President, Marilyn Kroner of Boulder, appointed the Maddock's editor and publisher of the Colorado State Square Dance Association news bulletin which is published four times a year.

We hear Lee Barnes young dancers did quite well at the Youth Festival last week. Colorado Springs should be very proud of the accomplishments of the Barnes and their son Hal for their work with these young people.

COLORADO SPRINGS KENNEL CLUB NOTES

by Mary Urban

If you didn't see Denver's whopping big show last Sunday you missed quite a spectacle. I have never seen so many people and so many dogs in one place in my life. The total entry of dogs was 1,251 in conformation and obedience. I am convinced that each dog was accompanied by at least four people. Humans were everywhere, in the rings, in the aisles, in the parking lots. In fact it was almost impossible to get from one ring to another.

The show was presented by the Colorado Kennel Club and held in the National Western Stockyards Exhibition Hall.

I thought that some of you who did not make the show might be interested in some of the results of the judging.

The Best in Show award went to a Golden Retriever, 4-year-old Champion Cheyenne Golden's King John, owned by the Cheyenne Golden Kennels of Wichita, Kan. The dog was shown by a professional handler, Rex Vandeventer of Omaha.

Dogs from 37 states were entered, with 79 breeds represented.

Other group winners were:

Hounds — Ch. Sujumar's Yogi Barr, basset, owned by Robert J. and Queenie E. Norton, Ilbion, N. Y.

Working dogs —Ch. Stoneykirk Reflection, rough - coat Collie, owned by John and Evelyn Honig, Worchester, Mass.

Toys — Ch. Hamparb Bambi, Yorkshire terrier, owned by Bettye Kirksey Scott, Harlington, Tex.

Non-sporting — Ch. Bel Tor Come Hither, standard poodle, owned by Susan M. North and Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Dale, Calabasas, Calif.

High scoring obedience dog of the 151 entries was Alex of Pine Cone, a black German Shepherd, owned by R. L. Hines of Golden. The dog chalked up an impressive score of 199½ out of a possible 200.

You know, one can see the funniest sights at a dog show and they aren't the dogs. Have you ever seen the expression on a dog owner's face just before his pride and joy is about to enter the ring? The jaw tightens the eyes take on a glazed look. You wonder if he can possibly live through the seemingly endless time it takes for the judge to reach his decision.

I think the funniest thing I saw Sunday was a beautifully groomed Collie being led by a man and followed by a very large lady, obviously the owner, with her arms outstretched on either side of the dog to shield him from the crowd.

I wondered if the dog got to the ring with his lovely coat unruffled.

I would like to say one thing about spectators at a dog show. Must you bring your small children. More than one bottleneck last Sunday was caused by a child in a stroller or buggy. It is impossible to pass a baby stroller in a crowded show. One small boy fell and broke his arm at that show. I saw small children unattended, teasing dogs in crates. Children running back and forth, bumping into dogs, crates, exhibitors. There are always lost children at a dog show. There are always children who have not been taught to leave strange dogs alone.

If you must take your children see that they are under control at all times, know where they are and what they are doing. Teach them to keep hands off all dogs, keep them out of the show rings, help them have a safe and happy excursion into the world of the dog shows. They can learn a lot about the different breeds of dogs and dog show procedure if you help them.

Questions about dogs may be directed to Mrs. Mary Urban, 495-2143.

Topical Time Index Off The Presses

The Five Year Cumulative Index to "Topical Time," journal of the American Topical Association, and ATA Topical Handbooks 1960-64 has just arrived. It follows the ten year Index 1949 - 59 also by John Henry Richter, professional librarian. It classifies in minute detail all the topical information contained in over 3,400 printed pages in ATA publications, most all of which are still available.

The completely cross referenced index to 1047 articles has three sections: Topical section (107 topics with 786 entries), Famous Persons (475 names), and Geographical Section of 255 entries. The answers received through Clare McAlister's Question and Answer column is also cross referenced under 337 headings.

ATA can look with pride upon fifteen years of publishing, in which the total number of articles reached 2907 and the number of persons referenced 2115. There are now 5108 references to "Topical Time" pages and no less than 1149 to pages in the ATA Handbooks.

Both ATA Indexes open vast amounts of information for the topicalist that hitherto was time consuming to locate. With ease in a matter of minutes one can find exactly what he is looking for. New collectors as well as old can use the indexes as all but a few of these publications are still on sale by ATA.

Orders for 5 - year Index, handbook no. 46, should be sent with $2.00 (21 IRC) to American Topical Association, 3300 North 50th St., Milwaukee, Wis. 53216. A few copies of the 10-year 1949-59 Topical Index are still available also at $2. Immediate delivery on both. A free sample copy of "Topical Time" will be sent with all orders.

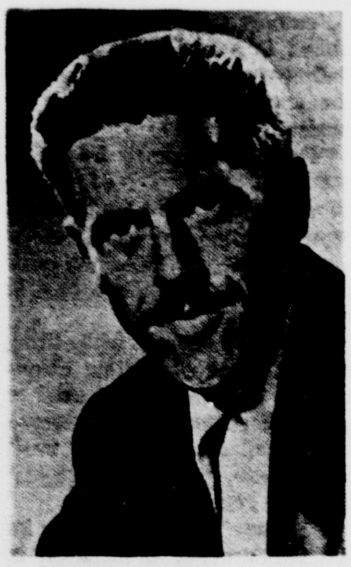
Melius Christiansen of St. Olaf fame and his sons, directors of choral music from all sections of the country have wanted to learn more about their methods of producing these superb choirs.

One of the sons, Paul, will be in charge of this national school at CSU. He will direct many of the sessions including those on conducting and choral technique.



PAUL CHRISTIANSEN

Professor Carl O. Thompson, chairman of fine arts at Bemidji State College, Minnesota, will teach courses in school music materials and procedures. Elementary conducting and church music programs will be taught by Richard Hoffland of Millikin University at Decatur, Ill. Professor Edward D. COLLECTOR'S ITEM

LASTING QUALITY — This Blue Willow platter in the Pioneers Museum is a memorial to Henry Brockhurst's mother. It is marked "warranted Statfordshire, T. Clementson, Shelton." Several English potters made this pattern, one of the most popular ever conceived because of its sad but romantic Chinese legend. The story goes that Koon-Shee, beautiful daughter of a mandarin, had been promised by her father to a rich but old merchant. Koon-Shee was in love with her father's secretary Chang, and wanted no part of the marriage with the old man. Koon-Shee and Chang ran away, with her father in furious pursuit. When he overtakes them on a bridge, he orders them put to death. Sympathetic gods intervene and the young lovers are changed into turtledoves, seen flying top center on the platter. At right is Koon-Shee and her father's pagoda over which grows an apple tree. The bridge at lower left, to the left of the willow tree, is the spot where the father catches up with the runaway lovers. The three figures on the bridge depict Koon-Shee, carrying a distaff, the emblem of virginity; Chang, who carries a box of jewels, and the mandarin carrying a whip. The willow pattern, as we know it today, was originated by Thomas Turner of the Caughley Pottery Works, in 1780. The pattern, still being turned out today, was made by more than 200 makers. Japan made the particular pattern too, and when that country bombed Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941, Americans by the hundreds smashed their Japanese copies of the popular Blue Willow.—M. M.

Heel Heals Just Fine

Hermione Gingold reports excellent healing progress on the bone she broke in her foot during night location sequences for her current movie, the Seven Arts comedy for Paramount release, "Promise Her Anything."

For the first time in six weeks she is able to walk without a crutch and is off at the weekend for a holiday in Scotland.

"Not to be chairbound any longer is just marvelous, darlings," she says with the inimitable Gingold grin. "In London one expects to be fogbound but this not walking business has been ridiculous.

"I'm not exactly planning any huntin', shootin' and fishin' for a while but I might try a Highland fling."

Starring Warren Beatty, Leslie Caron and Bob Cummings, "Promise Her Anything" is being directed by Arthur Hiller and produced by Stanley Rubin.

Madame! Not All Pigeons Are for the Birds

Text By ED COOK
Photos By STAN PAYNE
Staff Photographer

Madame, there's a big difference between street pigeons and birds spruced for show by fancy pigeon fanciers.

Ask members of the Pikes Peak Fancy Pigeon Club, a group devoted to the light feathered pastime.

Heard of fantails, jacobins, pouters or turbits? Check today's Leisuretime and stop saying, 'pigeons are just pigeons." They aren't.

"There's a lot of difference between an ordinary pigeon and show pigeons. They shouldn't frown upon the younger generation for raising them," fancy pigeon authority David John said.

A2C John and his wife, Randye, are loft managers of the Pikes Peak club and oversee show schedules, judge if needed, help set up show pens, work with owners who have problems with birds and, in general, keep stabilizing hands on the management of fancy "fluffs."

John, administration specialist with the 4th Weather Wing here, started raising "ordinary" pigeons when he was a second grader in Denver, his hometown.

"I stated raising what they call barn pigeons or common old street pigeons and I just started in this," he said.

Judging from his lofts at 2419 E. Monument St., John's interest in the fancy pigeon breed has grown by leaps and bounds.

He values his pigeons at more than $800 and has 50 to 60 birds, including fancy jacobins, flightful homers, exotic pouters, performing rollers and tumblers, English carriers and prissy fantails. There are more than 250 varieties of fancy pigeons and some range in price from $5 to $200 per pair.

One of John's homers, "Pi," won first place in show at Denver last February. Mr. and Mrs. John also have other birds from grand champion stock, as do other members of the Fancy Pigeon Club.

In general, pigeons are judged on feather conditions, stance, on straightness of keel bone, tightness of vents and coloration, according to their classification.

Pigeons are not required to have inspections before showing, but must have pedigrees. Winners receive trophies and ribbons. The birds must wear bands authorized by the National Pigeon Association.

Like pampered poodles, fancy show pigeons are fed a special diet consisting of a mixture of corn, wheat, milo, barley, hemp, flax, canary seed and other grain.

Feathers and "boots" also are pulled to insure a uniform feather covering and to enhance the appearance of the fancy birds.

"Feathers have to be pulled out about 40 days before a show," John said, "but they'll grow out and be spank new just like a car." An off-color feather will disqualify a bird in some shows.

There can be no high-strung pigeons when show time comes around. Birds must get used to a handler; must be accustomed to a small enclosed area; must put up with cigarette smoke and must be gentle.

The fantail, which spreads its tail feathers like a peacock, is one of the more classier breeds. But the plump member of the family Columbidae is a little off balance when in show position, resting its head on its tail feathers.

"It's easy for them to tip over like a bowling pin," John said.

"Champions walk backward too," his wife added.

One point to remember about fancy birds is that they do not scour the neighborhood with droppings. They're a mite too expensive to let fly for very long.

The homing pigeon, as its name implies, stays close to home.

"Homers will fly for about two hours without landing and then will light on the edge of the roof or go back to their loft. To most people, pigeons are pigeons, but there's a lot of difference," John said.

One of the more staminal birds is the carrier pigeon, a creature with a history celebrated in stories during the war years. Carriers were used to cary messages when communication lines failed. Often they were used to carry messages across the 26-mile wide English Channel.

"But today there is so much inbreeding they're mostly used for show birds," John said.

The Fancy Piegon Club, comprised of about 40 members whose ages range from approximately 9 to 50, will hold its next meeting at 7 p.m. May 7 in the Security Fire Department basement.

Robert Walker of Security-Widefield High School is president; the Johns are loft managers, or vice presidents of the club; and Vici Thorson of Wasson Junior High is secretary-treasurer. The club meets every two weeks.

Fancy bird handlers range far and wide throughout the state. One well-known breeder is Clyde Crow of Eads who has an estimated 4,000 pigeons.

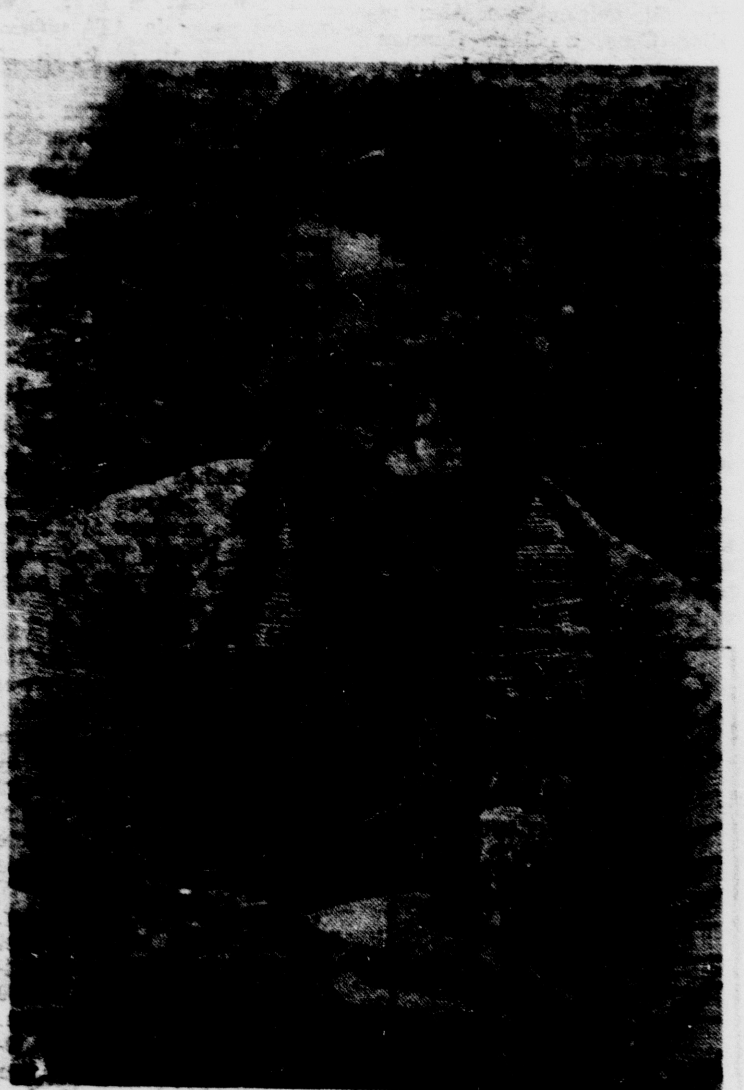
"It's a very popular sport, especially in Colorado. I would venture to say there are 300 people in Colorado who raise them," John said.

Birds usually are entered in shows during their first six years, when coloring, plumage and other qualities reach their peak. Some pigeons live to 35 years of age, but for showing they are best used during their early years, John said.

The airman said pigeon crossbreeding is popular, but an owner should be careful about mixing strains.

"You can breed the mother and son or father and daughter, but never brother and sister," he said.

TWO HEADED BIRD — Not really. It's just a pair of three-week old fantail squabs, huddled together because Mommy wasn't around to shield them from the strangers.



WADDLE AND CERE — That's the decoration on this English carrier being held by Larry Strickland. The waddle is the growth on the pigeon's nose and the cere is the growth circling the eyes.

HEY BABY!—That's what this puffed-up German Poutter owned by Vici Thorson says subtley every time a hen comes near him. He does it by puffing air into a sac on his chest.

HOLD THEM TIGHT — David John, above, displays the colorful wing pattern of this young Bald-Headed Roller squab, while at left, he and Larry hold a pair of fancy Jacobins. The Jacobins are among the most expensive pigeons in the collection.

BIRDS OF A FEATHER—A cross - selection of the variety of pigeons owned by various members of the club are grouped together in one pen for this photo. It would be difficult .to attempt to identify each bird. Among the birds in the pen are Jacobins, Fantails, a Pouter, Roller and Tumbler.

ARTS CHRONICLE by John Fetler

Paintings by Cubstead Placed on Exhibit

CUBSTEAD EXHIBIT — Paintings by L. T. Cubstead have been placed on view, for the month of May, in the lobby of the Colorado Springs National Bank. Cubstead, whose home is at 2031 W. Kiowa St., has been with Colorado Interstate Gas Co., for the past 20 years. He has spent most of his adult life teaching or working in some phase of commercial and industrial arts, having specialized in these subjects at Southern Methodist University and Sam Houston State College of Texas. His work in the fine arts media has been purely a hobby, he says, and has never before been displayed publicly for sale. Thus, only a few in the exhibit are now for sale. His chief interest is in oil paintings, running to historical subjects, especially buildings and themes of human interest. The exhibit will be on view through May 26. The themes of the Cubstead paintings can be gleaned from the titles: Old Antlers Hotel, with frame made from Old Antlers stair rail; Winter Sport; Village; Trotty Veck, Dickens' legendary London; Fishing at Green Mountain Falls; Timber; Western Ranch; Autumn in High Country; French Street, a copy of a painting by Pisarro; Roses; Ghost Mill in Crystal, Colorado; Fireplace; Coiffure; two watercolors; and a view of Colorado Springs from Skyway Estates.

SADIE RUBINS — The former corresponding secretary of the Colorado Springs Art Guild writers from San Antonio: "Have had an interesting and rewarding winter in San Antonio. There are many really good artists in the area and there is something going on all the time. An oil painting by Miss Rubins is currently hanging in the Witte Menorial Museum in San Antonio, in the San Antonio Art League's 35th annual exhibition. Juror was Henriette Wyeth, daughter of Andrew Wyeth and wife of Peter Hurd. A total of 140 paintings and sculptures are on view, selected from over 700 entries."

PROMOTED AGAIN — Santa Fe, Taos, and other places famous for the arts, didn't just happen; they were promoted. This time, it's Tucson. And with Shakespeare at that.

One would think that there are more than eneugh Shakespeare festivals in the world, but apparently this is not so. "Shakespeare on the Desert" started with a dream in the spring of 1961. Paul Emerson of Tucson, a former producer for CBS, decided one day that the city needed more culture — of the Shakespearean variety. But he told his wife, Margo, that just any Shakespeare group wouldn't do. He recalls: "I wanted the best and I knew in order to obtain it I would have to get British actors."

Emerson and his wife started talking to Tucson merchants, doctors, lawyers and retired residents to get backing. When the people discovered the Emersons were serious they gave them the hand they needed.

And so, this year, for the second straight season, 25 members of the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art in London, one of the greatest schools for actors in the world, came to Arizona to present two Shakespearean plays, Romeo and Juliet and The Tempet, at Tucson and Phoenix.

Emerson reported: "It costs us about $60,000 a year to bring the group over, but it's worth it. This year the crowds were even better than last year."

Emerson now devotes full time to the project. A corporation has been formed, called "International Shakespeare Festival of Arizona." His wife stays at home with their two children, but occupies herself with ticket sales, correspondence, brochures and other detals.

ALL ABOUT GUITARS — Judging from guitar sales, there's more music than ever in America. More than one million guitars were sold in the land last year. And this year, more than $100 million worth of guitars will be sold. This compares with $95 million sales in 1964, which was an increase of 46 per cent.

Many teenagers have switched from the hula hoop to the guitar in recent years, but the majority of guitar players seem to be adults.

The guitar makers are happy. A plant in Chicago has a six-day double shift, but the manufacturers are realistic. One of them says: "We are in the leisure business, not the music business. Our main competition is the $100 shotgun, water skis and the money being spent on vacations."

The only discord is the number of import models, mostly from Japan. However, one manufacturer says: "There is plenty of market for American manufacturers now. We all have backlogs. But if the quality of the foreign products improves, there could be problems."

INDIVIDUALITY OR NOT — A curious statement comes from the Museum of Modern Art, which has arranged an exhibition of "The New Japanese Painting and Sculpture" by 46 Japanese artists who live and work not only in Japan, but also in New York, Paris, Milan and Rome. Included in the show are 60 paintings, 36 sculptures and 10 assemblages. The materials include oil on canvas and wood, lacquered and cut steel, terra cotta and ceramic, stone, wood, cast cement, plaster, polyester - impregnated cloth, cast aluminum and commercial sacking. But the museum admits that "Rather than revealing a strong national identity, most of the work demonstrates the distinctive individuality which characterizes art today all over the world." Which sounds like double talk for the abstract movement, in which artists from other countries have aped the "Western civilization" to the extent that all of them have become, more or less abstract, or "anonymous" artists.

HOW OPERA WAS IN BOSTON — The new Boston Opera House noble in simplicity with touches of gold, ivory and grays throughout stood tall and straight. And Boston, in full regalia, entered its portals. If any one individual had a right to be proud it was Eben D. Jordan, merchant prince, who financed the building of the opera house and rallied Boston's first families to his cause.

The brilliant opening night is recreated by Quaintance Eaton as she takes her readers back to the Boston of November 8, 1909 in her forthcoming book, "The Boston Opera Company," to be published in May by Appleton - Century, at $8.95.

The audience was the real jewel. Everybody from President Lowell of Harvard to Otto Kahn of the New York Metropolitan Opera and Boston's grande dame, Mrs. Jack Gardner, was present. The furs, gowns, coiffures were elegant enough for an international ball. What was Mrs. Garner wearing to the grand opening? It had to be either her "white satin and her fabulous pearls" or her "black satin and her fabulous pearls" since as a society reporter put it, "in fashion Mrs. Gardner runs a tiny gamut."

Bostonians delighted in the opening night performance of La Gioconda. They welcomed with open arms their old friends Lillian Nordica and Florencio Constantino and a glamorous newcomer, George Baklanoff. The opening night was a huge success. It seemed that Boston wanted Grand Opera and took pride in the beauty of the new opera house.

During the brief but exciting years of the Boston Opera Company many famous stars came to sing and the flamboyant director, Henry Russell, provided staid Boston with titillating gossip. One season he brought suit for libel against a former press agent which stirred Boston to its foundation. Russell won.

No one could forget the famous "Al," box office treasurer for the Opera House. It was Al catching Mrs. Jack Gardner sneaking in the backdoor of the Opera House after giving her ticket to a friend who told her in very few words that unless she bought a ticket she would have to leave.

Quaintance Eaton, whose picturesque first name is a heritage from her Quaker grandmother, spent five years researching archives in Boston, interviewing Bostonians who remember the golden opera years and reading old newspaper accounts. An important feature which will delight opera buffs is the meticulous compilation of casts of all performances.

In a career devoted to writing about music Miss Eaton has traveled across the United States to hear concerts and opera in all the major cities. Hers was the definitive book on the tours of the Metropolitan Opera Company from 1883 to 1956, Opera Caravan. Another book, Opera Production, has been adopted as an indispensable reference volume for teachers and students as well as writers on the subject. She is presently a contributing editor to Opera News, America's leading opera magazine.

A gallery of photographs of Boston Opera Company stars and personalities illuminates the lively and authoritative text of Miss Eaton's latest book.

Evaporated Milk Is the Dessert Lover's Friend

Evaporated milk is one of the oldest products on the grocer's shelf.

It is also one of the most useful, especially in rich yet light whipped desserts.

Two such desserts are "Frozen Lemon Pudding" and "Frozen Pineapple Dessert."

To make the first, chill until icy cold three-fourths cup evaporated milk. Do this by putting the milk in a freezer tray and chill it just until crystals begin to form around the edges.

Mix together two well-beaten egg yolks, six tablespoons sugar, one-fourth cup lemon juice, and one-half teaspoon grated lemon rind. Cook this mixture over boiling water until thickened for about three minutes. Cool. Beat until stiff the two egg whites and beat in 2 tablespoons sugar. Fold this into the cooled lemon mixture and chill. Rub the bottom and sides of a refrigerator tray with butter. Prepare three-fourths cup of vanilla wafe crumbs and spread half of them in the bottom of the tray.

Whip the chilled milk until stiff and fold into lemon mixture. Pour into tray and sprinkle remaining crumbs on top. Freeze until firm, and serve, topped with a marachino cherry.

For the pineapple dessert, chill two-thirds cup milk using the above method. Mix until smooth one-half cup powdered sugar, three tablespoons soft butter, two tablespoons lemon juice, and a dash of salt.

Whip milk until fluffy and beat in the powdered sugar mixture one-fourth at a time. Stir in one cup crushed pineapple (do not drain, add juice and all). Fold in six graham crackers which have been broken into inch-size pieces.

Place the mixture into a quart-size freezer tray and sprinkle over the top one-third cup graham cracker crumbs.

Freeze until firm and garnish each serving with additional crushed pineapple and a marachino cherry.

Here is an easy way to make Corn Fritters using biscuit mix and evaporated milk. For a dozen, mix one-half cup biscuit mix with two teaspoons sugar. Add one well-beaten egg yolk and three tablespoons milk. Mix thoroughly and fold in two-thirds cup cooked whole kernel corn, drained, if using canned corn. However, the fritters are much better using fresh corn.

Drop by teaspoons into two inches of hot fat and fry until brown. Drain and serve hot with honey, maple syrup, or your preference.

Civic Players to Close Best Season Yet With 'The Fifth Season' May 10

"The Fifth Season" a human comedy by Sylvia Regan, will be the final Civic Players production of the most successful season in its 48 years of activity.

The play will run for six nights at the Fine Arts Center Theater, beginning May 10th.

The scene of this human comedy is the plush showroom-and-office of two partners in the clothing business who have some gorgeous models, beautiful furnishings, and NO business. They live from one minute to the next in fear of bankruptcy, then mortgage their shirts to put on a good show for a prospective buyer. It is the models, rather than the clothes, that sell the biggest buyer of them all and pull the partners out of the hole. Meanwhile the fast life snarls both partners in love affairs, and nearly wrecks the marriage of the younger before he snaps out of it.

The cast consists of: Joe Gramza, considered an "old pro" for his many performances for Civic Players, plays the part of "Johnny Goodwin." "Frances Goodwin" will be played by Bonnie Cook Johanson who has appeared in three previous shows for Civic Players.

Keith Nelson, a favorite performer for Civic Players will be making his 10th appearance in the part of "Max Pincus." Dusty Loo as "Marty" needs no introduction to theater goers in Colorado Springs.. He was last seen in "Come Blow Your Horn" Carolyn Brovsky is the attractive secretary "Shelly", who is making her second appearance for Civic Players. "Gino Ferrilli", a Fashion Designer, is employed by Vincent Palmiere, who is making his third appearance in this show.

Albert French plays "Miles Lewis" in "The Fifth Season which will be his third appearance. He is chairman of the English Department of School District 3 and at present presents the Syndicated Radio Program "Candle Light Cameos". Elaine Lendt is making her first appearance as "Lorraine", however, she has had theatrical experience in summer stock with the Middlebury players, Middlebury, Vt. and Civic Theater of Omaha, Nebr.

Orvis Grout, director of Civic Players anticipates a large attendance for his last show of the season and suggests that early ticket reservations be made by phoning 633-3003.

During the run of this final show, present members of Civic Players will be given an opportunity to renew their memberships for the 1965-66 season and will be given preferential treatment as to choice of seats and preferred nights.

Denver Museum to Open Exhibit on Indian Art

"American Indian Art Before 1850", a major exhibition is scheduled for May 2 through Sept. 19 at the Denver Art Museum's Chappell House, 1300 Logan St. on Capitol Hill.

This will be the first time that an entire exhibit has ever been devoted to early Indian material of the pre-camera period. Such early material is not common, and generally each museum has only a few dozen pieces.

Norman Feder, Curator of American Indian and Native Arts Department, assembled the exhibition, personally selecting choice and rare specimens which were borrowed from fourteen leading museums plus notable private collections. Among museums lending objects are the United States National Museum, the American Museum of Natural History the Museum of the American Indian-Heye Foundation, and the Peabody Museums of Cambridge and Salem.

The year 1850 was chosen as the terminal date of the show because it was before the days of the camera, before Colorado statehood, and because it marked the beginning of westward expansion brought on by the California Gold Rush. In fact, before 1850, the only people in the western United States were a few Spanish settlers in the Southwest and the fur traders trading for beaver before 1832 and for buffalo up to about 1860. The major portion of the West was little known and not settled.

Some of the highlights of the exhibition are examples of material collected by famous people George Catlin; Lewis Henry Morgan, one of the first anthropologists; Stephen R. Riggs, an early missionary to the Sioux; and objects colleccted on early expeditions by Wilkes and Gibbs.

The exhibition will demonstrate that American Indians, using the limited natural material available, were able to develop and elaborate and colorful decorative art.

The exhibition, which should have great appeal not only to all Rocky Mountain residents; but also to summer tourists, is open to the public free of charge during the following hours; Sundays, 2 to 5; Mondays, 1 to 5; Tuesdays through Saturdays, 9 to 5. Exceptions are holidays: July 4, when the Museum will be closed all day; and Memorial Day and Labor Day, when the hours are 2 to 5 p.m.

AFA Slates Children's Concert

Boys and girls, the Air Force Academy Band wants YOU wants you to attend a special young people's concert Sunday, May 9, at 3 p.m. in the Arnold Hall theater.

The entire concert will be based on selections specifically written for children.

Highlighting the program will be a medley of tunes from "Marry Poppins" and the complete score of "Peter and the Wolf", transcribed from the original orchestral score by MSgt. Dick Hubbard.

Band commander, Capt. Herman G. Vincent, explained the unusual concert is designed "for the musical edification of young concert goers" but the music to be played has a universal appeal.

Capt. Vincent also leaked confidential information that there will be a flock of musical surprises for concert goers (the youngsters and Mom especially).

Although the music was written primarily for children", the Band commander added, "'youngsters' from one to 100 will find the program just right for them."

Antique Gun Collection On Display at Bank Here

More than forty antique handguns and rifles are included in the collection now on display in the lobby of The Colorado Springs National Bank. Valued at more than $10,000, the early day relics of the Old West have been acquired as a hobby by Charles H. Cell, 406 East Unitah, over the past 35 years.

Featured are such frontier guns as the Winchester model 1876, 45-60 caliber "buffalo" rifle, the brass frame rim - fire Henry 44 caliber, and the "gun that won the West", the 1873 Winchester. Of unusual interest is the Burnside carbine, model 1864, 56 caliber, issued to federal troops in the West during the Civil War.

Included in the group of hand guns shown are matched derringers, pearl-handled "long-john" pistols, and snub-nosed heavy-duty revolvers. Many of the guns are in "mint" condition which accounts for the high value placed on the collection.

Cell, a native of Colorado Springs, works for the Benbow-Cobb Pluming and Heating Company, and is an active member of the Pikes Peak Gun Collectors' Guild. While on active duty with the Navy in World War II, Cell placed the guns in the bank vault for safekeeping. A Remington 44 caliber frontier pistol, purchased in 1930 for $7.50, is now appraised at $300.

The public is invited to see the gun collection which will be on display in the bank lobby during regular banking hours until the end of May.

Together Music-Filled Revue

GO-GO, 20s STYLE — Grandma and Grandad didn't have to do The Twist, The Watusi or The Swim. No siree, they had the Charleston and it ran wild and wooly and during the Dads and Daughter Show, this quartet will demonstrate just what it was all about. From left are Elizabeth Rodgers, Naomi Paddon, Kris Urig and Barbara Freeb.

BROTHER ACT—Actually only two of the boys are brothers —that is to each other. The remainder, including the two, are also brothers to the daughters who will be performing with their dads in the show. At any rate, rehearsing "Kids, What's the Matter With Kids today?" are, from left, John Rodgers, Eddie Urig, Stephen Rodgers, John Abrahams, Clayton Dinmore and Chris Paddon.

Brothers and Moms Also Pulled Into the Action

Take a bunch of Daughters with music on their minds, add some Dads with time on their hands, mix in some reluctant brothers and busy mothers and you have a unique revue to be presented here next wek.

It's called the Dads and Daughters Revue and it's being staged by Benet Hill Academy next Friday and Saturday in the Margery Reed theater at the Penrose Hospital nursing residebce.

The revue is a fun-filled program of musical highlights of the past century.

It was the brainchild of some of the students and parents headed by Ed Rodgers, producer and director who selected a sequence of song hits through the years.

The revue was approached from the professional level and when the participants realized what they had, they decided to open the show to the public.

The Dads and Daughters musical revue is divided into three acts: The first, "Gaslight Square," features music from the late 1800's; the second, the Roaring Twenties in song and "Charleston Square," depicts the Roaring Twenties in song and dance; and the third, "Just Square," highlights modern show and pop tunes.

The enthusiasm generated during rehearsals by both the girls and their fathers indicates a successful and entertaining production.

Since the production is now aimed above the line of "just another high school play" and since it's incorporating the talents of both students and adults experienced in amateur and professional productions, it will be presented as a benfit show for the Benet Hill building fund. The girls are endavoring to solicit patrons and sponsors to help support the revue.

Committee chairman include Mrs. Ed Rodgers, public relations and promotion; Mrs. Jean Kruse, costumes; Mrs. Edward Vrig, fund solicitation; Mrs. Mary Delaney, properties; and Mrs. Lou Freeh, tickets and usherettes.

Mrs. Freeh points out that tickets, at $2, $1.75, and $1.25, went on sale this week. They can be obtained from her (2442 N. Circle Drive, telephone 634-2086), or from Claussn's Book Store, 107 E. Bijou street, the Benet Hill students, or from the academy, all in Colorado Springs.

Dads and Daughters gives evidence of being a delightful spring tonic entertainment revue for residents in the Pikes Peak region.

Custom Men Find Weighty Problems

The usually imperturbable British custom officers at London Airport were thrown into a dither one night recently with the arrival there of the 60-man crew of the much-traveled film unit of Paramounts "The Spy Who Came In From The Cold."

After 13 weeks of studio and location filming in Ireland and Germany, the unit's charter flight from Munich landed at midnight, its complement overtired and overweight from its recent bout with Bavarian cuisine.

Observed in the luggage spread out for customs inspections:— in addition to the usual new cameras, undeveloped amateur film, cigarettes, cigars and cognac, were such items as wildly colored Irish tweeds, Bavarian dolls, beer steins, a haunch of smoked venison and fourteen pounds of authentic knockwurst.

But this is only a temporary respite. After a week at Shepperton Studio near London, the unit will begin filming again in various London locations for a week, then will travel to Noorwijk, Holland, near Amsterdam, for ten days of further locations. On or about May 3rd, the film company will return to home base at Shepperton for the final wrap-up.

"The Spy Who Came In From The Cold" is a Salem Films Ltd. production starring Richard Burton, Claire Bloom and Oskar Werner. It is produced and directed by Martin Ritt from the best-selling novel by John Le Carre. The screenplay is by Paul Dehn.

Dogs Preferred

Dogs are preferred by five times as many people as cats according to the Parker Pen Co. At least this is the ratio of interest among people applying for a pen pal at the Parker Pavilion.

Best Wreck Not on Film

Howard Hawks' "Red Line 7000" is full of race car crack-ups, but one of the worst won't be shown on the screen because, ironically, it was not in the script.

The wipe-out occurred as driver Ron Hornaday, doubling for actor John Robert Crawford, hit the straightaway at 100 miles an hour while filming a racing scene at Ascot speedway for the Paramount Pictures release.

After passing the camera, Hornaday's stock car went into a long slide, spun, and crashed into a wall at the turn. Although the $13,000 Ford was demolished, Hornaday escaped without serious injury.

Easy to Be Snowbound if You're a Radio Engineer

When John Greenleaf Whittier wrote his famous poem "Snowbound" he probably didn't have mountain-top FM and TV installations in mind . . . but he might have if he were a Colorado Springs broadcaster.

The Cheyenne Mountain - top transmitter sites of KKFM-FM and KCMS-FM (as well as KRDO-TV and KKTV-TV) were snowed in this week by drifts of up to four and a half feet.

Dick Thompson, KKFM-FM's engineer, who went up the mountain road early Sunday, was bulldozed out late Wednesday and Bob Blauvalt, KRDO-TV and consultant to KCMS and others, had been snowbound from Saturday evening until the writing of this column Thursday.

KCMS and KKFM were both off briefly according to Blauvalt probably due to a power surge or other difficulty . . . but other than this, operation has been fairly normal.

Charlie Upton, KRDO chief engineer, recalls the time a short time after Cheyenne Mountain became a broadcast site in Sept. of 1959 when he was forced to stay on the mountain from Wednesday to Saturday due to snow. During this same time Herb Schubarth, now of KBTR in Denver, slid off the road and stayed all night in the cab of his four wheel drive vehicle until he was rescued in the morning by a Weasel from Ft. Carson followed by an ambulance where he was treated for mild hunger pains and a bad cold.

Now KKFM and KRDO's sites are equipped with thermostatically controlled heat, hot and cold running water, stove, refrigerator, and a freezer stocked with food to last about 10 days.

There were a few difficulties this time.

The snow collapsed the roof of the shed that housed the snow tractor and had to be shoveled out, Blauvalt ripped the seat of his pants shoveling snow, and and a snow - bound mouse invaded the kitchen . . . but other than this, the biggest problem Blauvalt and Thompson have is how to spend their windfall overtime pay.

'Bushbaby' Travels in High Style

DUBLIN — Richard Burton's Dublin entourage of wife, children, tutor, chauffeur, valet and secretaries, in residence at the local Gresham Hotel while he is filming Martin Ritt's "The Spy Who Came In From The Cold," was augmented in the last few days by Leamas, a bushbaby, which was banished to the Dublin Zoo after 24 hours of chewing on Burton's ear, and more recently by Mabel, a three-month-old Alsatian Collie.

Mabel was discovered at 8 a.m., galloping on the road between Dublin and Bray, while Burton was enroute to the studio and was quickly enticed into the actor's Rolls Royce. She is now in residence on a more or less permanent basis in Burton's Admore Studios dressing room where she is being trained by the actor to bite visiting journalists, critics, fellow cast members and members of the film's publicity department. So far, she hasn't bitten Burton.

Kuhn Show to Run Through Wednesday at Arts Center

A group of small paintings by the eminent artist Walt Kuhn depicting the "Imaginary History of the West" are being shown at the Fine Arts Cnter through Wednesday.

The paintings by Kuhn, who is considered one of the foremost contemporary painters, are from the Fine Arts Center's permanent collection. The group of 29 were given to the Fine Arts Center in 1951 by the artist's daughter and widow, Brenda and Vera Kuhn.

The series of pictures were painted by the artist between 1918 and 1923, before his career was formed.

The paintings are all imaginary scenes from the West, none of them recording or depicting any specific incident. All, however, impart the excitement and drama of the "Old West" from the bloodiest Indian fight to the bawdiest night life.

Kuhn developed an intense interest in the West at an early age and steeped himself in reading stories of cowboys and Indians and talking to old-timers who were there.

As a youth he left his New York home to wander the Western states, landing in San Francisco before the earthquake.

The Fine Arts Center owns two other Kuhn paintings, the famous "Trio" which hangs in the theater lounge and "Red Apples."

Search for 1st Edition

Paramount Pictures is currently engaged in a nationwide search for the rare, signed first edition of Daniel Defoe's classic novel, "Moll Flanders."

Vyvyan Holland, son of the famed English author Oscar for Paramount's forthcoming "The Amourous Adventures of Moll Flanders," informed star Kim Novak that his father once owned the priceless book but it disappeared following his death. The edition bears the Defoe signature and inscription in faded ink on the flyleaf.

Miss Novak, who befriended Mr. Holland, during the making of the picture, is most anxious to return the book to him. Any one with knowledge as to the whereabouts of this edition of "Moll Flanders" should contact Paramount Pictures, 1501 Broadway, New York City.

Pollack Set To Direct New Film

Sidney Pollack has been signed to direct Paramount's forthcoming drama, "Call Me Back," starring Sidney Poitier and Elizabeth Ashley, which is scheduled to start filming June 7 on location in Seatlle, Washington.

The film will mark Pollack's motion picture debut. He has been working in television for the past three years and won "Emmy" nominations for his work on the "Ben Casey" and "Chrysler Theatre" programs.

From an original story and screenplay by Stirling Silliphant, "Call Me Back" will be produced by Steve Alexander. The story, which explores the interior world of a potential suicide, was suggested by an article in Life Magazine.

Stamps in the News

Sir Winston Churchill, man of the century, will be honored with a U. S. commemorative stamp May 13, the 25th anniversary of his "blood, toil, tears and sweat" speech to the House of Commons.

First-day ceremonies will take place at Fulton, Mo., where, on the campus of Westminister College, Churchill made his famous "Iron Curtain" speech in 1946. The college now is erecting a memorial to Sir Winston by reconstructing a bombed-out medieval church, shipped from London, which will serve as the college chapel.

The new 5-cent stamp will feature a portrait of Churchill based on the "Angry Lion" photograph by Yosuf Karsh of Ottawa, Canada. At the top of the stamp is the name "Churchill."

Collectors desiring first - day cancellations may send addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Fulton, Mo. 65251. The envelope to the Postmaster should be endorsed "First-Day Covers Churchill Stamp." Requests must be postmarked not later than May 13.

The Second 1965 edition of the Harris "Stamp Collector's Guide" is a handy 64-page booklet for new or advanced collectors. Featured is an extensively illustrated section on U.S. with the latest prices. The Guide also lists prices and descriptions for many world-wide stamps. Copies of this new edition may be obtained free of charge from H. E. Harris & Co., Box A, Boston, Mass. 02117.

The British island of St. Vincent in the West Indies has issued a new set of stamps commemorating the 200th anniversary of its Botanic Gardens. There are four stamps in the set. The Botanic Gardens were founded in 1765 to promote the cultivation of useful plants in the West Indies. Captain Bligh's expedition to Tahiti to procure breadfruit plants for cultivation in these gardens resulted in the mutiny of his crew on H.M.S. Bounty. Bligh's ship, the Providence, appears on one of these new stamps. Other designs show a mosaic of tropical fruits, scene in the Botanic Gardens and a Talipot palm in flower. The Talipot blooms only once every 40 years and then the tree dies.

Austria has announced that the new stamp originally scheduled to honor President Dr. Adolph Scharf's 75th birthday on April 20 will be scheduled for a later date with a black border. Dr. Scharf died recently in Vienna.

Winston Churchill Film To Be Shown at Broadmoor

"The Finest Hours," a dramatic film on the late Sir Winston Churchill, will have its Colorado Springs premiere at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Broadmoor Hotel theatre.

The showing, sponsored by the Colorado Springs Branch of the English-Speaking Union, is open to members and their guests. Admission will be $1.50. Regular showings of the film begin on Wednesday.

Sir Winston, an honorary citizen of the United States, is the subject of what critics have called one of the most absorbing productions ever made. Orson Welles will narrate the Jack LeVien production directed by Peter Baylis. Victor Wolfson wrote the screenplay.

"The Finest Hours" tells Churchill's own story as he recorded it in his memoirs of World War II. It reveals in color the events that moulded the character of Sir Winston and enabled him to express the sentiments and resolves of the British nation in the supreme crisis of its life.

Alone in the days of disaster, inspired by his leadership, the British people held back one of the most ruthless enemies ever known.

Historical events made Churchhill great, but this character and his indomitable will shaped the events. This is the theme of "The Finest Hours." In another sense, the film is the story of man's triumph over evil; of a gallant warrior who led, at first alone and finally in concert with others, the forces of freedom to victory.

The production underlines Churchill's intellect, his humor, his wit and his eloquence. It reveals his tough - mindedness and gentleness, his wide tastes, his fierce loyalties and his great heart.

SCSC Drops Opera Set For Festival

The operatic presentation "Cavalleria Rusticana" scheduled for presentation in the sixth annual SCSC Fine Arts Festival, has been cancelled.

The cancellation was announced jointly by James Duncan, acting head of the music department, and Donald W. Rude, chairman of the Fine Arts Festival planning committee.

Rude said the opera was cancelled because negotiations with the principal singers could not be effectively completed.

Rude expressed gratitude to those students and faculty members who had worked diligently in preparation for the production scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday in the SCSC Little Theater.

A substitute program will be announced later.

'Virginian' Renewed for Fourth Year

"The Virginian," NBC-TV's 90-minute color adventure series, will start its fourth successive season next Fall.

The same stars will return: James Drury in the title part, Lee J. Cobb as Judge Garth, Doug McClure as Trampas, Clu Gulager as Deputy Ruker and Randy Boone as Randy. A new executive producer will head the staff. He is Norman Macdonnell, who was executive producer of "Gunsmoke" for nine years on TV and radio.

The locale of "The Virginian" is Shiloh, a large ranch owned by the judge. It is near the town of Medicine Bow, Wyoming. Much of the action takes place in and near the ranch and in Medicine Bow, as well as in adjacent towns and areas.

"The Virginian" set a pattern of success with its 90-minute format and its large - scale production of a Western series. The only major change for the new season will be the new executive producer. The former executive producer, Frank Price, will have the same position on "Convoy," a new NBC-TV series.

Macdonnell, born and raised in Pasadena, started his career as a tour guide for CBS. He served in several jobs there until he became staff producer-director of radio programs. Among his radio credits are "Escape," "Suspense," "Philip Marlowe" and "Lux Summer Theatre." In 1952 he became producer of Gunsmoke." Some non-Westerns with which he has been associated on TV are "Playhouse 90" and "Kraft Suspense Theatre."

"'The Virginian' is a well-conceived and very successful show, and I'm very excited about it," Macdonell said. "I don't plan any major changes, but there may be one of two cast additions or changes as the season progresses. And we might even find a personal name for 'The Virginian'," he adds.

First Swing Then Ring

Gail Hire, starring in Howard Hawks production of "Red Line 7000" for Paramount Pictures release, has a sign on her dressing room door Reading, "Si Non Convivare, Noli Tintinnare." It's a fine old saying that means, "If you don't swing, don't ring"

Gail, incidentally, is a real swinger in her hip role as one of the gals who creates romantic complications for a trio of stock car racing drivers. Others in the cast include Laura Devon, James Caan, Charlene Holt, Norman Alden, John Robert Crawford and Marianna Hill.

Which Way ? ?

Although the moon seems to rise in the east and set in the west, it actually is traveling in an eastward direction, according to The Book of Knowledge. This is because as the earth spins on its axis eastward, everything in the sky seems to move in the opposite, or westward direction.

Taos Prepares to Mark Its 350th Anniversary

The historic town of Taos, N.M. — famous as an art colony and the site of the largest still - occupied, multi-storied Indian Pueblo in the world — is celebrating the 350th Anniversary of the first white settlement in "Taos Country," 1615-1965.

During the months of June, July and August, TAOS will be the scene of numerous historical observances and special events, such as: Taos - Chihuahua Trail Trade Fair; Fiesta and Historical Pageant; Art Fair and Art Shows; Musical Concerts, traditional and contemporary; Fashion Shows — Historical and contemporary Southwest; a Southwest Ladies' Fair; Forest Service displays and lectures; Flower Shows and Garden Tours; an All - Indian Rodeo; and a host of other features, including a gay Historical Costume Ball. The many traditional fiestas and Ceremonial Dances will be observed at the Taos Pueblo just three miles north of Taos.

As a collector's item and memorial keepsake of the 350th, Taos has produced a Commemorative Coin, designed by artist Paul Keith of Taos, in both Bronze and Silver editions.

The Taos Coin Club, A.N.A., T.N.A., is sponsoring its first annual Coin Show and Bourse today and Sunday, in the main ballroom of the Kachina Lodge & Motel.

As a special attraction, a Federal Reserve Currency Exhibit will be on display, showing samples of all currency ever produced by the United States Mint, in all sizes and denominations.

Featured will be the Taos Commemorative Coin just produced for the 350th Anniversary. Said by coin club members to be of unusual artistic excellence, the coin is 1½ inches in diameter, heavyweight, and comes in two editions — an oxidized Bronze, unlimited, which will sell locally for $1, $1.25 each if shipped; and a limited, numbered issue in Silver, to sell locally for $11 which includes $1 Federal Excise Tax, and $11.50 each if shipped, to cover insurance and mailing. P.O. Box 445. The executive board is comprised of leading Taos citizens: Fernando Baca, Jack Brandenburg, Richard Grainger Mabel Kuykendall, W. B. McCollum and Terry Moynihan.
